BAIT FOR STEEL RAILS DANGLED BY PRESIDENT

Confers on Prices to Spur Competition.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt was plied with an abundance of advice today on how to make the faltering recovery program work.

The sound money group in the treasury department urged the President to stabilize the dollar even at a 35 per cent devaluation and put an end to the fears of currency inflation, which are held to be paralyzing industry and nullifying the efforts of the government to expand credit.

Not until the President makes a statement dispelling the uncertainties regarding his monetary program can a large scale revival of industry and a more liberal loaning policy by the banks be expected, according to the views of this group.

As the Farmers See It.

Representatives of five organizations told Mr. Roosevelt that the agricultural adjustment act has failed to raise the price level of farm products and declared the restoration of farmers' purchasing power within the next 90 days imperative.

They called on the President to make good his purpose to enable farmers to discharge their debts in dollars of the same value as those they borrowed in the twenties. Asserting that what they want is not "cheap money" but relief of the "dear money," they refrained from specifically urging currency inflation.

Negotiates Steel Deal.

In between doses of advice on these economic problems the President staged a demonstration of the operation of the new régime of government domination of all business activities. As "honest broker" he opened negotiations with the steel producers, who are now regulated by the NRA, for cheaper prices of steel rails to be purchased by the railroads, now being coordinated by the government, with funds loaned by the public works administration.

Mr. Roosevelt did his dickering with Myron Taylor, chairman of the board of the United States Steel corporation; Eugene Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel company; L. E. Block, chairman of the board of the Inland Steel company, and Arthur Roeder, receiver of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company, whom he had invited to Washington for the purpose. He was assisted in the bargaining by Joseph B. Eastman, federal railroad coördinator, and Donald Richberg, general counsel of the NRA.

Millions of Tons.

The President told the steel men that the prices they are charging for steel rails are entirely too high and must be lowered materially if they expect to obtain any large orders from the railroads with funds loaned by the government. He dangled before them the bait of orders aggregating between 6 and 7 million tons of rails if a satisfactory price arrangement could be made. Specifically he proposed that the steel producers enter into competitive bidding for the business and he emphasized that it must be honest to goodness competition. The steel men accepted the terms.

"We are out of orders," said Mr. Taylor when the group came out of the executive office, "and we are prepared to bid on any business that is offered us."

Mr. Grace said his own and other companies would bid against United States Steel.

Bugaboo of Inflation.

The President is hearing from all sides the argument that his colossal recovery program will not function as expected until the fears of inflation are removed and the dollar is stabilized.

The first effects of immediate stabilization of the dollar at the present level of depreciation might be somewhat deflationary, it is conceded. Many holders of securities and commodities, feeling that the dollar was once more secure, might be impelled to liquidate their possessions and return to holdings of cash. Whatever deflation resulted, however, would be less harmful, it is argued, than is the present uncertainty, and it could be largely offset by the governmental use of the profits derived from devaluation.

The federal reserve banks now hold 3 billion 591 million dollars of gold, valued at the old legal standard. These holdings, revalued in terms of a dollar worth 65 per cent of its old gold content, would amount to about 5 billion

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Heavy losses of life, still officially uncounted, and tremendous property damage wrought in the oil port of Tampico by last night's hurricane were reported to the Mexican capital tonight.

At the department of the interior Secretary Eduardo Vasconcelos said the number of dead "cannot be stated exactly." From Tampico itself the military chief of the district reported by wireless that "three-quarters" of the city was destroyed and "many" were dead and injured.

Fear 5,000 Are Dead.

At the department of interior unofficial estimators feared the toll would run into the thousands, perhaps 5,000. Meanwhile, from the S. S. Sapinero came an estimate of 200 dead and extensive property damage, with hundreds homeless.

[The Sapinero, according to shipping records, sailed from New Orleans Sept. 17 for Tampico and Barcelona, Spain.]

The estimates of thousands dead were made by officials at the interior department in "unofficial" or "semi-official" capacity on the basis of information then at hand. Capital newspapers appeared with reports that 5,000 had been killed.

Declares Martial Law.

The only direct official report from Tampico was from Gen. Anselmo Macias, military chief of the district, who said the storm had caused a "tremendous catastrophe" and martial law had been declared.

The report of Gen. Macias said:

"More than three-quarters of Tampico completely destroyed. Solid and wooden houses of all kinds were wrecked. Many dead and injured. Forces under my command are affording aid to an enormous number of people who are asking help. For the safety of the city I have declared martial law."

Steamer Relays Message.

A message to Gen. Vasconcelos said:

"A majority of the port was destroyed and it is difficult to describe the ruin caused."

These messages were relayed from an improvised wireless station on the steamer Tabasco in Tampico to Vera Cruz. From the latter city they were telegraphed here.

Vasconcelos issued the following statement:

"Official information from Tampico says the hurricane caused enormous damage reaching proportions of a disaster both in the number of dead and injured, which presently cannot be stated exactly. The material damage also is incalculable."

President Appeals for Aid.

President Rodriguez, who is on a vacation at Tehuacan, issued an appeal to all state governors and to all citizens of the republic asking them to aid the storm sufferers and to send monetary contributions to the Bank of Mexico.

Ciudad Victoria also was reported to have suffered heavily, with floods threatening the entire north central region as torrential rains poured down as far west as the Gulf of California.

Dispatches from Cardenas, 175 miles west of Tampico, said 20 persons drowned in Cardenas and more than 200 were injured. The entire city was flooded.

Telegrams to the newspaper Excelsior from Tampico by way of Cardenas reported that the civil hospital, the railroad station and the customs house at the oil port had collapsed and that all low parts of the city were flooded. The water in some places rose over the tops of railroad cars.

Two trains on the line between Tampico and Cardenas were reported completely covered by water.

Fear Hundreds Buried Alive.

Another report from Cardenas said nearly every building in Tampico was either destroyed or unroofed. It was feared hundreds had been buried alive when their homes collapsed.

Later dispatches from Cardenas said it was feared additional residents perished in that city when the railroad dam collapsed. A stream of mud six feet deep poured into the outlying sec-

U. S. Tax Quiz Hits Two Attorneys

Attorney John W. Ellis, who was a master in chancery for the Circuit and Superior courts for twenty-six years, and Attorney Henry L. Blim were ordered yesterday by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson to appear in court today and show cause why they should not be held in contempt of court.

This action was taken after United States Attorney Dwight H. Green had filed a petition asserting that Ellis and Blim, called as witnesses before the federal grand jury investigating alleged income tax frauds on the part of William H. Malone of Park Ridge, gave "evasive, false and misleading answers to the grand jurors."

Malone Now in Europe.

Malone, who was chairman of the Illinois tax commission from 1926 to 1930, and a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor in 1932, is now in Europe. Attorney Ellis in 1927 and in at least two succeeding years represented the Pullman company before the state commission in tax matters, and Blim appeared before the same commission to take care of tax adjustments for the Chicago Surface Lines.

For their work the attorneys received large fees. A transcript of their testimony before the grand jury filed with the petition yesterday showed clearly the government's attempt to prove that these fees were split with Malone or with other members of the state tax commission.

Attorneys Deny Fee Splitting.

Both attorneys denied any fee splitting of this kind, the testimony showed, although Attorney Ellis admitted without much quibbling that he had turned over $10,000 of a $15,000 fee in 1927 to a messenger who he supposed, but did not know, came from Malone. The money, according to his belief, was to be used in the 1927-1928 campaign of Len Small for governor, Ellis said.

Attorney Blim specifically denied any payments to Malone and told a story of what he had done with $7,500 of a $12,500 fee. When this story had been completed Special Assistant Attorney General Leslie E. Salter, the transcript showed, referred to it as a "fairy tale."

Third Lawyer Is Named.

Prosecutors Green and Salter announced that another "grand jury presentment," as yesterday's petition was called, will be filed before Judge Wilkerson today, calling for a contempt citation against a third attorney, Frank L. Tuttle. Tuttle was ordered to be in court with Attorneys Ellis and Blim today.

Ellis' method of paying "somebody" two-thirds of his $15,000 fee was related in the testimony before the grand jury. He told of getting the money on Jan. 7, 1927, from the Pullman company, which he had represented in connection with levies on capital stock.

The Testimony of Ellis.

He took the check to a bank and cashed it, but reported only $5,000 of the amount in his taxable income for the year, he testified. Questions and answers on the matter, taken from the transcript, follow:

Q.—We want to know what you did with the other $10,000? A.—Well, I spent it.

Q.—What was your purpose in taking the money out in currency? A.—Well, I have more matters before the local taxing bodies than before the state tax commission. At the time there were heavy campaign donations and the money went for campaign purposes.

After Attorney Ellis had explained that a bookkeeper on whom he depended had forged checks and had failed to keep his records properly, he said he had later paid income tax on the $10,000 also. The questioning was resumed.

Questioned on Distribution.

Q.—Now did you split this fee with any one, Mr. Ellis? A.—No, not in the sense of a split. It went in various ways, to various state, county, and municipal donations.

Q.—Whom did you give the $10,000 to? A.—Not to any one person.

Q.—But you didn't keep that money personally and use it? A.—No.

Q.—You distributed that money? A.—Yes.

HITLER TO MAKE GERMAN PRESS TOOL OF STATE

[Copyright; 1933: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Sept. 25.—A new press law will soon be promulgated and in all probability will make the German newspapers virtual instruments of the "totalitarian" state. The law also provides that the government shall take charge of the training of newspaper men and lay down the conditions, especially in points of political and theoretical conformity, on which they alone will be able to find employment.

The guide lines of the new legislation, as unofficially forecast, are that "in the new Nationalist state there is no room for the press in the old liberalist sense." The state will establish supervision of journalists, teach them their trade, see to their inoculation with the requisite dogma, and in short fit them for examination for admission to their vocation.

Candidates for admission to the course of instruction will have to give proof of pure "Aryan" descent. They must also, says a semi-official forecast, "be in possession of all those civic virtues that are prerequisite to admiration." Translated, this means that they must not be open to suspicion of opposition, but must subscribe to National Socialist tenets from A to Z before they can qualify.

One year's apprenticeship on the editorial staff of a German newspaper will be exacted before final admission to the profession. Furthermore the new press law will lay down precise instructions for editors of German newspapers concerning articles.

MERCURY RISES TO 90 DEGREES; SEPT. 25 RECORD

Yesterday was the warmest Sept. 25 Chicago ever experienced. The maximum of 90, registered on the official thermometer at noon, was also the highest mark ever reached so late in the autumn. The previous high for the date was 89, in 1920.

A shower shortly after noon drove the mercury down four degrees and there was a further recession to comfortable temperatures in the evening.

Forecaster W. P. Day said that the heat was brought in on southwest winds from Kansas and the other states of the central valleys, which have been baking under high temperatures for several days. Today's forecast is for showers and moderate temperatures, probably in the 70s.

Ring Lardner Is Dead After Long Illness

East Hampton, L. I., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Ring W. Lardner, author and playwright, died at his home here tonight of a heart ailment at the age of 48. He had been an invalid for several years and seriously ill for several weeks. He passed away in his sleep.

Since early this afternoon he had not regained consciousness. His wife and two of his sons, with Dr. Cornelius Tyson, his physician, were at the bedside when the end came.

The two sons are John, a reporter on the New York Herald-Tribune, and Ring Jr., a student at Princeton university. The two other sons, James, a student at Harvard university, and David, a student at Andover, were away at school.

Ailing for Several Years.

Mr. Lardner had suffered from a heart ailment for several years. In 1931 he went to Arizona seeking relief, and returned greatly improved in health. Last spring a recurrence of the illness sent him to California, where he spent several months. He returned some weeks ago to his home in East Hampton, and since then spent much of the time confined to his bed.

One of his physicians said that Mr. Lardner finally was permitted use of his typewriter "because he isn't happy unless he's working."

In a moment of whimsical autobiography, some years back, Ring Lardner explained that at various times in his life he had cherished three great ambitions. As a youth he wondered whether he would ever see enough baseball. Then, a little later and in a new period, he wanted to write stories for the magazines—and have them printed. Finally, in a more recent phase, he worried about whether he would ever have a play produced. He was successful in each of the three ambitions.

Popular as Novelist.

As a newspaper man and sporting reporter he saw all the baseball he liked—and, indeed, as he said afterward, more than that. But baseball led him into the magazine writing field and ultimately to the writing of the stories connected under such titles as "The Love Nest," "How to Write

5 SOVIET RAILWAY OFFICIALS JAILED BY MANCHUKUO

TOKIO, Sept. 25.—(AP)—A Rengo [Japanese] News agency dispatch from Harbin today said that Manchukuan police there had arrested five high soviet officials of the Chinese Eastern railway on charges of breach of trust.

A police communique said the arrests were without political meaning and that they were merely part of a campaign "to clean up the Chinese Eastern organization and to enable the railroad to operate efficiently."

Last Friday Russia lodged a protest with Japan, charging that that country, through Manchukuo, intended to disregard Russia's rights in the Chinese Eastern railway. The note said Manchukuo was "powerless and incapable of being responsible for events in Manchuria" and charged that the two countries intended "rudely to violate the rights of the soviet manager of the railway."

Turner Flies Across U. S. in 10 Hours

New York, Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Col. Roscoe Turner flew from Los Angeles to New York today in 10 hours 5 minutes 30 seconds. That set a new world's record not only for the transcontinental flight, but for the distance of 2,520 miles.

It was 1:38 a. m. eastern time when the flier rolled down the long runway at United airport, Burbank, Cal., just out of Los Angeles.

At 11:41 a. m. his golden monoplane roared out of the mist hanging over Floyd Bennett field. He circled to pick up the wind direction and landed at exactly 11:43.30. He had cut 13 minutes 30 seconds from the mark set in August, 1932, by James H. Haizlip during the national air races.

Glad Trip Is Ended.

As the golden monoplane rolled to a stop the flier's wife ran to him. "Grand," she cried, "You've broken the record."

Turner grinned. He had not heard her, but he was happy that the flight was ended. She leaned over and repeated the news.

"Well, it's about time," Turner said. "I've been trying it for five years. This time I put all my efforts together and the old Wasp did the trick."

Turner used a Wasp radial racing motor. His average speed was 250 miles an hour, including the time lost refueling. Computing that at slightly more than 45 minutes his fling time for the 2,520 miles was 9 hours and 50 minutes, an average speed of slightly more than 270 miles an hour.

"I figured I must fly from four and a half to five miles a minute to make a record," he said.

Starts Flight in Darkness.

The night was black overhead and the runway obscured by mist when he took off at Burbank field. He climbed to 11,000 feet before starting east. At two miles he was clear of clouds. Then he set his course for Cadiz in the Mojave desert. He crossed the Sierra Madre range at 270 miles an hour. Turner took a bearing from "Old Baldy" in the San Bernadinos.

Then somewhere over the Mojave desert he picked up a tail wind and his speed jumped to five miles a minute.

It was fine weather for flying and the pilot made the most of it for the first leg to Albuquerque. He checked his course on the jagged peaks of the Needles, pushed up to 14,000 feet and checked again at Holbrook, Ariz. He was ahead of his schedule, but still he held the furious pace.

Two Hours—600 Miles.

Across the Hopi Indian reservation he held on his way through the sky keeping the beacons of the transcontinental airway well to the north, because he "didn't want to catch up with or meet one of these air liners." He flew on to Albuquerque for gas and oil. At that point he had made more than 600 miles in two hours and ten minutes, an average of 300 miles an hour, fastest time for so great a distance in the history of aviation.

Fifteen minutes later he was in the air bound for Wichita, Kas., to refuel. As he left that stop day was dawning.

Turner's plane flashed across the Mississippi at 2,000 feet; over Illinois he met the first rain.

At Indianapolis 15 minutes slipped away in refueling. It was 9:13 a. m. when he started on the last leg of the flight. Across Indiana and Ohio he struck belts of hot, choppy air waves and bounced sometimes 50 and sometimes 200 or 300 feet in the bumpy air.

Chip Flies from Chisel and Wife Loses Eye

Mrs. Edith Lee, 23 years old, 9510 Yale avenue, lost her right eye as a result of a freak accident which occurred yesterday in her back yard. She was watching her husband, Frank, and a roomer, Brocke Suggs, break up an old piano when a chip of wood flew from beneath a chisel and struck her in the eye. Physicians at the Burnside hospital removed the eye early today to prevent other complications.

gence unit of the bureau of internal revenue] that you put $10,000 in currency into an envelope and sent it to the state tax commission? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Well, are you able to tell this grand jury whom you paid this $10,000 to? A.—It was called for at my office.

Gives Money to Negro.

Q.—Who called for it? A.—I don't know the man; he was a colored man.

Q.—You knew whom he represented, did you not? A.—No.

Q.—You mean to tell this grand jury now, and they are intelligent men——. A.—I appreciate that.

Q.—That some colored man unknown to you——. A.—Yes.

Q.—Nobody told you he was coming? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—And you turned $10,000 in currency over to him? A.—Yes, sir, and I will tell you why if you want to know. I have gotten certain results without any questions, suggestion of money, or expectation of reward, from both the state commission and the local board of review, and I was told to expect somebody who would call for a certain amount of money about a certain time, and I was not to make any inquiries. I did not, and that is where it went.

Denies Mentioning Malone.

Q.—Who told you you would have a call from some one? A.—I don't remember. Some private secretary from one of the members of either the local board or the state board.

Q.—Then you knew, when you got this $15,000 fee, that you would have to give up $10,000 of it? A.—No; I knew I would have to give them part of it.

Q.—And didn't you tell Mr. Elmore and Mr. Converse that you wanted them to hold up until you paid the tax and kept your word with Mr. Malone? A.—No, sir, Mr. Malone was not discussed.

Q.—But you say under oath that Mr. Malone did not get any part of that money? A.—It would be mere conjecture. I never paid a dollar to Malone or any other member of the tax commission, or the board of review. Yet from year to year I made these contributions until it became unprofitable to do so.

Quizzed by Grand Juror.

Asked again how he knew when to have the money ready, Attorney Ellis said that "it probably was suggested to me by somebody." A grand juror interjected:

"That's what we want to know. Who was this somebody? I don't like to have my intelligence insulted this way."

The answer of Ellis was that there were five members of the state tax commission and all were politicians.

Q.—[By the jury foreman.]—All right, did all five ask you to give them $10,000? Is that right? A.—Just like the government—

Q.—I want to know who in hell asked for that money.

Foreman Speaks His Mind.

"I think it is due to the taxpayers to tell us the truth," he said. "We couldn't get our taxes cut that way. Why in hell can the Pullman company do it? When a man sits here and tells me he doesn't know where he gives out $10,000, I don't believe it."

When the relations of Ellis and the state tax commission, in connection with tax adjustments, were brought up Ellis related that he had gotten hearings on all the cases he took before the commission and added: "They gave me the valuations I asked to have."

Q.—In other words, they got $10,000 to do that for you? A.—I don't know whether they got it or not. I didn't give it to them.

Q.—Did any one outside of Malone suggest to you that $10,000 was needed by the Len Small campaign? A.—I couldn't say for sure, but I doubt it.

Believes It Went to Malone.

Q.—Now when that messenger came there for the $10,000, you believed he was a messenger from Malone and was taking it back to Malone? A.—Well, that was my belief.

Q.—You didn't turn loose of $10,000 to a strange colored man without knowing who sent him over there? A.—I have a good idea.

Q.—It was Mr. Malone? A.—If you are asking for my idea, you are not going to get me to go on the witness stand and say I paid Malone any $10,000.

Attorney Ellis told the grand jury, according to the transcript, that he had known Malone more than twenty years. Previous to 1925, he said, he had made all his contributions through another member of the board, the late Percy B. Coffin. Coffin resigned from the board in 1925 to become public administrator.

Questioning of Attorney Blim.

The questioning of Attorney Blim brought out that about Oct. 18, 1927, he deposited a $12,500 check in a bank and drew out $7,500 in cash the same day. The withdrawal, according to his grand jury testimony, was a personal and sentimental matter that "sounded silly." He was pressed to tell what it was.

"I have five children and the fifth was born Oct. 15, 1927," he said, according to the record. "Strange as it may seem, our children were not the result of chance but were deliberately invited. Mrs. Blim and I, when the last child came, had no money. Things were rather thin with me at that time.

"I was worried and my wife, who had great faith in her religion, said to me: 'Well, the good Lord will provide.' It was a foolish, sentimental thing to do, but I took that $7,500 to St. Anne's hospital and showed it to my wife. She told me to keep it. I used the money to buy things for the house and things like that."

Fairy Story, Says Prosecutor.

Q.—[By Mr. Salter.]—Will you pardon me for saying so, but that explanation sounds like a fairy story. A.—Well, I thought it would; that's what I told you.

Mr. Blim asserted, the testimony showed, that he had not turned over any money from this $7,500 to Malone.

When Mr. Salter pointed out that Malone had deposited $7,500 the day after Blim drew out the same amount, to show to his wife in the hospital, the attorney said it was just a coincidence.

BLIND MAN SHOT; CANE TAP DRAWS EYES OF ROBBER

For many years Rudolph Eckert, who is now 65 has been an inmate of the Illinois Industrial Home for the Blind, 1900 Marshall boulevard. His principal pleasure has been his evening chat with Miss Mary McCarthy, who sells tickets in the elevated station at 19th street and Marshall boulevard.

Last night, tapping his way with a white cane, Eckert arrived in the station. His conversation with Miss McCarthy had barely started when a man about 20 years old walked in and thust a pistol at her.

"Give me the money," he said. "This is a stickup."

Eckert, not knowing whether the bandit had seen him, moved toward the door. Perhaps he might have got away in silence, but he had to tap his cane on the floor to get his bearings. The robber heard this and fired on the blind man, wounding him in the right shoulder. Then the robber fled, without getting any money. Eckert was taken to the West Side hospital, where it was said his chance for recovery was good.

CHARGE ECONOMY SWAMPS SCHOOLS IN CONFUSION

A statement charging that the board of education's economy program had resulted in confusion and delayed education of children was issued yesterday by the "Save Our Schools committee," with headquarters at 185 North Wabash avenue. The committee had predicted before the schools opened that confusion would attend the reorganization of the school system.

"The committee has been deluged since the opening of school last Monday," read the statement, "with reports of confusion, lack of supplies, delayed programs, and inadequate and inferior school equipment."

The closing of the junior high schools and their conversion into senior high school plants, according to the statement, has overcrowded many elementary schools in their absorption of seventh and eighth grade students. In addition, many senior high schools have become congested because ninth grade pupils have been absorbed from the old junior high schools, it was charged.

U. J. Herrmann Elected Head of Library Board

U. J. [Sport] Herrmann was elected president of the Chicago public library board yesterday, and his predecessor, Andrew J. Kolar, was selected as vice president. Mr. Herrmann has been on the board for the last seven years. Contracts for 2,500 tons of coal to heat the library and branches were also awarded. The amount to be spent on fuel depends on the weather, according to Harry Wilson, secretary of the board. Last year $8,000 was spent on coal. The board voted to close the library on Oct. 3, American Legion day.

His wife, Florence, said he was carrying $400 in rent money when he vanished after making a collection at the Warwick building, 47th street and St. Lawrence avenue. He is 5 feet 4 inches tall and weighs about 120 pounds.

SAYS CITY COSTS MOUNT 143% IN 14 YEAR PERIOD

New York, Sept. 25.—(AP)—The cost of city governments increased 143 per cent from 1917 to 1931, Robert A. Crosby declared today. He is secretary of the Bridgeport, Conn., Chamber of Commerce and spoke to the National Association of Commercial Organization Secretaries here.

During the same period, he added, city governments' per capita cost increased 135 per cent and the increase of the general property tax levy per capita was 143 per cent.

Crosby said when a chamber of commerce attempts to combat that situation it "subjects the employers to blackmail from city employes and those interested in maintaining their positions."

"If the chamber of commerce is going to have any standing in the community," he declared, "it will be because it takes a stand on this problem."

SEN. COPELAND LOSES PANTS ON VISIT TO ERIE

Erie, Pa., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—The big city senator came to this not-so-large town and lost his pants.

And $400 in cash as well.

Dr. Royal S. Copeland of New York became the victim of a sneak thief while staying in the Hotel Lawrence, he reported to police. The thief unlocked room doors and stole the senator's trousers as well as those of his secretary.

The senatorial pants were found on the floor below that on which his room was located. Dr. Copeland's garment had contained his pocketbook with $400 in it, and the pocketbook of the secretary, also stolen, had contained $65.

Boeing Flies Here from Kansas City in Two Hours

An all time speed record for a transport plane between Kansas City and Chicago was set yesterday morning by a Boeing plane of United Air Lines, which carried ten passengers, mail and express. The plane flew from Kansas City to Chicago in one hour and 57 minutes, an average speed of 204 miles an hour for the 400 miles. The plane was piloted by C. T. Robertson and Boyd Grover. Martha Goodman was the stewardess.

MEN WHO MAKE BEER TELL BEST WAY TO DRINK IT

Don't Quaff It Ice Cold, Brewmasters Say.

A group of pre-prohibition brewmasters, meeting at the Germania club yesterday with the Master Brewers' Association of America, gave an informal lecture entitled: "How to Drink Beer." To gain full enjoyment of a foaming stein of brew is a real art, and the present general conception that beer should be quaffed while ice cold is "absolutely wrong," they said. And they went on thus:

The drinking of ice cold beer prevents the drinker from enjoying the "bouquet" of the brew upon which the taste largely depends. It also prevents the alcohol in the beer from being assimilated in the drinker's stomach because the temperature of the liquid prevents digestion. The demand for ice cold beer also forces the brewer to carbonate it highly so that it will foam properly when poured out cold.

Best Temperature Is 45 Degrees.

The best temperature for beer when it is to be served is 45 degrees Fahrenheit. At that temperature it foams properly and its volatile gases escape, insuring the drinker the full taste of the beer through the aid of his sense of smell.

"In Germany the beer drinker would never think of drinking his beer if it was colder than a temperature which here is the equivalent of 40 degrees Fahrenheit," said Robert Wahl, one of the oldest members of the Brewmasters' association and director of a Chicago brewing school.

"In Germany the real beer drinkers all carry thermometers in their pockets to test their beer. If its temperature falls below 40 degrees they not only will not drink the beer but they go out and get a policeman and have the proprietor of the restaurant or the owner of the beer garden arrested.

Why Americans Complain.

"To drink a stein of ice cold beer means that the drinker has a lump of ice on his stomach. It's so cold that he can't get a 'kick' out of it. This fact is probably one of the reasons Americans complain so much about beer as an insipid drink.

"Well—what finally happens?" Mr. Wahl asked himself as spokesman of a group of rotund master brewers who sat nodding their heads at his statements.

"The beer in the stomach finally warms up," he went on. "Then it gives off all its gas. The drinker becomes bloated. And that all is caused by the fact that the beer is overcarbonated to make it foam when poured out cold."

Oppose Old Time Saloon.

The master brewers are not directly concerned with the price of beer, government taxes on it, or the progress of repeal of the eighteenth amendment. They gathered yesterday to elect Frank P. van de Westelaken, master brewer of the Prima company, as president of their association.

The group, however, expressed hope that whisky and beer will never be sold together over the same bar. They said they are opposed to the return of the old time saloon. They added also that they hope to see the taxes on beer completely removed when hard liquor is legalized.

The alcoholic content of beer, after the repeal of the prohibition amendment, will be "stepped up" only a small percentage, most of the brewers agreed. They said that pre-prohibition beers varied between 3.75 per cent and 4.25 per cent in alcoholic content by weight.

NEW JERSEY POLITICAL LEADER DENIES HE GOT BEER SLUSH FUND

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 25.—(AP)—D. Frederick Burnett, counsel to the legislative committee investigating a charge that Jesse R. Salmon, Essex county Republican leader, accepted a $25,000 slush fund from a brewery to defeat pending beer legislation, told the committee tonight the testimony of witnesses did not substantiate the charge.

Burnett made his statement after Salmon, last witness before the committee, described the charge as "maliciously and venomously false."

"The subject matter has been unqualifiedly denied by Mr. Salmon," Burnett said. "There is no evidence to the contrary and there is nobody who says he got the money, who swears he got it. Therefore, there is no proof that Mr. Salmon got the money, and, therefore, I don't see the need for any further interrogation of this gentleman."

Senator Clifford R. Powell of Burlington, chairman, said:

PLAN TO GIVE 300 TEACHERS JOBS IN NIGHT SCHOOLS

McCahey Announces Aims for Dividing Work.

A new plan for the reemployment of teachers out of work in Chicago was announced yesterday by James B. McCahey, president of the school board. It is hoped that jobs for more than 300 teachers may be provided by the replacement of persons who are now on the board's pay roll for teaching both in day and night schools.

The educational department was asked for a list of the teachers in the night schools who also hold positions in the regular day schools. Dr. Charles J. Lunak, assistant superintendent of schools, in charge of the night school system, estimated that more than half of this staff also teach during the day.

There are 674 night school teachers, and educational department records reveal that only 22 replacements have been made in this branch of public instruction so far this year. Twelve additional teachers have been recommended and the report is pending before Supt. William J. Bogan.

No Extra Expense Necessary.

"There is no reason why any person employed by the school board should have two jobs," said Mr. McCahey. "We want to spread employment around as far as possible and this can be done with replacements in the night school staff. It will not mean any additional expenditures to the board.

"Some of the 1,300 teachers temporarily out of work because of the economy program who are taking intentive courses at the Chicago Normal college can be used in the night school classrooms."

Mr. McCahey declared that many of the high school teachers had objected to handling seven periods a day, an increase in the teacher load that is a point in the economy program, but that they liked to take additional work at night and in summer school for the extra compensation. In the six night schools operated by the board an elementary teacher receives $3 a night and high school teachers from $4 to $5.

Teacher Drops Two Suits.

Two mandamus suits on behalf of twenty-two teachers out of work because of the economy program were dismissed yesterday by Judge James J. Kelly in the Superior court. The actions were dismissed on the motion of John E. Groves, a mathematics teacher at Crane Technical High school, who had filed the suits. The suits asked that the school board be compelled to reinstate the teachers.

Mrs. W. S. Hefferan, the lone member of the school board opposing the retrenchment plans, asserted in an interview that the demoting of 165 principals was "the worst feature of the program." When the 1934 budget is prepared, Mrs. Hefferan said, she will demand appropriations for additional principals.

The board of directors of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs made public a resolution declaring that the school board had made drastic changes in the public school system affecting the opportunities of Chicago school children. The action was disapproved by the group. A letter from Mrs. F. H. Bradshaw, state chairman of education for the federation, was sent to Mr. McCahey. Mrs. Bradshaw said no detailed figures had been offered by the board to "support your claims for economy," and that the manner in which the program was carried out "calls for much criticism as being in violation of the fundamentals of democratic government."

HAMMER KILLING OF CASINO HEAD BAFFLES PARIS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 25.—The mysterious murder early this morning of Oscar Dufrenne, director of the famous Casino de Paris, municipal councillor and leading figure in the French theatrical world, completely baffled police tonight.

Dufrenne was found in his office in the Rue Montmartre with his head smashed in by repeated blows of a hammer and showing signs of strangulation. A score of detectives went over every inch of the premises without finding a substantial clue. The killer, who calmly washed his hands in a hidden washroom of the office, apparently was aided in escaping by the fact that Dufrenne had several entrances to the office, some of them secret. The getaway was easy despite the fact that the office adjoined the Palace theater, which was crowded at the time.

Police are looking for a young sailor who accompanied the theater magnate to the office early in the evening, the last occasion on which he was seen alive, and also for an agitated individual with scratches on his face who was seen in one of the numerous bars in the Rue Montmartre about the time of the crime.

Verne Miller, former sheriff of Huron, S. D., ex-convict, and leader of the Oklahoma gang of desperadoes responsible for many crimes, was identified at the detective bureau yesterday as one of the bandits who last Friday robbed the Federal Reserve bank mail and killed Policeman Miles Cunningham. His picture and that of George [Machine Gun] Kelly, were pointed out as likenesses of machine gunners in the mail holdup and murder.

Two prisoners held in connection with the Cunningham murder were turned over by the police to the government yesterday to prevent their being released through writs of habeas corpus. They are Gus Winkler, Chicago gang chief, who was found Sunday night living in a fashionable apartment building at 3300 Lake Shore drive under the name of M. J. Michael, and Joseph Bergl, owner of a garage in Cicero, who is a former partner of Winkler.

Gang Auto Is Chief Clew.

Writs were asked in behalf of Bergl and Mrs. Winkler, who was seized with her husband. Chief of Detectives Schoemaker informed the court that they had been turned over to the custody of Melvin Purvis, chief of the United States bureau of investigation. Neither Winkler nor Bergl has yet given any information regarding the Cunningham murder, Schoemaker said.

Bergl arranged to have bullet proof glass put in the automobile used by the murderers of Cunningham and to equip the car with a smoke screen apparatus, police siren and a red and a green headlight. So far, according to Chief Schoemaker, Bergl insists he had that work done at the request of a man known to him as Joe Miller—not Verne Miller.

Verne Miller, as well as Machine Gun Kelly, is being hunted as one of the principals in the $200,000 kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma oil millionaire, for which Harvey Bailey, one of his gangsters, and others are now on trial in Oklahoma.

Took Part in Massacre.

Police have also established the fact that both Verne Miller and "Machine Gun" Kelly participated in the Kansas City massacre in which four officers were killed and Frank Nash, a prisoner whom his pals were trying to rescue, was also slain. It was also established that Miller, Kelly, and others were involved in a recent mail robbery at St. Paul in which a policeman was killed.

The police at Peoria last night requested a detailed description of Kelly, stating they had under surveillance a man they suspected of being the notorious criminal. The description fitted in a general way and Mr. Purvis requested that finger prints be taken and compared with those of Kelly. The Peoria authorities indicated they would take the suspect into custody.

Winkler is known to be the connecting link between those Oklahoma gangsters and their Chicago allies. For some months past he has been living in hiding from the police, although it is known that he has a 20 per cent interest in a north side gambling house.

Phillips to Be Quizzed Again.

Besides questioning Winkler yesterday, government officials and police also decided to requestion Charles Phillips, owner of a garage at 3818 Roosevelt road, whose address was given by the purchaser of the automobile used by the bandits who killed Policeman Cunningham. Chief Schoemaker ordered him seized again.

The funeral of Policeman Cunningham was held yesterday from his home at 4731 Kiona avenue. The widow collapsed when six stalwart policemen started to carry the coffin from the home and it was some time before she could be assisted to an automobile to go to St. Edward's church at 4350 Sunnyside avenue, where Father Joseph LeMarbe sang a requiem high mass. The remains were then borne to All Saints cemetery in Des Plaines. After firing a rifle salute the pallbearers returned to the job of hunting down his slayers.

POLICEMAN HITS BANDIT ON JAW AND SEIZES HIM

Detective Ray Mahon of the Woodlawn station punched a young bandit on the jaw and captured him early yesterday when the robber tried to hold him up at 59th and Loomis streets. Detective Mahon, driving his own automobile, was bound home from work when he stopped for a traffic light at the corner. The bandit flourishing a revolver, jumped on the running board and then sprawled in the street when Detective Mahon disregarded the weapon and swung at him.

The captured robber gave his name as Francis Davis, 19 years old, 5814 South May street. He was identified as one of two hoodlums who shot and wounded Policeman Louis Loula, 33 years old, 7309 Vincennes avenue, when Loula resisted a holdup at Marquette road and Normal boulevard on Friday night.

New Scale Goes Into Effect Sunday.

A new uniform wage scale for pilots flying for the five leading air lines of the country was announced yesterday, to go into effect next Sunday, Oct. 1. The new scale will raise the pay of pilots employed on four of the air lines—American Airways, Eastern Air Transport, Transcontinental and Western Air Lines and Western Air Express—and will keep the pay of pilots employed by United Air Lines at last year's high level, officials of the five systems announced.

The new scale is being placed in effect while a wage controversy exists between officials of the five air lines and heads of the air line pilots' union. David L. Behncke, president of the union, is in Washington for a hearing before the national labor board today on a complaint that the companies are inciting their pilots to strike. Air line officials denied this charge when it was made last week.

What Pay Scales Provide.

Under the new wage scale the air line pilots will receive two kinds of income, base pay and hourly pay. The base pay starts at $1,600 a year and is increased at the rate of $200 a year to a maximum of $3,000 a year. This income is increased irrespective of the numbers of hours flown.

Hourly pay will be based upon the speed of the planes flown, the pay increasing as the speed increases. The hourly rate for planes flying up to 125 miles per hour is $4; 126 to 140 mph, $4.20; 141 to 155 mph, $4.40; 156 to 175 mph, $4.60; 176 to 200 mph, $4.80, and 201 mph and over, $5. In addition, pilots will receive $2 an hour for all night flying.

Co-pilots will receive $190 a month for the first six months, $210 a month for the second six months, and $225 a month thereafter. Both co-pilots and pilots will have expenses paid while away from their base and the air lines will pay part or all of their group insurance premiums.

United Air Lines to Pay Bonus.

On Dec. 31 United Air Lines pilots will receive a bonus in addition to the uniform wages which will bring their salaries for the year up to 1932 totals, officials of that line announced. On that date the bonus system will be reviewed.

Without the addition of the bonus the new wage scale will give the pilots an average income of $7,000 a year for flying 18 hours a week, and an average income of $7,700 a year for flying 21 hours a week, it was said.

Convention Opens

The men, who are considered the more adept in the art of military drill, might have taken a few lessons last night from fifteen crack drill teams of the Woman's Benefit association, fraternal organization, which opened its national convention in the ballroom of Navy pier. The teams, resplendent in colorful costumes, promenaded before 2,000 members of the association and friends. The convention will continue through tomorrow, closing with a banquet in compliment to Bina West Miller, national president, at the Congress hotel.

The Woman's Benefit association has a membership of 250,000, maintaining national headquarters in Port Huron, Mich.

The drill teams will perform this afternoon in the court of the Hall of Science at A Century of Progress.

WOMAN NOVELIST DIES IN HOTEL; INQUEST ORDERED

Sleeping Potion Fatal to Mrs. Williamson.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 25.—An announcement appeared today that Mrs. A. M. [Alice Muriel] Williamson, famous American born novelist, died in mysterious circumstances in a hotel in the city of Bath yesterday. An inquest was ordered after police had taken possession of sealed letters and a quantity of tablets found in her room.

An overdose of a sleeping potion is believed to have been the cause of her death. She was found in serious condition Saturday night. Physicians attempted to revive her. Her heart action was restored yesterday morning, but a collapse followed and Mrs. Williamson died.

Returned from Hollywood.

Friends declared the depression and her generosity left her in poor circumstances. She had just returned from an unsuccessful trip to Hollywood to sell three scenarios. In 1931 she gave Joan Crawford, motion picture star, a letter written in 1802 by Arthur Wellesley, the duke of Wellington who conquered Napoleon.

Mrs. Williamson came to England to observe the 13th anniversary of her husband's death, which occurred on Oct. 5, 1920. He was an Englishman and was buried at Bath. Mrs. Williamson was a spiritualist and said she had communicated with her husband since his death.

The couple, writing as C. N. and A. M. Williamson, produced many serials. They had a wide following both in Great Britain and America after the publication of their first novel, "The Lightning Conductor," in which an automobile figured for the first time. King Edward VII. is credited with saying the book induced him to buy his first motor car.

Novels Feature Motor Cars.

Several others of their 20 novels featured motor cars, among them "My Friend the Chauffeur," "The Car of Destiny," "Scarlet Runner," and "The Motor Maid." Among their other books were "The Princess Passes," "Lord Loveland Discovers America," "The Love Pirate," "It Happened in Egypt," "The War Wedding," and "The Lion's Mouse." After her husband's death Mrs. Williamson wrote eight novels including "The Lure of Monte Carlo," "The Indian Princess," "Name the Woman," and "Alice in Movieland."

Mrs. Williamson who was noted throughout England for acts of generosity, distributed benefactions among victims of hardships whose cases were reported in the newspapers. One of the latest was Norman Graham, a convict. He was pardoned by the king after he had saved a guard's life during the Dartmoor prison riots.

Mrs. Williamson was 58 years old. She was born in Virginia, a great-great-great-granddaughter of Chancellor Livingston. An autopsy was ordered and the inquest probably will be held tomorrow.

WIFE DIVORCES C. E. MANIERRE A SECOND TIME

They Appear Together at Amicable Hearing.

Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus E. Manierre appeared together yesterday before Circuit Judge Ralph J. Dady in Waukegan and Mrs. Manierre got an amicable divorce, her second from Mr. Manierre.

Mrs. Manierre was Edith Ogden Harrison, the only daughter of Ex-Mayor and Mrs. Carter H. Harrison. Mr. Harrison, who is now collector of internal revenue, was five times mayor of Chicago.

Mr. Manierre is also a member of an old Chicago family. His father was the late William R. Manierre and his grandfather, George Manierre, was one of the incorporators of Chicago. The present Mr. Manierre is president of the Stock Yards Transit company.

The Manierres both occupied their home at 254 Rose terrace, Lake Forest, until a few days ago. Mr. Manierre is moving to the Racquet club.

First Wed in 1916.

Mr. and Mrs. Manierre had a fashionable wedding on April 25, 1916. In February, 1930, she was granted a divorce by Circuit Judge Claire C. Edwards in Waukegan. He has since retired from the bench and was her attorney yesterday. She and Mr. Manierre were remarried in October of the same year, 1930, by Judge Dady, who was Mrs. Manierre's attorney in the first divorce case and who granted the second divorce yesterday.

The Manierres drove together to Attorney Edwards' office in Waukegan yesterday, sat talking together in court as they waited for Judge Dady to hear their case, and left the courtroom together.

"After our first divorce we married a second time," said Mr. Manierre. "We tried it again on account of our boys and it simply didn't work out. So we agreed to seek a divorce again."

"Those Are the Facts."

"You can say the same for me," said Mrs. Manierre. "Those are the facts."

Mrs. Manierre charged cruelty, her bill stating that her husband had "struck and otherwise abused her" on Feb. 18 and July 20. She testified that they had quarreled over trivial subjects, which she did not remember, and that he lost his temper and struck her.

One of her witnesses was her housekeeper, Mary Conrad, who testified that she had taken care of Mrs. Manierre since she was 2 months old. When Judge Dady asked the housekeeper to describe the acts of cruelty she hesitated and glanced toward Mr. Manierre.

Property Settlement Arranged.

Attorney Edwards and Attorney A. F. Beaubien, who represented Mr. Manierre, gave Judge Dady the terms of a property settlement arranged between the couple, which was incorporated in the decree. Mrs. Manierre is to receive the Lake Forest home.

The children, Cyrus Jr., 14 years old, and William R. Manierre, 10, are to divide their time equally between their parents. When one or both of them are with Mrs. Manierre she is to receive $300 a month for the support of them and herself. When they are with their father she is to receive $200 a month.

The decree also provides that the father is to pay for the boys' schooling and that they are to attend Yale university when they reach college age.

NEW YORK READY TO DROP STOCK EXCHANGE TAX

Fears Loss of Millions if Business Moves.

New York, Sept. 25.—[Special.]—The city administration capitulated today by offering to abandon the proposed new city taxes on stock transfers and on brokers if the stock exchange did not move to Newark.

The surrender took the form of a recommendation to Mayor John P. O'Brien by Samuel Untermyer, financial adviser to the city. Mr. Untermyer urged the mayor to delay signing the two tax bills until the stock exchange had time to decide on the city's offer. The mayor promptly accepted the suggestion and withheld action on those measures, as well as on others taxing savings banks, public utilities, and life insurance companies.

Feared Loss of Millions.

Mr. Untermyer's unexpected reversal of position was a sensation at the public hearing held on all four tax measures. He said he was motivated by reluctance to endanger the state's income of thirty or forty million dollars from stock transfer taxes, as well as the inevitable depreciation of real estate in the financial district.

If the exchange moved to New Jersey, he said, the city would lose large amounts in real estate taxes. Mr. Untermyer added that he also was concerned about the city's chances of getting a $72,000,000 loan from the bankers to meet pay rolls and debt interest. He would not like to jeopardize the success of those negotiations.

Mayor Reverses Position.

In following Mr. Untermyer's advice, the mayor reversed his own position on the tax program. Last week, he said he would sign all four tax bills in their present form today, regardless of what amendments might be offered. If there were to be amendments, the mayor said, they must follow approval of the tax bills. Tonight, he indicated that he would withhold action until stock exchange governors informed him whether it would remain in this city.

Officials of the stock exchange were unprepared to state their position on the city's latest offer tonight. Spokesmen for leading member firms, however, expressed the belief that the exchange would remain here.

Could Save on Tax.

Plans are well advanced for locating the exchange in the old Center Market building in Newark. The brokers said their trading would be carried on across the Hudson beginning Oct. 2. Even with the city taxes dropped, the exchange faces the tangible advantage of saving between $30,000,000 and $40,000,000 now paid in New York state taxes by moving to New Jersey.

Untermyer and Mayor O'Brien hurried to the Park avenue home of Gov. Herbert H. Lehman for a third conference with Wall street bankers on the city's credit problem. After a four hour discussion, the conference ended, and Gov. Lehman made this statement:

"I have had another long conference with city officials and representatives of the banks. I am sorry, but I cannot say anything more conclusive. The problem is an extremely difficult and complex one, and I cannot comment on it in greater detail at this time. The conference will be resumed on Wednesday morning at 9:30."

While the conference broke up without definite statements from any one on whether the stock exchange would remain in the city, it was learned that the governor and others present now felt sure that the exchange would not move.

Needs Loan at Once.

The city needs close to $25,000,000 as a loan from its bankers by Friday to meet pay rolls and current expenses. The banks have thus far refused to commit themselves in any way on the city's application for a $72,000,000 loan. Today's conference was presumably aimed at working out a foresighted financial plan for handling the city's loans until the first of the year. Despite this objective, the bankers are expected to concentrate their immediate attention on the $25,000,000 needed this week.

Offer Comes Unexpectedly.

Mr. Untermyer's offer to withdraw the stock transfer and brokerage taxes came unexpectedly at the mayor's hearing.

Mr. Untermyer said he wished he could believe that the plan to move was only a bluff, but he is convinced that it is real. The move, he believes, would cause the exchange to disintegrate, but he is convinced that it will be made unless, as he proposed, the mayor agrees not to sign the bills.

The taxes to which he referred are two of the four which he himself planned as emergency levies to raise funds in the present municipal money crisis. One is a tax of 4 cents a share on stock transfers, and the other a 5 per cent tax on brokerage house gross receipts.

Mr. Untermyer said that realty values in lower Manhattan would suffer from the departure of the exchange, which in turn would injure other city revenues.

Mr. Untermyer spoke at the conclusion of the hearing at which the other emergency taxes were discussed. They are a 1½ per cent tax on gross earnings of utility companies and a tax of one-quarter of 1 per cent on the investments of savings banks. Several opponents of those two measures presented objections.

The association of stock exchange firms offered no verbal protest this afternoon. Instead, Frank R. Hope, its president, and Curtis B. Dall, chairman of a special committee, addressed a three page letter to Mayor O'Brien and attached to it a petition against the taxes bearing the signature of 30,000 members of stock exchange firms and their employés.

Dall is a son-in-law of President Roosevelt. In addition to a membership in the stock exchange he recently acquired a membership in the Chicago Board of Trade.

An injunction to prevent opening of the Newark exchange was dismissed by Vice Chancellor Alfred Stein in New Jersey today. Trading may be started in 25 leading issues on Monday.

Roosevelt Decides Hands Off of New York Mayor's Race

Washington, D. C., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt has decided to keep his hands off the New York mayoralty fight, according to an authorized White House announcement today.

This announcement preceded by several hours the arrival of Langdon W. Post, fusion candidate for borough president and Justice Frederick Kernochan, La Guardia fusion leaders, who had hurried here to urge the President to remain neutral in the New York contest.

Since the President previously had proclaimed his non-interference through an announcement made by his secretary, Stephen Early, he declined to see his New York visitors on this subject. Postmaster General James A. Farley also previously had disclaimed any activity in forming a third ticket.

Satisfied with Results.

After being told that the President had decided his policy and would not see any of the factions in the New York squabble, his visitors, old friends, did not take offense at this turn of events. They did, however, get their argument and appeal before Louis McHenry Howe, the President's secretary, and seemed satisfied with the results.

Later, before leaving by airplane for New York, Mr. Post said he was confident the administration would remain neutral in the New York fight.

"It is reported that you came here to see the President and ask him not to support Joseph V. McKee if McKee runs," Mr. Post was told.

Have Long Talk with Howe.

"No, we came here to ask the President not to get into the New York fight," he replied. "We wanted to tell him what we thought of the situation and what the result would be if the President lent his influence to any candidate. He expressed a desire not to talk about the squabble at all, so we did not see him."

Mr. Post explained that he and Justice Kernochan had a long talk with Mr. Howe and offered arguments that they would have presented to the President. He thought Mr. McKee would finally get into the race and was not certain whether he had the support of Postmaster General Farley and Edward J. Flynn, Bronx Democratic leader.

"Why don't you want the President to interfere in the New York fight?" the justice was asked.

"We don't feel that the situation demands that the President should inject his personality into this contest and thereby create a three-cornered fight of doubtful outcome," he replied. "The only chance Mayor John P. O'Brien [Tammany nominee] has of winning is with McKee in the race on a third ticket. F. H. La Guardia [fusion Republican] will win in a straight-out fight and might come through even in a field of three. But, as we see it, Tammany is through unless a third candidate enters the race to divide the independent vote."

President Not to Interfere.

"What is your impression of the administration attitude?" he was asked.

"I think the President will not interfere in New York, as was indicated today in the announcement he authorized," he replied, and then the two rushed to the airport, to get the last plane for New York.

Early in the day, as soon as the White House staff had read the morning papers reporting that the administration might aid Mr. McKee's candidacy, Secretary Early authorized the statement that the President would not interfere in New York or in any other local political fight. He said that while the President was leaving for New York city tomorrow—his first visit since he entered the White House—he would have no conference with any one there and did not intend to "support any candidate for mayor."

Farley Mum on Fight.

Postmaster General Farley, who returned today from reported week-end political conferences in New York, appeared disturbed by published statements that he and his associates were behind the candidacy of Joseph V. McKee. He saw the President after Post and Kernochan had left the White House, but declined to talk about the New York situation.

Earlier in the day, he summoned correspondents to deny that he was taking a part in the formation of an anti-Tammany movement to be headed by Mr. McKee. Asked whether the movement might later have his and the administration's support, he said:

"I have nothing to say about the New York situation and will make no further comment."

PEIPING IN PANIC AS 40,000 REBELS MARCH ON CITY

North China Chaos Grows; Troops Deserting.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Sept. 25.—The stage is set for another chapter in the complicated political drama of north China, involving the armed forces of China and Japan and rebel Chinese troops whose animosities are now directed chiefly against the Chinese nationalist government rather than the Japanese.

Lieut. Gen. Yoshikazu Nishi has concentrated a detachment of Japanese troops at Miyun, north of Peiping. The Japanese advanced southward from Kupeikow, a pass in the great wall. One Japanese warning bomb has already been dropped in the rear of Gen. Fang Chen-wu's rebel forces at Hwaiju, southwest of Miyun.

Rebels Number 40,000.

Gen. Fang is a former subordinate of the Christian general, Feng Yu-hsiang. His forces, originally only a few thousand, now are swelled to practically 40,000. This includes other anti-Nanking forces who joined his banner, which is flying over an extensive district only 20 miles north of Peiping. This district was designated as a neutral demilitarized zone in the Sino-Japanese truce signed last May.

Gen. Fang today replied to a Japanese ultimatum demanding that he evacuate the district by Tuesday midnight. Fang said his drive is aimed against Marshal Chiang Kai-shek, generalissimo and dictator of the National government, and is "designed to destroy his oppressive policy against the Chinese people with a march toward Peiping."

Gen. Fang declared that it is necessary temporarily to operate within the demilitarized zone and he requested the Japanese to adopt a waiting policy so as to enable him to occupy Peiping "in conformity with a spirit of mutual benefit."

Peiping in Panic.

With the presence of the rebels 20 miles from the city, and behind the rebels the advancing Japanese force, Peiping is in a panic. This is aggravated by the fact that in large sections of north China troops, particularly those formerly under Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, deposed war lord of Manchuria, are becoming wobbly and showing signs of joining the anti-Nanking forces.

Guards have been doubled at the city's gates, while foreigners are flocking into the legation compound. The city is filled with Chinese refugees from the demilitarized zone.

The Japanese today landed further reinforcements at Tientsin. Some of the troops were stationed at Shanhaikwan and Tangshan, along the railway, while the remainder entered the Japanese barracks at Tientsin.

Japan Prepares to Strike.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Sept. 26.—[Tuesday.]—A grave situation is rapidly developing in North China. It is expected that Japanese forces north of the Great Wall will start moving towards Peiping at any moment.

The Japanese ultimatum to Gen. Fang Chen-wu demanding that he evacuate the demilitarized zone expires at mid-night tonight and with Gen. Fang showing no indication of complying with the Japanese demands it is regarded as a foregone conclusion that the Japanese will start moving strong forces from Hsinking [formerly Changchun, now capital of Manchukuo] and Shanhaikwan to wipe out Gen. Fang.

Tokio officials admit the situation is extremely grave. They declare Japan's hand is being forced. Japan, it is said, will take the utmost precautions to restrict the field of operations and safeguard the lives and property of foreigners.

Hitler Envoy and Bodyguard "Steal the Show" at Geneva

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 25.—The first social contact between the old maid of Geneva and brown shirt Germany, which is the negation of everything Geneva stands for, took place today. Joseph Goebbels, chancellor Hitler's minister of propaganda and master mind of the Nazi party, appeared on the delegates' bench of his country at the opening of the 14th assembly of the league of nations.

This day also launched the most crucial, if unofficial, phase of the disarmament conference, with real peace or real war no longer oratorical effects but concrete possibilities in the near future, and Goebbels was almost the sole topic of conversation around the assembly building.

Goebbels Steals the Show.

Germany's pocket-sized minister of public enlightenment simply stole the show. Even his fellow midget, Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss of Austria, hero of the London economic conference, hardly got a look-in.

The note of incongruity which underlies the little Nazi spellbinder's presence in this citadel of internationalism was neatly struck on his arrival at the assembly hall this morning. Various people got different impressions. This observer can only give his own.

I was strolling through the lobby when there was a roar of motors outside and a compact wedge of human figures burst in through the main entrance. These figures all wore yellow trench coats, all had felt hats pulled down over their eyes, and most of them had scarred faces. In the midst of the group, protected on all sides by his companions, was a little man with a limp and large popping eyes, dressed like his followers and shoving his way ahead with sinister intentness.

Chief Rushed to Safety.

The party did not walk. It loped. The first instinct of this witness, who retains vivid memories of a certain night back in St. Louis, Mo., when a group of similarly attired gentlemen loped into an Italian restaurant on business, was to duck behind the stone pillar and watch out for the ricochets.

Then a chorus of "Heil Hitlers" rang out—for the first time in the history of the Geneva sanctuary. And Dr. Goebbels and his bodyguard trotted into the safety of a cloakroom under a Gothic archway of human arms outstretched in the Nazi salute. The arms presumably belonged to German newspaper men in the lobby.

Watching Goebbels arrive and depart then became the principal sport of the day. Whereas Geneva statesmen usually wabble out of their limousines in a stately manner and pause a moment on the running board to acknowledge applause by bystanders, Goebbels takes it on the wing, whether climbing in or climbing out of his auto.

His Gorillas Are Impressive.

On his arrival at any destination the German leader is preceded by a carload of bodyguards who alight first, forming a protective aisle from the pavement to the entrance. Then his auto slows down almost but not quite to the stopping point and Goebbels, flanked by an ace on either side, jumps out and scoots up the steps, the guard closing in behind him. Sometimes the portly Baron Konstantin von Neurath, German foreign minister, is shoved on ahead, making an effective shield.

Geneva experts agree that Goebbels' six personal gorillas are the most impressive seen around these parts in a year. They surpass even the gang of Italian gunmen brought along by Gen. Italo Balbo, Italian minister of aviation, last year.

In addition to his own bodyguard, Goebbels is honored with intensive protective measures on the part of the Geneva police department. Detectives watch him wherever he goes. All entrances to his hotel are guarded. Detectives also closely scrutinize all who enter the public gallery or assembly hall.

Envoy Appears Uneasy.

Despite these precautions, Goebbels, whose assassin appeal is rated particularly high, this noon showed evident uneasiness about leaving the building. He hung around the exit until every other delegate had left and the crowd in front had melted away.

On the pretext of protecting the minister's health, "press officers," meaning official press agents of the various delegations, have been requested by the German delegates to draw up approved lists of newspaper men of their nationality to receive invitations for a press conference which Goebbels expects to hold later in the week.

The press officers are asked to give the names of no newspaper man for whom they are not personally willing to assume responsibility. The principal responsibility involved is that none of the boys should perforate the minister of public enlightenment while he is enlightening them, but the press officers are requested also to eliminate newspaper men who might ask Goebbels embarrassing questions.

Goebbels Restrains Himself.

Except for his spectacular entrance and exits, Goebbels stuck strictly to protocol. He did not bite Hitler's arch enemy, Dollfuss, when he passed by him nor did he protest against being seated directly behind Rabbi D. Freedman, non-Aryan Australian delegate. Rabbi Freedman did not protest, either.

Neither did Goebbels stand up and whistle when Chairman J. L. Mowinckel of Norway delivered a eulogy of the late Aristide Briand, French statesman; the late Gustav Stresemann, once German foreign minister, and the spirit of Locarno.

In the disarmament field—which is the only thing that matters to this assembly, though it is not on the agenda—the Paris conversations of last week were pushed a little farther today. Baron Pompeo Aloisi of Italy had a talk with Joseph Paul-Boncour, French foreign minister, and America's ambassador at large, Norman H. Davis, dined with Baron von Neurath. They accomplished an informal but apparently highly satisfactory review of the situation.

"New Deal" Being Shuffled.

While little concrete is known regarding what is shaping up here, it is obvious that for the first time since the disarmament conference opened a year and a half ago, it is on the verge of being able to accomplish something—and what is perhaps more important, a new European deal is being shuffled.

A close understanding between France and Italy, which was further evident after conversations between Paul-Boncour and Aloisi this afternoon, is one of the features of the present diplomatic situation.

It is also not entirely inaccurate to speak of the united allied front against Germany, now that France has apparently been won over to the idea of real disarmament, providing she gets the proper guarantees.

Charles te Water, high commissioner of the Union of South Africa in London, was elected president of the assembly. He defeated Francisco Castillo Najera of Mexico.

PRISONER SCOFFS AT CHARGE REDS FIRED REICHSTAG

German Communist Chief Cries He's Innocent.

LEIPZIG, Germany, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Ernst Torgler, who led the now outlawed communist delegation in the reichstag, indignantly denied on the witness stand today that either he or his party set fire to the reichstag building last February.

Speaking with great emphasis and passion, Torgler told the court that "the fight for socialism has become the meaning of my life." He rejected with disgust the accusation that he sought to advance that fight by "this monstrous and unspeakable deed."

"For seven months I have been in confinement and I mean to tell the world that I am innocent," he said. "For seven months I have been under the fire of a preliminery cross-examination, and five of these months I was handcuffed."

Testimony Creates Sensation.

His indignant reference to his treatment caused a sensation in view of repeated denials by German official quarters that Torgler had been kept in chains.

The court was just about to finish the "personal particulars" and start investigating "factual matter" directly bearing on the incendiarism charge, when Torgler was called upon to give an account of himself.

Pale, and with his lips tightly pressed, he declared that he was able to bear up only because he knew that he and his party were innocent. The courtroom was surprised that no move was made to halt him.

Exhausted by what seemed a supreme effort, he sat trembling, his red-rimmed eyes staring straight ahead long after he had finished.

Torgler is the only German among the five defendants who are being tried for the reichstag fire.

Stresses Fight for Socialism.

"I should like to emphasize," he told the court, "that the fight for socialism has become the meaning of my life. In the interest of the workers I have mustered all the ideals a man can muster, and I shall not cease to do my best for the interests of the German working class."

He remarked that he had been influenced by his mother, a socialist of many years standing. At 18 he joined the Socialist party and after the revolution he became a communist.

Marinus Van Der Lubbe, youthful Dutchman, also a defendant, was recalled to the stand. He looked more dead than alive, and there was no indication of mental or physical improvement in him, although it has been officially confirmed that he ate a hearty meal yesterday, ending a hunger strike.

At one time one of counsel complained to the court that Van Der Lubbe was "shaking with mirth."

The Dutch defendant answered affirmatively when asked whether he had considered German communist leaders to be "too tame." He agreed that he had remarked that "extremely radical measures must be taken."

"While watching a Nazi procession did you say in an excited voice that something must be done?" the examining judge said.

"Yes," the defendant replied.

MASTER HOLDS TAX RECEIVER LAW IS VALID

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday were $622,929, making a total of $72,502,991 collected since the enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act was started on April 28. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for the last four years follow:

Sept. 25	$ 53,286	$ 104,375
Uncollected	17,380,919	45,997,617
	1930.	1931.
Sept. 25	$ 109,425	$ 355,956

The day's collections of 1931 personal property taxes totaled $704.

The Kerner-Skarda act for collection of delinquent taxes through the appointment of the country treasurer as receiver for the property involved was again held to be constitutional yesterday in a finding made by Edmund D. Adcock, master in chancery in the federal court. The act was upheld once before in a federal court decision, and several attacks upon it in the state courts have failed.

Frederick Lynn, owner of an apartment building at 6206 North Francisco avenue, was the plaintiff. He charged that the act was unconstitutional.

Judge Jarecki ordered 63 more properties into tax receiverships yesterday. The properties owe a total of $150,000 in taxes for 1928, 1929, and 1930.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

"Prince Mdivani has a peanut brain. His charges that I was too friendly with Samuel Insull are absurd."

Fighting mad at the nine pages of accusations filed against her in Los Angeles by her estranged husband, Mary McCormic, formerly of the Chicago Civic Opera company, didn't stop there in paying her compliments to Prince Serge Mdivani yesterday. He is, she told interviewers vehemently, "a mosquito," and "the world's worst gigolo."

For a while yesterday afternoon she forgot her rage at the scion of royalty from the soviet province of Georgia, who with his brothers, David and Alexis, have earned international reputations for their success in marrying prominent American women. On the stage in the auditorium of Edward Hines Jr. hospital at Maywood, facing an intent audience of world war veterans, she sang song after song, winding up with "Danny Boy."

Promises More in Cross Bill.

Once her program was finished and she had autographed scores of books and programs for the wan, slow stepping men who crowded around her, the big brown eyes flashed fire again. She will have something to say to Serge via a cross bill for divorce as soon as it is possible, she said emphatically.

"How utterly ridiculous to make such a charge," she exclaimed. "Mr. Insull and I are swell friends—that's all. I feel so sorry for him, he's had such a lot of trouble. If I could help him in any way, I would. Serge just trumped up that story because he knew it would humiliate me. It wouldn't bother Mr. Insull any more than the buzzing of a mosquito around him."

"Were you ever in love with Mr. Insull?" she was asked.

"Of course not," she retorted with scorn. "There was never anything but a sincere friendship between us, growing out of our business association in the opera company."

Says She Insisted on Seeing Insull.

The Mdivani document, charging that his wife told him before their marriage that the utilities magnate was her business manager, but that afterward he "heard statements and rumors regarding an asserted previous relationship" between them, was filed in answer to Miss McCormic's suit for separate maintenance. He declared the singer insisted on seeing Insull at various times despite his remonstrances.

The prince also charged his wife with drunkenness and cruelty, according to the dispatches. He asserted that Miss McCormic once struck him in a Hollywood night club and that she later became so boisterous as to attract the attention of others in the place.

He was ashamed and humiliated by the talk about Miss McCormic and Insull, he asserted in the suit, according to the dispatches, but Miss McCormic saw Insull on various occasions when her husband was not present. She promised early in 1932 not to meet Insull again unless the prince was present, but again left Los Angeles ostensibly to visit her family in Texas and then telephoned Serge afterward that she was going to Chicago to see Insull. That was in March, 1932, according to the suit.

Hearing Set for Oct. 7.

The hearing of Miss McCormic's suit and her husband's cross bill has been set for Oct. 7 in Los Angeles.

Samuel Insull Jr., in his office at the Commonwealth Edison company, where he is assistant to the chairman, yesterday refused to comment upon the divorce suit charges and also upon reports from Greece that Insull's family has abandoned Samuel Sr. because of his friendship with a so-called "mystery woman," Mrs. Helene Kouryoumdjoglou, who is known as a close friend and adviser of Insull.

The law partners of Harry Olson, former chief justice of the Municipal court, who was reported to have entered the Insull case in dispatches from Athens, said yesterday that they knew nothing of such a development. Mr. Olson went abroad for his health, they said.

PATRICIA MALLORY AND 'BILL' CAGNEY MARRY IN MEXICO

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Patricia [Boots] Mallory and William "Bill" Cagney, movie players, were Mexico, she said today. Cagney is a married Saturday at Agua Caliente, brother of James Cagney, film actor.

A petition to determine the marital status of Miss Mallory and Charles R. Bennett, musician-actor, is on file in the Los Angeles court. Bennett alleged he and the actress in 1928, in New York, "entered into an agreement to enter into marital relationship," and that he and Miss Mallory were "publicly recognized as man and wife."

The couple separated last Feb. 8. Court records show Bennett's case was marked off calendar on May 16.

Miss Mallory said: "I got an annulment of my marriage with Mr. Bennett in New York recently. And that's that."

Fugitive from Federal Court Caught by Police

Arthur Boller, 34 years old, who walked out of a federal courtroom Sept. 19 while a jury was being drawn to try him for an interstate theft, was arrested last night by Brighton park police. He was seized at Kedzie avenue and 45th street.

KILLS SELF IN JAIL.

Aledo, Ill., Sept. 25.—(AP)—John Lilliman, 60, a resident of the old Gilchrist settlement, committed suicide last night in the Mercer county jail by hanging after his arrest yesterday near Preemption on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

3 EX-CONVICTS SHOT BY VICTIM AND CAPTURED

Three former convicts, alleged members of a slot machine gang, were shot and slightly wounded yesterday by Louis Bosworth, owner of Louie's restaurant, in Addison, just west of Elmhurst. The men were captured by police and identified themselves as William J. McQueen, 7124 South California avenue; Clayton Curtis, 1749 Kedvale avenue, and Amerigo Bertolini, alias James Reid, 3045 Washington boulevard.

Bosworth said that the men had told him to use their slot machines or they would "get rid of him and burn the joint." The alleged threat was made on a previous visit, Bosworth said, and when the men entered yesterday he seized a shotgun and opened fire.

McQueen was struck in the back by 21 buckshot and was taken to the Elmhurst hospital in Elmwood Park. Curtis and Bertolini, struck by scattering shot, fled and were seized by police in Pfund's nursery, between Elmhurst and Addison.

Chief of Police George Kummerow of Elmhurst said that one of the trio was suspected of the murder of Policeman Louis Schuetz of Lombard during a robbery of the Riverside club in Elmhurst on July 30. Kummerow had been told of the threats by Bosworth and responded with a squad of police when the alarm was sounded from the restaurant.

John Whiton, owner of a beer tavern at 107 North York street, Elmhurst, signed a complaint naming Bertolini as one of the three men who entered his place on Aug. 26 and took two slot machines containing about $300 and a cash bag containing $125.

ROBBER FIRES ON VICTIM.

Frank Smith, a driver for the Best Tea company, 3742 South Crawford avenue, foiled two bandits who tried to hold him up yesterday at Thomas street and Harding avenue when he jumped from his delivery truck and fled on foot. One of the robbers fired a shot at him, but it went wild.

DENY LENIENCY, SPEED TRIALS, COURTNEY ASKS

Prosecutors and Judges Confer on Crime War.

Conferences on ways and means to speed up the lagging crime war were held yesterday by the various officials of the Criminal court. When court had adjourned for the day, however, only four criminal had been convicted and sentenced. This brings the total of penitentiary sentences up to 321 since the campaign was instituted by Judge John Prystalski, then chief justice of the Criminal court.

State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney held a pep meeting of his assistants. Chief Philip L. Sullivan met with his ten associate judges, and both of them held conference with Judge Thomas A. Green of the Felony court at which the latter agreed to dispose of many of the minor cases, which the Criminal court judges say clutter up the docket and prevent them from meting out speedy justice to real criminals.

It was reported that the lack of work in the civils courts, which kept many of the judges idle last week, was also discussed, and a proposal is to be made in the early future that some of the civil judges assist in the criminal courts while the regular judges are engaged in long drawn out trials.

No Leniency, Courtney Orders.

State's Attorney Courtney at his meeting instructed his prosecutors to oppose leniency for criminals. He emphasized four points as follows:

1. Criminals should be punished for the crime they commit and not for some other crime by means of a felony waiver.

2. Assistant prosecutors should oppose probation where the statute says that such crimes are not probationable. They should never take the responsibility of agreeing to probation that being a judicial function.

3. Cases wherein the testimony of an acomplice is vital to conviction should be pushed to trial quickly. When such cases are continued too long, the accomplice often is prevailed on not to testify for the state.

4. Embezzlement and confidence game cases should be quickly disposed of because many times prosecution is threatened only as means of collecting a debt.

Gets Life as Habitual Criminal.

The sentences yesterday were as follows:

LEROY CORNELL, colored, 28, sentenced to life imprisonment under the habitual criminal act by Judge Michael Feinberg. He robbed the home of Irving O. Lux, Chicago Heights, on Nov. 5, 1932. He was paroled from a previous conviction in June, 1932.

AUGUSTUS PATE, 17, colored, sentenced to 1 year to life by Judge Sullivan, for robbery. He was one of a group of youths who on July 22 robbed the real estate office of John F. Grams, 2351 West Lake street.

ALEX YOUNG, 35, colored, sentenced to 1 year to life by Judge Thomas J. Lynch for robbing a building at 2728 Wabash avenue on Aug. 19.

WILLIAM J. SCOTT, 38, colored, was found guilty of murder by a jury in Judge Charles P. Molthrop's court. He was sentenced immediately to 14 years in the penitentiary in accordance with the verdict of the jury. Scott shot and killed Lee Smith 21, during an argument over a 50 cent debt.

Five west side youths, who were scheduled to go on trial yesterday before Judge Benjamin Epstein, were given a continuance to Wednesday when at the last minute a demand was made for a list of names of the possible jurors, as provided by statute. The defendants are Frank Pascoiciello, James Palumbo, Samuel Marabile, Tony Venezia and John Terracino. They are charged with murdering Vito Pisciotta, 3152 5th avenue, during a robbery on Feb. 4.

Jury Chosen to Try Lang, Ex-Cop, for Nitti Shooting

A jury was selected yesterday to try Harry Lang, suspended police sergeant, on a charge of assault to kill Frank Nitti, one of the leaders of the old Capone gang. A hint of sensational testimony to come was sounded during the questioning of prospective jurors in the Criminal court of Judge Thomas J. Lynch.

"There may be some political questions raised during this trial," Prosecutor Charles Dougherty told the veniremen. "Will you let your political affiliations interfere with your judgment in this case?"

As each venireman answered that he would not allow a question of politics to sway his judgment the prosecutor warned him that "This defendant is not on trial as a Republican, a Democrat, or a Socialist, but as a citizen."

The question of the state recalled the statement credited to Lang at a previous court appearance that "If he was pushed too hard he would talk and wreck the Democratic party." The selection of a jury was started yesterday after the case had been continued eight times before three judges.

Says Cermak Feared Killers.

A statement that Lang knew that the late Mayor Cermak lived "in constant fear of assassination at the hands of hired killers," was made by Defense Attorney William Rittenhouse in his opening statement.

The attorney said that the defense would show that Lang shot Nitti in pursuit of his duties as a detective.

"We will show that Courtney had just been elected state's attorney and had joined with Mayor Cermak in a war on hoodlums," Attorney Rittenhouse said. "Lang and his partner Miller [Harry Miller, who has been suspended for his part in the shooting] were assigned to the war on hoodlums.

"They knew that Mayor Cermak lived in constant fear of death at the hands of hired killers. They had been told to watch Nitti and the gang of alleged gunmen who had their headquarters in the loop office building. When they entered the room the detectives drew their revolvers because they knew they faced desperate characters."

The attorney indicated that the defense would try to show that Lang shot in self-defense.

The assault charge against Lang, former head of the police hoodlum squad, grew out of a raid on a downtown office building in which Nitti was shot and seriously wounded.

Lang charged that he had shot Nitti in self-defense, after the hoodlum had wounded him in the arm. Testimony at the trial of Nitti for shooting Lang showed that the detective shot the hoodlum and then shot himself in the arm to make it appear that a gun battle had occurred. Lang refused to testify on the ground that he might incriminate himself.

A rumor that Lang had accepted $15,000 from Ted Newberry, since slain, to kill Nitti was reported to have been presented to the grand jury that returned indictments charging the detective with perjury and assault to kill.

Newberry, a north side gang leader, who was at outs with the remnants of the Capone gang, was said to have paid the money for the murder of its leader. Newberry was found shot to death on a lonely road near Gary on Jan. 7, three weeks after Nitti was shot.

Nitti Ready to Appear.

Nitti, who was absent during the court hearing, was said to be in the office of the state's attorney, ready to appear when he is called as a witness. Nitti's appearance at the trial was assured yesterday morning when the state withdrew a vagrancy warrant against him. He had hesitated to appear for fear of being served with the warrant.

Attorney Abraham Marovitz, who obtained a continuance in the case at the last hearing by withdrawing as Lang's attorney, was in court again yesterday as attorney for the suspended policeman. He had told Judge Lynch at the last hearing that Lang had not paid him a fee.

Pair Seized After Police Find Stolen Auto Parts

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Automobiles stolen, 58; recovered, 60; stripped, 7 [from Chicago police records for 24 hours ending at midnight Sunday.]

John Hoffman, 1502 Holt street, and Edward Kastro, 1309 Holt street, were arrested yesterday in a vacant flat in the building in which Hoffman lives. They were arrested after Policemen Walter Gregory and Oscar Simonson had found automobile parts stolen from the car of James Czepanski, 1244 Dixon street, in the vacant apartment.

TRACTOR STOLEN FROM FIELD.

Aledo, Ill., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Theft of a tractor in good mechanical condition from a corn field was reported to Sheriff Walter Rehn of Mercer county today by Harold Plunkett, Aledo farmer.

TAVERN OWNER KILLS WIFE, THEN GIVES SELF UP

Thomas White, 55 years old, a beer tavern owner, shot and killed his wife, Lela, 52 years old, yesterday in their home at 1025 South Seeley avenue. Several hours later he surrendered to police, asserting that he had killed her because he found another man in their home.

After the shooting, White said, he remained in the house for several hours because he was "scared and didn't know what to do." Then he went to his beer tavern at 1959 Roosevelt road and told his partner, Antone Del Ray:

"I came home this afternoon and found my wife with a man. I took my revolver and fired two or three shots at him, but he got away. Then I had a fight with my wife and shot her."

COMPLETE JURY TO TRY STEVENS IN ILL. LIFE CASE

Quizzing of Veniremen by Defense Slows Action.

A jury was completed yesterday in the Criminal court of Judge Michael Feinberg to try Ernest J. Stevens, former director of the Illinois Life Insurance company, on a charge of embezzling a total of $1,200,000 of the funds of the insurance company.

Cautious questioning of veniremen by the defense counsel made a day long proceeding of the jury selection. The defense attorneys, headed by Franklin J. Stransky, questioned the prospective jurors closely concerning their financial condition. Losses incurred in deals similar to the crash of the life insurance company caused many to be excused from jury duty on motions by the defense.

Stevens Pleads Not Guilty.

Stevens looked on without emotion during the questioning and took no part in the hearing after entering a formal plea of not guilty. The charge against Stevens is based on the transfer of funds from the Illinois Life Insurance company to the Stevens and La Salle hotels, also controlled by the Stevens family.

The state holds that the transfer of money to save the hotels, in financial trouble at the time, constituted a direct theft from the policy holders of the Insurance company. Defense attorneys will hold that the transfer was an honest but ill-advised business transaction.

The deal from which the indictment arose was discovered in the investigation that followed the failure of the Illinois Life Insurance company. Three members of the Stevens family were indicted—Ernest, his brother, Raymond W. Stevens, and his father, James W. Stevens.

Brother a Suicide.

Raymond Stevens committed suicide in his Highland Park home while the case was pending and the elder Stevens became seriously ill. Ernest Stevens was left as the lone defendant when the state granted a severance in the case of his father.

This action was taken by Judge Feinberg after Dr. William T. Harsha, family physician, had testified that the elder Stevens had lapsed into a coma and might "never be able to face trial." Attorneys estimated yesterday that the trial of the case would require from three to four weeks. Sixty witnesses, most of them technicians and accountants, will be called to the stand during the hearing.

Pennsylvania and the city of Toledo, O., which is sending several thousand visitors by automobile and special train, will share honors at A Century of Progress today. Pennsylvania will become the 27th state to celebrate a special day at the Fair.

Gov. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania, whose party arrived in Chicago last night, is scheduled to reach the 14th street gate at 12:10 o'clock when a 19 gun salute befitting governors will be fired and the troops from Camp Whistler will march in review at the Court of Honor.

Following the military ceremonies the governor and his party will be taken to luncheon in the trustees' lounge of the Hall of Science by Rufus C. Dawes, president of the Exposition.

Extra sections on trains over the New York Central lines will bring in 1,861 passengers today from Toledo.

Three Military Rites in Day.

A military spirit dominated the Fair yesterday and visitors were thrilled by the martial music and smart stepping of troops on three occasions—the arrival of 500 members of the Grand Army of the Republic for their special day, the arrival of the French ambassador, Andre de Laboulaye, and Only 36 More Days Remain in Which to See the Fair.

The French ambassador was given the 19 gun ambassadorial salute upon his arrival at 4 o'clock. Escorted by Maj. E. J. Carr, representing Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commander of the Sixth Corps area, he reviewed the cavalry and infantry troops from Camp Whistler and then proceeded to the trustees' room in the Administration building to sign the Golden Book reserved for distinguished visitors. The ambassador was accompanied by Mme. de Laboulaye and by the French consul in Chicago, René Weiller, and Mme. Weiller.

Trooping of Colors Today.

The Canadian Scottish regiment, which arrived Sunday for a week at the Fair, is one of the most popular attractions featured by the Exposition. Beginning at 4 o'clock this afternoon, the regiment each day will perform the traditional trooping of the colors ceremony, dating back to the days of Queen Anne. Famous British and Scottish military airs are played by the bagpipe and brass bands as the kilted troops execute the intricate maneuvers of this ceremony.

Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager of the Fair, received reports yesterday that great numbers of farmers are planning post-harvest visits before the closing of the Exposition on Oct. 31. The first of the farmer delegations, 500 members of the New York State Farm bureau, are scheduled to visit the Fair tomorrow, and an official welcome will be tendered them.

Thousands of visitors yesterday ran for cover at 1 p. m. when a wind storm, accompanied by a light shower, struck the Fair grounds. Threats of rain throughout the afternoon kept the hourly attendance figures at less than half those of Sunday, when there were 220,375 admissions. Yesterday's attendance totaled 97,281 at 11:30 p. m.

LONDON PAPER ENDS COSTLY WAR FOR CIRCULATION

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Sept. 26.—Lord Beaverbrook, owner of the Daily Express, admits in his paper tonight that between March 1 and June 30 his paper spent more than $1,000,000 in gifts and prizes to attract new readers. This is probably the frankest disclosure yet made regarding the ruinous cost of London's great "newspaper war," which has been waged with utmost recklessness in recent months by four of the biggest popular newspapers.

Now Lord Beaverbrook admits he is sickening of the struggle. He has paid about $2 for every new reader. On free sets of Dickens' works alone the paper admits it lost $90,000. Crossing the two million reader mark by such methods is "futile," the article says, and circulation obtained by prizes and gifts is "worthless."

So far Lord Beaverbrook's conversion has had no echo from his rival newspaper owners. But enthusiasm for the "war" seems to be dying down on all four fronts, and stockholders hope that before long the whole episode will be nothing but a nightmare in Fleet street's history.

HOOVER TO LEAVE TOMORROW; DINES WITH N. U. CHIEF

Former President and Mrs. Herbert Hoover will leave Chicago tomorrow, it was announced last night by President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern university. They will visit friends in Chicago today and possibly will make one more tour of A Century of Progress.

Meantime Mrs. Hoover was a guest of Mrs. Scott at the Glenview Golf club. One of the other guests at this luncheon was Mrs. Russell Folwell, who was a classmate at Leland Stanford.

CROWDS AT FAIR CHEER 200 G.A.R. VETS ON PARADE

View Gettysburg Painting and Lincoln Exhibits.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Two hundred soldiers whose civil war services helped to save their nation stepped briskly to martial music down the thoroughfares of A Century of Progress Exposition yesterday. Rousing cheers greeted the marching men clad in the trim blue uniforms, brass buttons glistening in the sun. Guards saluted respectfully. Middle aged persons wiped their eyes at the courageous sight.

Other events were on the Fair's daily program, including military pomp and ceremony connected with the arrival of the French ambassador at the Exposition. But the place of honor of the day was reserved for the Grand Army of the Republic.

Care had been taken not to fill the old soldiers' day too full for their own enjoyment. By 4 p. m. the official festivities were over and they were given the keys to the concessions of particular interest to them, including the panorama of the Battle of Gettysburg, the Pantheon, the Forty-Niners, Fort Dearborn, the Lincoln group, and the Indian village. Others preferred to gather in small groups and exchange reminiscences of the civil war.

On Way Home from Encampment.

The majority of the G. A. R. guests were delegates to the national encampment of the G. A. R. held in St. Paul, who wished to see the Fair on their way to their homes throughout the country. The oldest of all, however, was the last surviving civil war veteran of West Chicago. He is Henry S. Woods, who will be 100 years old on Oct. 4, and in whose honor the entire town will close down and turn out for a parade and celebration. Yesterday he viewed the Fair and the G. A. R. ceremonies from one of the Fair's pleasure wheelchairs along with his physician and nurse.

The old soldiers were met on their arrival at the 14th street entrance of the Fair by troops of the sixth infantry at Camp Whistler, their olive drab a contrast to the soldiers in blue who swung in behind them and marched through the Court of Honor, down the Avenue of Flags, and to the Illinois Host building, singing "Marching Through Georgia."

Visit Lincoln Exhibit.

Here the union men paid their respects to the memory of their commander-in-chief during the civil war, visiting the Abraham Lincoln exhibit. Hostesses in the building presented to each soldier a gay little buttonhole bouquet. Then it was lunch time and they were escorted to the German-American building, where they were guests of the building's managers, and where Helen Protheroe, soloist, sang civil war songs dressed in a costume of that period.

The community tribute to the veterans followed in the court of the Hall of Science, with Dr. Allen D. Albert of A Century of Progress acting as chairman. He introduced Col. Russell C. Martin, newly elected national commander in chief of the G. A. R.

"We are delighted to be here and we want to thank A Century of Progress for this wonderful reception," Col Martin concluded.

Sing Civil War Songs.

The speeches and introductions were brief, most of the hour being devoted to the singing of civil war songs First came "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp, the Boys Are Marching," with the old soldiers joining in on the chorus. Next came "Listen to the Mocking Bird" and "Tenting Tonight on the Old Camp Ground."

Husky voices sang off key, but no one minded that. Faded eyes grew misty, but the voices sang on. They took up "Battle Cry of Freedom," remembering that it was the song that aided the second call for troops. One white haired little man jumped to his feet and waved his hat to the music as the hearty words rang out: "We'll rally round the flag." He was cheered. And last came "Marching Through Georgia" and "When Johnny Comes Marching Home." Other Fair visitors passing by dropped into the back benches.

Afterward no one wanted to leave, so the assembly broke up into little groups, relatives and families and friends gathering around.

NOTES OF THE LEGIONNAIRES

Final arrangements were completed yesterday to carry 200 disabled veterans from Edward Hines Memorial hospital to Soldiers' field on Oct. 3 where they will have a place of honor in the reviewing stand for the Legion parade. The use of 75 automobiles has been donated to the Legion for the occasion. Albert J. Horan, bailiff of the Municipal court, and State Auditor Edward J. Barrett, will be in charge of the veterans and are arranging a special escort for them.

Portions of the battle of Chateau Thierry will be reënacted Friday evening during a military pageant in the 124th Field Artillery armory in Washington park, it was announced yesterday by Col. Charles C. Haffner Jr., in charge of the pageant. The pageant will be the final event of a two day convention of the National Guards association of the United States.

Memories of world war days when Salvation army lassies passed out steaming coffee and doughnuts to the troops in the battle areas in France will be revived here during the Legion convention. A huge tent, 50 by 110 feet, will be set up by the Salvation army at Michigan avenue and Monroe street. There the three original "doughnut girls," Violet Williams, Mrs. Violet Booth, and Mrs. Elsie Corliss will hand out free "java and sinkers" to the veterans as they did in war days. Members of the Salvation Army Women's division will assist in the serving.

A rifle tournament, in which all Legionnaires are invited to enter, will be held at 9 a. m. Sunday on the rifle range at Fort Sheridan, under the auspices of the Legion "Long Rifles."

Sheriff William D. Meyering, head of the 500 Legionnaires who form the Legion's "special police," called the managers and house detectives, of all of the loop hotels where convention visitors will be housed into his office yesterday to explain how order would be kept throughout the convention week.

Veterans of the Fifth division, known during the world war as the "Red Diamond Division," will hold a reunion at 327 Plymouth court, on Saturday and Sunday.

BEGIN FAVORITE SON BOOMS FOR LEGION CHIEF

Illinois Man Among Five Leading Contenders.

American Legion officials from various states began their pre-convention campaigning here yesterday for the election of "favorite son" candidates to the post of national commander of the Legion. Many state adjutants and executive committeemen are here as part of the advance guard of the 250,000 Legionnaires who are to attend the national convention, which will open at the Chicago Stadium on Oct. 2.

It is expected that there will be five outstanding contenders for the commander's office. Louis A. Johnson, Clarksburg, W. Va., who arrived in the city yesterday, is the present national commander. Two of the five leading candidates served in the navy during the war, and the other three in the army. All are natives of the central states, although one now lives in Nevada.

Illinois Legion's Candidate.

The Illinois Legion department, which is host to the convention, is supporting Edward A. Hayes, Decatur attorney and former assistant attorney general of Illinois. He is the author of a "four point" rehabilitation program for disabled veterans, which, his supporters say, has received such favorable support that his election seems certain.

Hayes, who was an ensign in the navy, is a former state commander and at present is vice-chairman of the national rehabilitation committee. He is also the state's representative on the national executive committee.

Boosted by Iowa Legion.

Iowa's favorite son is Ray Murphy of Ida Grove. He is a former state commander and was joint author of the state law which provided a $22,000,000 bonus for Iowa veterans and a $1,800,000 disability fund. He is now chairman of the national legislative committee and national committeeman from Iowa. Murphy, who is a lawyer and a graduate of the University of Iowa, was commander of a machine gun company during the war. He was runner-up in the election for national commander at Detroit two years ago.

Nebraska's delegation is boosting Sam W. Reynolds of Omaha, who plans to renew his fight for the office, which he started last year at the convention in Portland. Reynolds, a coal dealer, fought the immediate payment of the bonus a year ago and withdrew after the first ballot when it became apparent that his stand on that question put him out of the running. Also a member of the national executive committee, Reynolds charges that recent developments have vindicated his stand against cash payment of the bonus and extravagant payments to veterans not disabled in war.

Racine Attorney is Contender.

Vilas H. Whaley, a Racine attorney, is Wisconsin's candidate for commander. A graduate of the University of Wisconsin law school and a former district attorney of Racine county, Whaley served as state commander of the Legion in 1923. He was a member of the national executive committee in 1924-26 and has been a director of the Legion Publishing committee since 1927. He served in the navy during the war.

George W. Malone, who organized and was first commander of the Nevada department of the Legion, is the fifth candidate. Malone is a former state engineer and has been mentioned as a candidate for governor in 1934 on the Republican ticket. Malone was a lieutenant overseas.

The election will be held on the final day of the convention, Oct. 5, in the auditorium of the Civic Opera building, where the new national offices of the Legion are situated. Only 1,121 of the delegates have actual voting power. The state delegations are not bound by the unit rule and each delegate may vote for whom he chooses.

ALLEGED AUTO THIEF HELD.

Stanley Fimiak, 28 years old, was held to the grand jury yesterday by Municipal Judge Joseph H. McGarry on the charge of automobile theft after police had testified that they caught him Friday in the act of stealing a car belonging to M. L. Jacobs, 2556 Rosemont avenue.

CARRIES ALL-BRAN ON EVERY VOYAGE

Seaman Finds This Delicious Cereal Relieves Constipation

Here is an unsolicited letter from Mr. Darragh:

"I have been going to sea for the last fourteen years. Every trip, I underwent severe headaches, nervousness, and sleeplessness. Tried all sorts of remedies, and received only temporary relief.

"So hearing about Kellogg's ALL-BRAN thought I would get a box, which I did. That was six months ago, haven't been without it at home, and when I go to sea a box of Kellog's ALL-BRAN is always with me."—George D. Darragh, 1914 32d Avenue, Oakland, California.

Tests show ALL-BRAN contains two things for common constipation: "Bulk" to exercise the intestines; vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract. ALL-BRAN also supplies iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes.

How much pleasanter this is than taking pills and drugs—so often harmful. Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily will correct most types of constipation, if not relieved this way, see your doctor.

RECTOR DENIES ACCUSATIONS BY HEIRESS WIFE

Contends She's Ill Advised in Divorce Action.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—With a general denial of his wife's charges of cruelty and drunkenness, the Rev. E. Reginald Williams, pastor of the fashionable St. Mark's Episcopal church, today filed his answer to her divorce complaint in which he pictured her as a loyal and loving wife, ill advised and under an adverse influence.

Mrs. Williams is the former Dorothy Eckhart, the daughter of the late Bernard Eckhart, capitalist of Chicago and Lake Forest, Ill. She recently inherited from his estate a fortune estimated at $1,000,000. They have two children, a recently married daughter in California, and a minor son.

The first he knew of his wife's dissatisfaction, the Rev. Mr. Williams said in his answer, was when Mrs. Williams' attorneys called him by telephone near midnight March 19, this year and demanded that he agree to a divorce.

Admits Use of Cocktails.

The rector admits the moderate and social use of cocktails and wines since long before their marriage, a practice, he asserts, in which Mrs. Williams joined him. When for reasons known to Mrs. Williams he said he no longer permitted cocktails or other social beverages to be served in their home, she insisted on them.

Any divorce on the ground proposed, the complaint said, is contrary to the religious belief of the Rev. Mr. Williams and his wife but since his refusal she and her attorneys are seeking to alienate the good will of the vestry and congregation of St. Mark's against him, he charges.

Ophidian methods to accomplish this purpose are being used, the complaint states, without specification of the snaky particulars.

Mrs. Williams will be the death of him if she continues her insistence upon the divorce, the minister's answer alleges, stating; "She knows full well that any such action as she has taken will further impair his physical condition to the extent of serious if not fatal consequences. Knowing this she has taken upon herself the solemn and unwarranted determination of life itself so far as he is concerned."

Held Good Wife and Mother.

Other than his assertion that his wife for two years has been addicted to the use of drugs, a practice which was not only a source of worriment to him but disturbed his sleep, there is no acrimony in Dr. Williams' answer which, as he points out, is "unlike her importunities or campaigns to cause a dislike or hatred of him."

"She is and always was a good wife and mother," the complaint continues, "but by reason of certain matters which will be shown at the trial, she is ill advised."

The answer concludes with the demand that the complaint be dismissed and that he have the care and custody of the minor child, Bernard, 7 years old, also that Mrs. Williams and her attorneys be enjoined from interfering with his priestly duties or influencing any member of the vestry or of the church against him.

The rector's reply denies the charges of cruelty by personal violence or otherwise; denies that he indulges in excessive use of intoxicating liquors, that he ever was noisy, vulgar, or violent while intoxicated or caused his wife any mental anguish.

WILKERSON SEES CAR BOND CHIEFS; DEMANDS ACTION

May Ask Co-ordinator to Speed Merger.

The responsibility of bringing into an accord the various financial interests whose differences are holding up the merger of the street car and elevated companies may be taken out of the hands of the protective bond committees and placed into the hands of a citizens' committee or possibly even a one man coördinator. This was indicated yesterday after Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson had conferred with the chairmen of three first mortgage bondholders committees.

The judge has jurisdiction of the two transit systems because they are in receivership. The three chairmen who conferred with him yesterday are Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank; Albert W. Harris, chairman of the board of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, and D. F. Kelly, president of the Fair store.

Judge to Take Action.

Comments by these three after the conference indicated that Judge Wilkerson has decided to take matters into his own hands to speed up the consolidation in order that the receivership cases can be cleared up and taken out of his court.

"We didn't get anywhere," said Mr. Harris. "The judge asked us what we thought of the appointment of a citizens' committee. I told him I didn't think it would do any good."

"We hope to make some satisfactory progress," said Mr. Traylor. "We are to meet with Judge Wilkerson again."

It was reported that Judge Wilkerson told the three conferees he wanted some decisive action on the plan for a transit merger which will result in improved and extended transportation service. The judge, it is said, has become vexed in recent months over the laggardness of the receivership cases, due to the fact that bondholders of the two systems have been unable to agree to the allotment of securities in the new company.

Aldermen Meet Tomorrow.

Earlier yesterday Mayor Kelly met with the members of the city council transportation committee in the office of Corporation Counsel Sexton and decided that universal transfers will be demanded at a meeting of the committee tomorrow. Receivers for the two companies have been asked to attend and tell why the universal transfers cannot be immediately established.

The city officials also said they would insist upon a settlement of the transit consolidation question at once, and that the city franchise ordinance authorizing the unification must be accepted by the companies by the deadline date of Jan. 1, 1934.

"I am opposed to any extension of time," said Mayor Kelly. "The companies have been kicking the traction consolidation football around long enough. They have had a number of extensions for the acceptance of the ordinance, which was passed by the council and approved by the voters more than three years ago. It's about time something were done one way or the other."

LOOT ROSENBAUM HOME IN GLENCOE OF $10,000 GEMS

Burglars entered the home of Edwin S. Rosenbaum, 820 Greenleaf avenue, Glencoe, the afternoon of Sept. 17 and escaped with $10,000 worth of jewelry and silver valued at $500, according to a disclosure made yesterday by the Glencoe police. News of the burglary was suppressed for a week, the police said, at the request of Mr. Rosenbaum and an insurance company.

At the time of the theft Mr. and Mrs. Rosenbaum and the servants were absent. The burglars entered through a window. The jewelry, including two rings, a diamond bracelet, a diamond brooch, and a wrist watch, was taken from Mrs. Rosenbaum's bedroom. The silver was in a buffet chest in the dining room.

Mr. Rosenbaum is a vice president of the Rosenbaum Grain company.

LANDON MOVES FOR NEW QUIZ IN KANSAS FORGERY

Topeka, Kas., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Gov. Alf M. Landon today prepared to place before a legislative committee the transactions of Jesse W. Greenleaf, member of the state corporation commission, with Ronald Finney, alleged bond forger, who now is in jail awaiting trial.

Greenleaf, a Landon appointee, and one of the largest cattle operators in Kansas, told Fred M. Harris, chief of the investigation squad, that he had contracted for 15,000 head of cattle to be delivered to Finney between Oct. 15 and Dec. 15. Arrangements have been made to deliver these cattle to feeders in the corn belt as they are sent from Texas, where purchased.

Greenleaf is the first of the governor's "official family" to become directly involved in the Finney transactions. Young Finney purchased large blocks of stock in the National Old Line Life Insurance company of Wichita. He is now the largest stockholder in the company. Greenleaf is president of the National Old Line Life.

Friends of Tom Boyd, state treasurer, have been making strenuous efforts to have him resign, but Boyd has flatly refused. Many of Boyd's friends will be involved in impeachment proceedings, certain to be instigated in the special session of the legislature in October, it is said. Boyd faces trial in District court on charges of conspiracy, fraud, and mishandling of state funds.

Oil Explodes in Blaze; 20 Firemen Knocked Down

Twenty firemen were knocked down but not injured yesterday when a barrel of linseed oil exploded in a fire in the plant and warehouse of the General Paint and Varnish company, a division of the Du Pont de Nemours & Co., 2013 Elston avenue. The fire originated when flames beneath a 5,000 gallon tank of oil overheated and ignited the liquid. Firemen extinguished the blaze with a loss of $2,000.

WARNS NRA MAY ENDANGER STATE UTILITY CONTROL

Gas Convention Urged to Guard Present System.

State control of public utilities as opposed to national regulation was advocated yesterday at the convention of the American Gas association. Opposition was also expressed to a reported tendency on the part of legislators to increase the taxes on utilities.

Floyd W. Parsons of New York, editorial director of the Gas Age-Record, declared that regulation of utilities by state commissions is on trial for its life. Such supervision should be as free as possible from political interference, he said.

"It is too early to say whether the NRA codes, in addition to representing a new constitution for industries, will not also be employed as a wedge for federal control," the editor declared.

Urges Saving State Control.

"I dare say that a great majority of gas company executives regard wise and impartial regulation of utilities by state commissions as a highly desirable practice, and one that benefits the public to a substantial degree. This feeling naturally fosters the hope that the present system will not be allowed to break down."

George W. Ratcliffe of Pittsburgh, chairman of the association's natural gas department, said the industry was giving its full support to the President's recovery program, although some of the provisions of the code may be burdensome to the natural gas industry. Sales of natural gas per year are one trillion, three hundred billion cubic feet, of which 60 per cent is used for domestic, commercial and industrial purposes, the speaker declared.

Warns Taxes Peril Dividends.

Paul S. Clapp of New York, vice president of the Columbia Gas and Electric corporation, said that the utilities had felt the depression, despite general belief to the contrary, and that their taxes have reached a level where any increase would wipe out dividends.

"In applying taxes on utilities, legislators often adopt a 'soak the rich' viewpoint," Mr. Clapp said. "They seldom if ever think in terms of the large number of individual investors, but view the utilities as owned by a few wealthy individuals. There are between two and three million investors in the gas and electric utilities alone, and to many of them their dividends have become the principal source of income.

"The cost of government averages $1.10 per day per family. The average electric bill per day is 9 cents; gas, 11 cents, or a total of 20 cents per day, or 90 cents less than the cost per family for government."

State to Make Own Gas Test.

The Illinois commerce commission decided yesterday to make its own tests of the efficiency of the present mixture of manufactured and natural gas for cooking purposes. The tests were decided upon as a result of charges of waste, which the company denies.

Hearing on the gas companies' petition for a federal injunction to restrain the enforcement of a rate reduction ordered by the Illinois commerce commission was postponed yesterday until Nov. 14. The matter concerns the cost of natural gas bought by the Chicago company from the pipeline company that brings it here from Joliet.

ROBBED OF ACCORDION.

John Dubinski, 1111 North Hermitage avenue, told the police that three men strong-armed him early yesterday in front of 1021 North Ashland avenue and took his accordion, valued at $200.

No More Piles

You Can End Your Awful Misery Quick Without Cutting or Salves

Thousands of Pile sufferers do not know that the cause of Piles is internal—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel.

That is the scientific truth about Piles—the real reason why salves and suppositories do not give permanent relief, why cutting does not remove the cause.

Your Piles will only go when you actually remove the cause—and not one minute before. External treatments can't do this—an internal medicine should be used. HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, sold by good druggists everywhere, succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, drives out congested blood, heals and restores the almost dead parts.

So why waste time on external remedies or worry about an operation when Walgreen's invites every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money-back if it does not end their Piles, no matter how stubborn the case?

RADIOLOGY DIGS INTO MYSTERIES OF THE UNIVERSE

1,000 Followers of New Science Convene.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY

Radiology, the youngest of the medical sciences, may yet deal with the formula of life itself. For life, it is said, is light, and light is made up of rays which are rapidly yielding their secrets to the physicist, the chemist, and to those who apply them to the cellular activities of the human body.

More than one thousand radiologists met yesterday at the Palmer house for the opening session of the first American Congress of Radiology. They are practical men and yet they have the enthusiasm of those who glimpse the horizon of a new world, standing on a new peak in Darien.

They know the undreamed of possibilities in the invisible powers which they are beginning to use. No secrets for these rays. In the grand ballroom, amid the exhibits of the human structure through the X-ray, there is the photograph of an Egyptian mummy, thousands of years old, taken right through case and shroud and exposing every bone.

Short Rays and Powerful.

The rays with which they deal are a million billion times shorter than the ordinary waves of radio. They alter the structure of the cells, mingling with the atomic arrangement, breaking it up, bringing death in some cells which ought to die, such as abnormal cancer cells, releasing others to new life.

The latest report from the California Institute of Technology that radium rays have been converted into electrical particles, indicating the secret of the creation of matter, caused no surprise among this group. They are also willing to accept the recent statement of Dr. Richard Willstatter of Munich, the greatest living chemist that life may be explained in chemical terms.

"In five years," said Dr. Albert Soiland of Pasadena, who has worked with Dr. Robert Millikan in the human research into the effects of rays, "we may see the solution of this problem. In these rays, in the work of disintegrating their constituent atoms, the breaking up of the nucleus, we have the secret of the universe. All is light, traveling in waves of different intensity. We will know some day just how to shoot electrons into the human body. This is a step forward along an inevitable road."

The radiologists work on cancer now with a practical voltage of about 500,000 X-ray power. They also work with 4 grams of radium. The effect on the tissues is about the same. There are about 100 different kinds of cancer and each case has to be studied and treated, some with radium, some with X-rays.

Dr. Franklin H. Martin, director general of the American College of Surgeons, said yesterday at the general meeting of the radiological congress:

"Conspicuous proof of the general recognition of the value of radiology and roentgenology was recorded in the histories of the 8,840 cases of cancer cures of five years or more that were reported in October, 1932, by the American College of Surgeons. In 13 per cent of these cases these therapeutic measures were the only remedy used, and in an additional 10 per cent they were used as supplementary forms of treatment. This year's report of cancer cures recorded by the American College of Surgeons, we have reason to predict, will show the same encouraging results."

The American Society for the Control of Cancer has an exhibit giving photographs of treatment with rays and the proof of cures effected.

Application of these agencies has created one of the greatest boons to humanity along medical lines since the discovery of bacteria, according to Dr. Henry K. Pancoast of Philadelphia, president of the congress.

"A large part of the medical profession," he said, "is quite ignorant of the scope of roentgen diagnosis and irradiation treatment, of the principles upon which both are based and of the essentials for proper training of a fully informed specialist in radiology."

Dr. Martin regarded it as inevitable that radiologists must qualify as acceptable specialists of medicine.

Welcomed by Dr. Hayden.

The radiologists were welcomed by Dr. Austin A. Hayden, president of the Chicago Medical society. Addresses were given by Rufus C. Dawes, Hugh S. Cummings, surgeon general of the United States public health service, and Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the journal of the American Medical association.

A pioneer's dinner was held in the evening at which Dr. John O. McReynolds of Dallas, Tex., president of the Pan-American Medical association, was the chief speaker.

"The special field of science to which you are dedicating your talents and ripened experience is one of universal interest," he told the radiologists.

"With the coöperation of the X-ray, the microscope and the ophthalmoscope, we can now unfold a thousand hidden mysteries that affect the welfare of mankind.

Pioneers Are Introduced.

Dr. Edward H. Skinner of Kansas City introduced eight of the earliest pioneers in radiology, each of whom invented apparatus, technique, or the medical application thereof in the early part of the century. These pioneers were Dr. Percy Brown and Herman Lemp of Boston; Dr. James Ewing, Dr. Harry Waite, and Clyde Snook of New York City; Dr. Otto L. Schmidt, Dr. Emil Grubbe, Dr. Walter Metcalf, and Dr. William Allen Pusey of Chicago.

80 TOWNS FLOODED

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Incomplete reports received today said heavy floods in Croatia and Slovenia had inundated eighty cities and villages, including parts of Ljubjana and Zagreb. In the Celje district scores of villages were evacuated.

The hill town of Strug, reports said, was instantaneously flooded under 100 feet of water when underground limestone rivers burst through caves. Fifty persons were missing.

A similar subterranean phenomenon occurred at other villages where the river waters reversed their direction, causing panic amid the superstitious population.

Army regulars are assisting in the rescue work. Crops were destroyed and factories, hospitals, and bridges were swept away by the inundation. The semi-official newspaper Vreme reported that disease was rampant and that many persons were dying, especially in the Ribnichka valley.

5,000 Feared Drowned

Five thousand persons are estimated to have been killed in Sunday's hurricane, which destroyed three-quarters of the oil port of Tampico, Mexico. The government has announced the number of dead cannot be stated accurately. The city has been placed under martial law. The storm was still being felt in the northern and central regions of Mexico last night. Dispatches from Cardenas, 175 miles west of Tampico, said the entire city was flooded and that twenty persons had drowned.

JOHN R. LOONEY NEAR DEATH IN JOLIET PRISON

John R. Looney, one time newspaper publisher and alleged boss of the underworld at Rock Island, Ill., who was convicted of murder eight years ago, was reported critically ill yesterday at Joliet penitentiary.

His health is said to have been poor ever since he entered the prison. After he suffered a lung hemorrhage yesterday physicians said they doubted he could recover.

Looney was found guilty of the killing of William Gabel after state and federal authorities launched an investigation of vice conditions in Rock Island. At his trial it was charged that Gabel was killed because Looney suspected he had been an informant of federal agents. Looney's sentence was fourteen years in the penitentiary.

FREED RAPIST SEIZED; FACES 2 NEW CHARGES

Martin Powers, 25 years old, 5055 North Claremont avenue, who was granted probation by Judge William J. Lindsay in 1929, when he was charged with kidnaping, robbing, and raping a young woman, faced two charges of attempted rape last night in the Summerdale police station.

Powers was arrested Sunday night when he attempted to attack Mrs. Mabel Orians, 40 years old, 5014 Glenwood avenue. Detectives Frank Petak and John Lindermann were summoned by her screams and arrested Powers after he had thrown Mrs. Orians to the ground in an alley. Last evening a 9 year old girl identified him as the man who seized her on Sept. 17 and tried to rape her.

In the spring of 1929 Powers and Joseph Zimmer, who was then 19 years old, were arrested on the charge that they had given a young woman and her escort a lift in their automobile, forced the man out at the point of a revolver, and then raped and robbed the woman.

Police records show that on June 4, 1929, Judge Lindsay changed the charge of rape to a contributing to delinquency, a misdemeanor. He was sentenced to a year in the Bridewell and fined $100. Three days later he was granted probation on the charge.

tions, preventing search for additional flood victims.

A message from Charles Drayton, Pan-American Airways pilot, said authorities at Tampico, overwhelmed less than two weeks ago by a tropical storm that took a toll of 50, regarded the latest blow as the worst disaster in the city's history.

"Large numbers were drowned," his wireless report said, "and untold damage and misery to the city resulted from the storm."

Winds of 110 to 125 miles an hour were reported.

"In addition to the damage caused by the wind," Drayton continued, "heavy rains caused the Tamesi and Panuco rivers to overflow, forcing many to flee without their possessions.

"Heavy damage is also feared in cities and to crops as far south as Tuxpan [150 miles down the coast], and along the wide path northwest of Tampico which the storm followed."

The storm began in Tampico at noon yesterday and kept on until 5 o'clock this morning.

The storm was still being felt in the northern and central regions of the country tonight and heavy rains were falling. Airplane traffic was halted throughout the country.

TAMPICO CITY OF 76,000.

Tampico, with 76,000 population, is a very old city of Aztec origin on the Mexican coast, approximately 150 miles south of Brownsville, Tex.

It is situated in the southeastern corner of the state of Tamaulipas, at the mouth of the Panuco river. The city is built in a low locality, surrounded by marshes and lagoons.

Its development in recent years is due largely to the finding of petroleum nearby. The tankers of several large oil companies frequently make it a port of call. It is the terminus of two railroads and is the commercial outlet for all of the northeastern Mexican states.

The harbor has been improved by jetties and a breakwater and the town rivals Vera Cruz as a commercial port. The streets are broad and regular, with large market places and there are several fine buildings.

8,000 Americans in City.

Indicative of the oil development that made Tampico a port of consequence, some 7,000 to 8,000 Americans are residents of the city. There is no distinctively foreign quarter.

The main town is located on the west bank of the Panuco river and most of the oil terminals are on the opposite shore. The list of oil companies represented includes the Mexican Gulf, Texas, Dutch Shell, Aguila [English] and the Transcontinental [Standard].

A four or five mile river front leads directly into the Gulf of Mexico with no intervening natural bay. There is no bend in the river at Tampico.

Most of the town's structures are two story affairs of stucco and some brick. On the outlying districts adobe huts prevail and it is believed probable a great part of the damage was done there. Most of the better type buildings have resisted hurricane winds.

The True Wage-Earner Interpretation Of The National Recovery Act

At the outset of this page, we must say very definitely that we do not pretend to speak for the American Federation of Labor and we certainly do not pretend to speak for the President of the United States.

But because, through True Story Magazine, we have had this long and close association with the wage-earners of America, who constitute so great a part of our total writers and readers, we do pretend to speak for this great wage-earning market, upon which American business is now concentrating its activity and resting its hopes.

To begin with, then, let us first give you the good news of the buying activity of wage-earning America.

There have been approximately twenty million wage-earners employed right through the depression. And they have continued to be the great major market of America. But about three or four months ago, starting with the inauguration of a new President, some new and interesting things began to happen.

Due to a number of reasons, the general buying on the part of stores and the consumer buying on the part of these great wage-earning masses increased rapidly.

*It was that buying activity that started a considerable amount of re-employment in many lines as far back as last June. We know this by a number of your own sales charts and by our own very tangible records.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

So, the President's National Recovery Act called for re-employment activities for the mass at exactly the right time. You may or may not question the soundness of the economics involved in this National Recovery Act, but you certainly do not question the soundness of the psychology. To say the very least, you've got a Ship of State now with wind in its sails.

This Recovery Act was timed to the minute. The slide had been stopped. Buying had begun. Re-employment had begun. And the President was most fortunate in being able to catch this new condition of affairs on the upturn so that we could all help to push it along.

He is absolutely right now in saying that this country can come back—if it wants to. By which, he undoubtedly means—if it has sense enough to. And integrity enough.

*Our True Story circulation, which is practically all sold from month to month through eighty thousand news-stands, began climbing during the latter part of June and has gone up steadily since that time. We know by fifteen years of careful record that True Story's circulation always follows the payroll. It is almost an exact barometer of employment conditions in every city in the land.

That same buying activity has continued ever since. Again, we know this by many of your sales records. And by ours.

It is novel to be living at a time like this and for millions of us to be conscious of being so deeply involved in our own destinies. For America, at the present time, is probably making more critical history from day to day than the world has usually made from century to century.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

So much for that. Now why are the brains of America so interested in their immediate attention to the development and fostering of this wage-earner market as above everything else?

There are two reasons for this:

First, because America's mass production must use this wage-earning mass for its major market. There isn't any other place for mass production to go.

And second, because America wants its dollars to go to work consuming its products as quickly as possible. And the wage-earner, because of his simple social background, can begin spending more quickly than any other group. This is true of every kind of spending. True Story's circulation, for example, went up almost as quickly as employment went up.

That is why so many of you manufacturers are spending your money on this very mobile wage-earning market where money can be so rapidly expended in return.

In the more socially complex upper frames, the dollar isn't so quickly nor so easily spent after it is earned. There is property to be protected, bank loans to be paid, and all the obligations of capital to be gotten back under way. The first thing the dollar in the upper frames does is to start building back its reserves which, at least for the time being, doesn't do anybody but the possessor any good.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Here at True Story Magazine we can assure you of one thing. Wage-earning America is interpreting the Reconstruction Act intelligently and wisely. And one thing more, wage-earning America is taking its employers seriously, at the full face value of their word.

You may not realize it, but in dealing with the workers of America you are dealing with the most highly intelligent, best educated mass group this world has ever produced up to now.

They will go along with you in their program of spending to the limit of their capacity, not because they are gullible but because they are intelligent and know what it is all about. True Story Magazine, 420 Lexington Avenue, New York, N. Y.

ROOSEVELT TRIES STEEL BAIT TO SPUR RECOVERY

525 million dollars, or an increase of 1 billion 934 million dollars.

If revaluation were undertaken the government would be in a position to take this 1 billion 934 million dollars of profit on the federal reserve's gold holdings and make use of it.

One use might be for public works to simulate employment. Another use which would have a similar effect would be for government subsidies to various industries, such as the railroads, for use in purchasing new equipment, enlarging and renovating plant and equipment and general capital expenditures, which would have an effect comparable to a public works program.

Demand Better Farm Prices.

The farmers' appeal for debt relief was presented by Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau federation; E. A. Eckert of the National Grange, C. E. Huff of the Farmers' National Grain corporation, Charles A. Ewing of the National Live Stock Marketing association, D. A. Geyer of the National Coöperative Milk Producers' federation, and Daniel Wallace and Clarence Poe, farm paper editors.

They asserted that the administration program for refinancing debts is all very well but cannot bring relief unless farm prices are increased sufficiently to make possible the payment of debts.

"If the 'New Deal' for agriculture," they said, "is to mean a square deal for agriculture—if farmers are to share adequately in any restored prosperity—they must receive the prewar purchasing power not merely on some fraction of their now reduced acreages but must receive it on the full, normal and reasonable production of all crops, and certainly so in all cases where they meet the requirements of the A. A. A. for reduced acreage and production.

Pleads for Quick Action.

"With great seriousness we would emphasize our final appeal—namely, that if American agriculture is to receive relief for twelve months to come it must receive that relief immediately. Within the next ninety days the bulk of America's crops will pass from the hands of those whose toil and sweat produced them, and advancing farm prices later will largely go to speculators and middlemen rather than to producers.

"In view of these facts we plead for quick action to increase farm prices, not as a selfish appeal to benefit the farmers only but with appeal for such quick action as a desperately imperative essential to the whole national recovery program. Our manufacturers and business men cannot prosper unless buying power is restored directly to the millions of farm producers who, with their dependents, constitute nearly one half of the buyers of America; who are now in anxious need of all classes of goods and will buy quickly and in tremendous volume if given the chance to do so.

"The magnificent program of the NRA which the farmers of America have thus far loyally supported will fail unless the resultant increased benefits to industrial labor are now matched by increased returns to farmers that will enable them to buy products of the new dispensation."

LOS ANGELES COUNTY ASKS NEW FEDERAL LOAN OF $34,000,000

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—A resolution requesting a new federal loan of $34,728,500 under the terms of the National Industrial Recovery act which provides that 30 per cent of the amount is a gift outright from the government, was adopted today by the county board of supervisors and forwarded immediately to the state advisory board of California which in turn will forward the request to Washington. The money is being sought to finance work in 21 flood control projects in Los Angeles county.

Under the terms of the resolution the county offers $7,242,840 as a gift to start public works projects and relieve unemployment; the balance of $27,485,660 to be a loan which would be repaid by the flood control district over a period of thirty years starting at the beginning of the fiscal year of 1936-37.

OFFSET HATRED WITH IDEALISM, PLEA TO JEWS

Jewish women leaders were told by Dr. Evelyn Garfield Kadushin, psychologist, Madison, Wis., yesterday to return to their culture and to recapture the social idealism of the prophets in an effort to offset "the climate of hate in which the Jew lives." Dr. Kadushin addressed representatives of 90 Jewish women's groups at the first fall meeting of the Conference of Jewish Women's Organizations in the Congress hotel.

"Jews are living in a new environment, a climate of opinion which can only be described as hate," Dr. Kadushin said. "The world is so closely knitted that what happened in Germany is felt here. We must strengthen our moral fiber and self-respect. That is the only way we can achieve in the future.

"The cultural background of the Jew is breaking down in the western world, but the group remains. If the Jew, instead of hiding his head in the sand and trying to ignore bitter facts about him, will return to his culture and allow his culture to play about him again, he can capture the social idealism of the prophets, the intense personal ethics of rabbis, and dignify his life with the folkways and ceremonies of his people. When he does that he will not come to the world as a gypsy people, but bringing culture to exchange with other groups."

Board Prepares to Hear Accusations.

More than 2,500 complaints that Chicago business men are not complying with the provisions of the National Recovery act are awaiting a hearing by the local compliance board, its members were informed yesterday at their first official meeting.

Attorney Urban A. Lavery, temporary chairman of the board, announced that steps were being taken by the board to investigate the complaints. The board will meet again tomorrow noon to select a permanent chairman, a task which was delayed yesterday by the absence of one of the six members, P. F. Sullivan, president of the Chicago Building Trades council. The other members are Edmund K. Hogan, Robert G. Peck, Bruce MacLeish, and Miss Edith Dolton.

Prepare to Hear Complaints.

"The complaints of non-compliance with the NRA have been assembled at the office of F. L. Roberts, local representative of the U. S. department of commerce," said Mr. Lavery. "They were discussed in a cursory manner at the meeting and temporary machinery for hearing them is being set up.

"The members agreed that the policy of the board should be a conciliatory one. The question of penalties is not to be stressed. It is within our jurisdiction to attempt to iron out difficulties and we believed that 90 per cent of the complaints can be straightened out by talking to employers and employés and acting as a board of arbitration."

The chairman said that a mistaken impression had arisen that the compliance board intended to mete out penalties. He emphasized that the board, at least for the time being, will act purely in a conciliatory capacity.

A summary of the more than 2,500 complaints is now being made by Attorney Lavery. Hearings will be held as soon as the complaints can be sorted out, he said. Employers will not be summoned to the hearings, he explained, the board having no such power, but he said he anticipated that employers would be pleased to attend hearings and explain their alleged noncompliance with the NRA.

Confer on Prosecution.

The prosecution of NRA code violators was discussed at a secret conference yesterday between Special Assistants United States Attorney General Frank M. Parrish and U. S. District Attorney Dwight H. Green. Mr. Parrish left immediately for Washington after the meeting, intimating that any announcement concerning prosecution of violators would be made there.

Announcement was made yesterday that the 2,000 workers employed by the necktie manufacturers in Chicago have formed a union which has received a charter from the American Federation of Labor. Mrs. Jennie Sigel, organizer for the federation, asserted that the union would fight child labor, low wages, and sweatshop conditions which, she said, existed in the industry. Local employers emphatically denied that such conditions existed and asserted that the minimum wages were $13.50 a week.

Mobilization of women for the NRA drive in Illinois will be discussed at a meeting of the Illinois Women's Democratic club today in the Morrison hotel. Mrs. Elizabeth A. Conkey will preside.

HIJACKS TRUCKLOAD OF STOCK.

Elmer Lehnert, a stockman from Thawville in Iroquois county, was robbed of three cows, thirteen hogs, four calves, two sheep, and his truck by two hijackers who halted him early yesterday in Governor's highway just south of the Lincoln highway.

Extra Session of Assembly to Consider Revenue Bills

Gov. Horner has promised to include the general subject of revenue in his call for a second special session of the legislature, the executive committee of the Chicago recovery administration was told yesterday. The second special session is the one projected for enactment of liquor control laws. The first is to be devoted solely to legislation for relief of the idle.

Douglas Sutherland, secretary of the Civic federation and head of a committee which went to Springfield to ask Gov. Horner to include in the legislative agenda subjects permitting a thorough revision of the local revenue system, reported to the executive committee of the CRA on his mission.

Tells Governor's View.

Gov. Horner, he said, is in sympathy with the general aims of the CRA. He will include revenue matters in the second session call if an emergency exists, but then only in case bills have been drafted ready for submission. Gov. Horner does not think it fair to keep the legislators at Springfield while some one is working on the bills, Sutherland said.

William Stelzer, chairman of the CRA committee on tax limitation, reported to the executive committee that his group has agreed to make a study of the effects of a limit on general property taxes of 1 per cent of the full valuation.

The present tax rate is approximately 2.7 per cent of the full valuation of property. The Stelzer committee's study will concern the amount of revenue local governments would receive under a 1 per cent limitation for operating expenses, after meeting funded debt charges, and how much revenue they would have to get from other sources to operate their essential services.

Asks Loan Amendment.

Samuel K. Markham, general counsel for the Federal Home Owners' Loan corporation, asked the CRA to petition Gov. Horner to include in his legislative call the matter of amending existing laws so that trustees of mortgaged property and building and loan associations would be permitted to accept the corporation's bonds in exchange for mortgages which they now hold.

The corporation has received 20,000 applications for loans in Chicago, Markham said. In cases where private individuals own the mortgages on homes the home owners have had little difficulty in getting the mortgage holders to take the federally backed bonds in exchange for the mortgages. But mortgage trustees and building and loan associations have expressed doubt of their legal power to accept such bonds, Markham explained. His request was referred to the legislative committee of the CRA.

The executive committee named Frank Cenfield, one of its members and a member of the technical staff of the city council finance committee, as its secretary.

MRS. HARVEY A. TYLER OF CHICAGO IS NAMED AID IN ICKES OFFICE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Mrs. Harvey A. Tyler of Chicago, president of the Chicago Parents Public School association and as such one of the supporters of the school board's economy program, has accepted an appointment on the staff of Secretary of the Interior Ickes.

Mrs. Tyler, who has been a friend of Secretary and Mrs. Ickes for some years, has been assigned as corresponding secretary to J. Elmer Thomas, technical adviser to the petroleum administrative board. She will reside in Washington.

EASTLAND TORCH RESCUERS TO GET TRIBUTE TONIGHT

Three blow torch welders, who aided in the rescue work after the Eastland disaster in 1915, will be honored tonight at a banquet to be given at the Congress hotel. They are George Goffman, John Siwek, and James Zimmerman. The banquet is to be held in conjunction with the convention of the International Acetylene association. Mayor Kelly has been invited to attend.

Siwek, the first welder on the scene, cut a hole in the side of the vessel and rescued fifteen persons. He was joined later by Goffman, Zimmerman, and three others who have left Chicago. The Eastland sank in the Chicago river in July, 1915, with a loss of 812 lives.

WARNS OF LABOR ISSUE IN PUBLIC WORKS PROJECTS

D'Esposito Tells of Some Easy Money Problems.

BY AL CHASE.

Joshua D'Esposito, Illinois engineer for the federal public works administration, yesterday told members of the Union League club at a roundtable luncheon that he had heard union labor in the Chicago area probably would demand eight hours pay for a six hour day on federal "easy money" projects. He added, however, that the government would not and under the law could not comply with such a demand.

"I've heard the chances are that our labor unions are going to try to force contractors to pay an eight hour daily wage for six hours work," Mr. D'Esposito said. "Whether they strike or not, that issue must be fought out. If they demand eight hours pay for six hours work, well, that's no go. We may face trouble, but I don't think so."

Raps Lack of Coöperation.

Mr. D'Esposito criticised Chicago and other Illinois municipalities for lack of coöperation in trying to get a slice of the federal easy money. Municipalities had been urged to cöoperate by preparing plans for needed projects but few had done so, he said.

He then listed the kinds of projects and their costs which are now being considered for federal loans. They are:

Bridges, $17,485,000; drainage projects [leaving out the Sanitary district], $3,600,000; electric light and power plants, $3,300,000; hospitals and various public institutions, $5,100,000; municipal buildings, $542,000; parks and recreation grounds, $5,000,000; schools [not including Chicago schools] $2,000,000; sewers, sewage disposal and garbage disposal plants, $55,000,000; roads, $361,000; waterworks, $8,700,000.

Considering Canal Loan.

Mr. D'Esposito said an application for a loan by the Sanitary district was being considered and thought means would be found to grant it. A loan for completion of the outer drive bridge is also being considered, he said, but he added that the park boards' financial affairs would have to be straightened out before the government could do anything. He said an effort is being made to solve the difficult problem of providing money for the construction of fourteen Chicago schools.

Carter Harrison, chairman of the Illinois public works advisory board, yesterday declared that projects must be "economically sound and socially desirable" before they would be approved. He said he could see no reason for approving unnecessary projects just to get money to spend in Illinois.

Evanston Loan Approved.

Official notice was given the Evanston city council last night by Mr. D'Esposito that its application for a federal loan of $250,000 to build a water reservoir had been approved. Making of the loan is contingent, however, on the contract for construction of the reservoir being let within thirty days.

An obstacle in the path of speedy construction is the objection of the residents of the sixth ward, in which part of the reservoir will be built, to its being erected there. The council ordered a public hearing on the objections to be held Thursday evening at the Willard school, which is in the Sixth ward.

FOSSILIZED FISH SEEN BY DANISH EXPLORER AS LINK IN EVOLUTION

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Lauge Koch, Danish explorer of the arctic, arrived from east Greenland today with fossilized fishes of the tertial period which he claimed plainly demonstrated new links in evolution.

Last year on his return from Greenland, Dr. Koch announced he had found evidence of a missing link in the chain of evolution—a four legged fish that walked ashore.

"As you know," he explained, "scientists have divided evolution into five main groups—fish, toads, reptiles, birds, and Mammals. But the connecting link has been missing. This link I claim to have found between fishes and toads. We have found petrified remains of incalculable value."

TRUCK STRIKES BRIDGE TENDER, CAUSING DEATH

Thomas Manning, 53 years old, 7642 Vernon avenue, a city bridgetender, died last night in Holy Cross hospital of injuries incurred yesterday afternoon when he was struck by a truck while crossing 69th street at Ashland avenue. Peter Servone, 900 North 24th avenue, Melrose Park, driver of the truck, which is owned by the Mid West Cartage company, 1201 Lake street, Melrose Park, was not at fault, witnesses told the police.

Manning's death and three others yesterday raised the Cook county auto toll to 756 since Jan. 1. The other victims:

Anthony Circelli, 48 years old, 828 Garibaldi place. Died in Mother Cabrini hospital of injuries incurred Sept. 23 in an automobile collision at Racine avenue and Taylor street.

William C. Smith, 40 years old, 10030 South Perry avenue. Killed last night by the automobile of a hit and run driver at 50th street and Cicero avenue. The speeding car narrowly missed Mrs. Smith who was walking with her husband.

Herman Jaffke, 48 years old, 8148 Burnham avenue, an employé of the South Park. Died in Mercy hospital last night from injuries received earlier in the day when he was struck by an automobile in front of 3210 South Park way. The car was driven by Julius Stutaritz, 1628 Ridge road, Munster, Ind. He was held.

Ralph Kentz, 24 years old, 6914 Harvard avenue, an ice wagon driver, was exonerated by a coroner's jury which yesterday investigated the death of Frances Molin, 9 years old, 6936 Wentworth avenue. She was injured when she fell from his wagon on Saturday.

COP SHIELDS GIRL WHO SHOT HIM, 'SAVING A HOME'

Lieut. Paul Maggio of the Melrose Park police department was officially suspended from duty last night by Village President Joseph Imburgio, pending further investigation of the mysterious wound he incurred on Sept. 15 during a quarrel with an unidentified young woman in a beer tavern at 3119 Lake street, Melrose Park. The action followed a hearing of Maggio's case at the regular village board meeting.

The lieutenant has refused to divulge the name of the woman who shot him in the shoulder and has declined to give an explanation of the affair to village authorities. He remarked to a reporter last night: "There's no need of my talking and breaking up a home or causing a lot of misery to others besides myself."

Two other policemen, William May and Emil Ristau, were brought before the village board for not doing their duty when they released Maggio's assailant on the lieutenant's orders.

INDEPENDENTS ANSWER U. S. ON MILK VIOLATIONS

Charge 'Trust' Conspires Against Them.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Forty milk stand owners yesterday filed answers to citations issued against them by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace. They charged that the organized "milk trust" conspired with the federal agricultural adjustment administration to prevent the small, unorganized milk dealers of the Chicago area from having a voice in the AAA milk code.

The citation of the government called upon the violators of the milk trade agreement placed in force in the Chicago metropolitan area on Aug. 1 to show cause why their licenses to sell milk at retail should not be revoked. The principal charge was that the milk depots sold milk and cream to consumers at less than the price fixed by the agreement. Under the agreement milk is to be retailed at 10 cents a quart.

Admit Violation of Agreement.

In the answers of the depot owners, filed yesterday in the name of the Independent Milk Distributors' Association of Northern Illinois by its attorney, Joseph Green, the independent dealers admitted having violated the agreement. But they reiterated an earlier offer which had been made in their behalf that they would try to comply with all the health and other requirements of the agreement "if permitted to continue in business under certain minor modifications."

These modifications, pointed out in the replies filed yesterday, would provide that, since the cost of delivering milk to the doorstep constitutes between 37 and 41 per cent of the total cost of the milk to the consumers, some differential in price be granted for those who pay cash and call for the milk in person at the distributing station.

See Price Rise as Result.

If the nondelivery system can provide the consumer with cheaper milk, as the violations cited demonstrate, the independents contended that producers' surpluses would decrease when the consumer could buy three quarts at the price now paid for two, adding that "a general rise in price levels for the producer is the inevitable consequence."

The independents accused the administration of having failed to notify them of public hearings on the Chicago milk situation, and asserted that their formal offer, submitted some time ago, to comply with the trade agreement except on retail prices, "has not been dignified by even formal rejection."

Offer to Pay Higher Prices.

In this offer the independent dealers agreed to pay farmers a 25 cents a hundredweight more than the price specified by the agreement for class 1 milk.

The independents have filed a suit with the Supreme Court of the United States, seeking to test the constitutional rights of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace to enforce the milk agreement, and questioning the legality of the act itself, under which the agreement was promulgated.

A large delegation of milk company officials belonging to the Milk Council, Inc., and the Chicago Milk Dealers' association left yesterday for Washington to present testimony for the boosting of the retail prices of milk and cream in Chicago under the federal agreement.

DEARBORN PICKS NRA BOARD; FORD PLANT NOT REPRESENTED

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 25.—(AP)—A local NRA compliance board was named late today for suburban Dearborn, where the Ford Motor company is located, but the board will have no authority to pass upon or discuss complaints lodged against the Ford company.

The membership of the board, chosen by the Dearborn NRA committee, does not include a representative either of the Ford company, which has not signed the NRA automobile code, or of its employés.

The local committee had expected its board to consider complaints involving the Ford company, but was informed officially today that its power is limited to firms operating under the President's reëmployment agreement. Since there is an agreed code for the automotive industry, the activities of the board in connection with the Ford company will be limited to reporting any complaints to Washington for consideration there.

The committee reported receiving some complaints about dismissals by the Ford company. Officials of the Ford company declined to make any statement whatever regarding the complaints or about the NRA in any connection.

GROWERS HALT TOBACCO SALES; ANGRY AT PRICE

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Disappointed tobacco farmers forced a stop to sales on the Wendell tobacco market near here today, shortly after the three weeks marketing holiday ended, while reports from other markets told of conflicting reactions by the growers to the prices they received. Prices on the Wendell market were unofficially estimated at $13 a hundred pounds.

Wake county deputies were sent from Raleigh to Wendell when officials of that town and warehouse men reported that a crowd of 2,000 farmers was manifesting displeasure. Sales were suspended at 2 o'clock, and it was agreed not to attempt to resume until tomorrow morning. Sixteen deputies were ordered to be present for the beginning of the auction.

L. M. Knott, chairman of a self-constituted committee of seven which professed to speak for the farmers, demanded that the Wendell warehouses be closed. Knott declared the farmers were "protesting against our being robbed, as the government has fallen down on us."

Publisher in Ohio Begins 6 Months Term for Libel

Sidney, O., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Grover Fleming, publisher at various times of the Ohio Examiner and of the American Examiner, surrendered tonight to Sheriff Cliff Gearhart and was placed in Shelby County jail to begin serving a sentence of six months imprisonment for criminal libel. He was indicted and convicted on the criminal libel charge a year ago for an article in his newspaper about William O'Leary, chief of police of Sidney. In addition to the jail sentence he was fined $500.

CUBAN PRESIDENT WINS SUPPORT OF REBEL CHIEFTAIN

"King of Bushwhackers" Appears in Havana.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Sept. 25.—Cuba's revolution gyrated on its eccentric course today, with tranquility on the surface and economic trouble beneath.

Juan Blas Hernandez, king of Cuban bushwhackers, came to Havana not as a captive, but as a visitor, and at the presidential palace made his peace with President Ramon Grau San Martin and Col. Fulgencio Batista, head of the army. They draped themselves around each other's shoulders in Cuban fashion while news reel cameras ground away.

Warehouse Strike Settled.

Meanwhile the strike of warehousemen, which has led to a food scarcity in Havana, was settled. Wholesalers report that they were told by the palace last night either to accede to the demands of the strikers or the military would take control of foodstuffs in the warehouses and distribute them to retailers. The strike was settled, but the wholesalers say it will push them into the red.

The strike at the American Steel company in Havana was also settled and truckloads of workers are now parading the streets shrieking vivas.

The chief item of the day was the appearance of Blas Hernandez, professional guerrilla fighter, whom the army chased in Camaguey province last week. Col. Batista announced Saturday that Blas Hernandez had been captured, but this was shown to be wrong the next day when Blas Hernandez popped up outside the iron circle thrown around him by the soldiers.

Guerrilla uprisings in the interior have been conjectured to be part of the strategy of the counter revolutionists to scatter the army and pave the way for activity in Havana. The bushwhacking performances in the island, however, were not followed by any demonstrations by uprisers in Havana and apparently the strategy, what there was of it, did not click.

Appears With Three Sons.

This morning Blas Hernandez appeared at the palace with three of his sons, who also were reported to have been captured last week. With him was part of the Caribbean army of students. Whether the "Caribs" had brought Blas Hernandez or Blas Hernandez had fetched along the Caribs is an unsettled question.

The bushwhacker chief said he had not been captured nor had he surrendered. He told Grau and Batista that he had never taken up arms against the Grau government. He said he and his guerrilla followers were merely trying to settle the strike and quash communism.

He is reported to have said he is supporting the present government. The three men smacked each other's backs in the Latin-American fashion, and Blas Hernandez left the palace not a prisoner. News of Blas Hernandez' visit is reported to have left the counter revolutionists speechless.

Blas Explains Cuba's Troubles.

Blas Hernandez, a short man with a barrel-like chest, in his bluff fashion put a finger this evening on one of the fundamental characteristics of the present revolution.

"The trouble in Cuba," he said, "is that none of us tells the truth."

Among the versions of the wanderings of the bushwhacking Ulysses going the rounds tonight is one that when Blas Hernandez came to a village, 100 of his guerrilla followers gathered around and Blas Hernandez, with a heart of gold, invited them to a barbecue at his farm. Hearing the news, 400 other hungry men came dashing to the feast.

Blas Hernandez, it is said, found a neighbor who gave him two cows to be barbecued. After the meat supply ran out, Blas Hernandez made a dash for the hills with 50 picked men to escape his own growing army of hungry bushwhackers. To keep his hand in affairs he took two cities by kicking out their mayors.

A dispatch from Santiago tonight said sugar laborers and communists have taken possession of the central at Miranda, confining the manager and other officers to the mill.

Argentineans Ask U. S. to Withdraw from Cuba

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 25.—(AP)—The Argentine branch of the World Anti-Imperialist league today suggested to the United States embassy that American naval forces be withdrawn from Cuban waters, that the Platt amendment to the Cuban constitution be annulled, and that the United States refrain from intervention in the island republic.

Atty. W. W. O'Brien Fined After a Night in Cell

W. W. O'Brien, well known criminal lawyer, was fined $25 for reckless driving yesterday by Police Magistrate Bert Ochsenschlager in Aurora after he had spent the night in a police cell there. He was arrested on Sunday evening after an accident on the Lincoln highway leading into Aurora.

Thomas' effective scalp treatment (1) stimulates these dormant sources of nourishment and (2) overcomes the local causes of baldness. "The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

FINANCING THE CITIES.

It was inevitable that the national conference of mayors which met here should have found little to discuss except financial problems. There are only a few large cities in the country which are not in grave difficulties because of tax delinquencies and the reluctance of bankers and investors to finance the cities.

The curious aspect of the conference was not the concentration on financial matters but the remedy which seemed to meet with the greatest favor. The mayors seemed pretty well agreed that the way out was to obtain loans from the federal treasury or one of its agencies. The cities, all of them together, need something like half a billion dollars, it was said, to get back on their feet. If the government would advance only $200,000,000 it would be sufficient to encourage private lenders to advance the rest. And 200 million, they observed, is only a drop in the federal government's ocean of loans, subsidies, grant-in-aid, and whatnot.

A more sensible approach would have insisted on a reduction in federal expenditures and tax ation which would leave enough money in the cities with which local taxes could be paid. The federal government draws by far the greater part of its revenues from the cities, as any one familiar with the table of income tax returns by districts can readily testify. The Chicago region, for example, pays nine-tenths of all the income taxes paid in Illinois. When money is lent by the federal treasury to the local governments it is the money from the cities which is being returned to the cities. Much of it would be available for local taxes in the first place if the federal government's extortion were lightened.

The more money the cities borrow from Washington the more money Washington will take out of the cities and the less will be left for the support of police departments, school systems and all the other vital services which local governments perform. There is no comfort to be found for bankrupt cities in the fact that the present trend is leading inevitably to the bankruptcy of the federal government as well as the cities.

PASSING THE BUCK TO THE JUDGES.

The bar blames the judges and the judges—some of them, at any rate—blame the bar for the congestion of the civil courts in Cook county. To the layman this looks suspiciously like buck passing. Certainly there would be few cases continued if lawyers did not request continuances, and certainly, too, courageous judges, not afraid to earn the displeasure of lawyers, would refuse to postpone trials far more frequently than is now done.

The unfortunate citizen with a just claim to press or a sound defense to present is in the middle. If he has been injured in an automobile accident he is often obliged to settle his claim for much less than he should receive because his case will not be heard for years, and meanwhile he has doctor's bills and hospital charges to pay.

A great many things can happen in a couple of years. Witnesses can die or disappear, incidents can be forgotten, and insurance companies can go broke.

A case which recently was called to our attention is in point: The owner of an automobile which had been in a minor accident was sued for substantial damages. He was insured and turned the matter over to the insurance company to defend, giving them a list of witnesses whose testimony was calculated to prove that he was not responsible for the accident. During the long delay before the case was called the insurance company folded up. The list of witnesses was lost and there was no duplicate. The automobile owner, who was in all probability guiltless, was obliged to settle the claim at a substantial cost to himself, for he was no longer in a position to defend it successfully.

The delays in our courts encourage injustices of this sort. The blackmailer and the deadbeat get the breaks and honest men are penalized. It cannot be said too often that there is no good reason why 99 out of every hundred civil suits should not be tried within three months of the time they are filed.

ORGANIZED TRUANCY.

A few hundred high school children were induced to take part in what was called a strike against the board of education's economy program. Disciplinary action by the school authorities against the children who participated is indicated. It is even more important to discipline their parents. There is plenty of law to meet the requirements of the situation. A parent of a truant can and should be punished.

There is hardly room to doubt that the malicious campaign of misrepresentation regarding the economy program made the strike possible. The moral and perhaps the legal responsibility for disorder and insubordination among the children is on the demagogues who howled the falsehood that the board of education was wrecking the school system. To the extent that teachers and so-called leaders of opinion were betrayed into lending their names and influence to the movement they share the responsibility.

THE HARBINGER OF DISASTER.

Mr. Jesse Jones of Texas, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, is moving heaven and earth to induce bankers to sell preferred stock in their banks to the government. His purpose, so it is said, is to enable the banks to lend more money to business.

Mr. Jones' speeches are the harbinger of disaster. There is no shortage of funds in the banks today. Even if bankers take the government's money they will not voluntarily lend it to those who are not likely to be in a position to pay it back. As long as those who are now in charge of the depositors' funds remain in command the capital which will be subscribed by the government will not be lent to poor credit risks. It will be invested, as too large a portion of the banks' present resources are perforce invested, in government paper of one sort or another. Thus the government will borrow from the banks to lend to banks to lend to the government.

Not even Mr. Jones can expect to progress toward prosperity on this economic treadmill. In fairness to him it must be assumed that his purpose is less to provide additional money for loans than to gain control of the management of many banks. Having achieved that objective, he can then dispose of the depositors' money as his judgment and desire dictate.

A great deal has been said about the responsibility of bankers for the depression. Much of the criticism is just. The bankers did make unsound loans with the result that some 5,000 banks went into receivership and depositors lost billions of dollars. The banks which have survived four years of depression made some bad loans but relatively many fewer than were made by the banks which folded up. Now comes Mr. Jones with his patent scheme to make bad banks out of those that have proved themselves trustworthy.

To complete the picture it is necessary only to call attention to the fact that the deposit guarantee system is also about to become operative. Under this happy arrangement the strong and well managed institutions are liable for the losses of the wildcatters. It follows that even if a bank management has the courage to resist Mr. Jones' generous offer of additional capital it cannot avoid the losses which must be expected to follow from unwise lending on the part of those banks which do take the government's shilling.

The R. F. C. program is calculated to place banking judgment in the hands of the government and leave banking responsibility in the hands of private management. A more dangerous, a more vicious program can hardly be conceived. If persisted in it must be expected to shake confidence in banks. Such a situation would be far more menacing than the banking difficulties of last March. Then the loss of confidence was based largely upon hallucinations. If Mr. Jones has his way the fears of depositors will be all too well grounded in reason.

POT AND KETTLE.

The communist demonstration before the German consulate in Chicago was intended to suggest to the unthinking that what Hitler favors the communists oppose. The truth of the matter is that in most essentials the Nazis and the communists think alike. They both deify a central government. Both prevent free criticism and the organization of a political opposition. Both exercise a rigid control over the printed and spoken word. Both deny that the individual has any rights either of life or property which must be respected. The principal difference between them is that Stalin speaks Russian and Hitler speaks German.

Stalin says a man with two cows is an enemy of society and sends him off to forced labor in the arctic. Hitler says a Jew is an enemy of society and enforces a boycott against him. Stalin says it is a crime, punishable by death or exile, to question the wisdom of the communist party. Hitler says it is a crime, punishable by imprisonment in a concentration camp, to question the wisdom of the Nazis. There is little or nothing to choose between these doctrines and policies. The explanation of all of them must be made in terms of ignorance and mental disorder.

GET THE RECORD STRAIGHT.

[Baltimore Sun.]

Commenting on the James [Fur] Sammons case, the Kansas City Star says that, with both Illinois and Maryland seeking the fugitive, the authorities there would have preferred to send him to this state "because, rightly or wrongly, the impression has been created that gangsters are more likely to receive lenient treatment in Illinois than in the eastern state, which prides itself upon a high standard of law enforcement." But it adds that "for some reason the Maryland authorities did not appear to be making any effective effort to come for Sammons, while their Illinois competitors did."

Our contemporary has been misinformed. The authorities here were in communication with Kansas City authorities by telegram, telephone, and letter. The extradition papers were signed by the governor and forwarded, the truth being that unusually energetic action was taken to show this state's desire to have the man returned. Nothing more could have been done in the situation than was done. When Sammons was turned over to Illinois the assumption here was that the procedure was prompted by inclination to oblige a neighbor state with which such exchanges of prisoners are more common.

The Star is right in saying that the surrender of a prisoner in such circumstances "should depend less upon accident or the aggressiveness of state officials and more upon the public interest." In this instance the ends of justice have been obviously frustrated by delay. The crime for which Sammons is wanted here was committed in 1926. In the meantime one of the state's chief witnesses has died, and the flight of time has necessarily weakened the memory and the testimony of others. The man is a fugitive for the second time, and if nothing worse happens to him in the matter of his $20,000 bail than the penalty incurred in the last forfeiture there is no cause for wonder that he took a chance. When recaptured before the forfeiture was set aside on payment of costs, which amounted to just $14.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

"ART IN THIS COUNTRY," says Lorado Taft, "should be of the warp and woof of American life." The trouble is, Lorado, what with radios, the squawkies, the nudists, night club, jazz and so many more things there is no warp left in American life; nothing but woof. Woof, woof!

"DESPITE THE NOVEL and colossal manipulation of the supply and demand of commodities," comments old Art Henning in Washington, "despite the enormous outpourings of money from the federal treasury . . . boosting the public debt above the wartime level, economic law still stands unrepealed." Shucks, Arthur, you don't understand this thing. If the economic law stands unrepealed so much the worse for the economic law. And if it wasn't repealed then it was because it was overlooked or because of those doggoned stiff-necked Republicans. With a good working Democratic majority in both houses in December there's no reason at all why the economic law shouldn't be repealed quicker n' scat.

EXTRAVAGANCE.

"Each grain of sand that in the hourglass runs
A teardrop seems the while we are apart,
And hour by hour, while pass a thousand suns,
The sundial throws a shadow on my heart;
The ruthless tolling of each bell I bear,
The endless swinging of each pendulum,
All, all conspire to fill my heart with fear
That it is over: you will never come . . ."

Yet when you do, all smiles and tenderness,
Such vast extravagance deserts me quite,
So that, to hear me, you would never guess
I could be spendthrift with you out of sight.
How is it one so lavish in his yearning
Can be so casual on your returning?

AND NOW that Sally Rand is sentenced to the county jail, what about the naked truth? That thing's been running around without any clothes on for years and years and something's got to be done about it. And very soon the time is coming of "naked woods and meadows brown and sere." We don't mind how brown and sere the meadows get, but those naked woods! Well, they've just got to be draped, that's what! And after we get through with the naked truth and naked woods let us go after the bare facts. Facts have no more right to run around without anything on than anybody else has. Shame on you, bare facts! Quick, somebody call the wagon.

JAPANESE SLEEPING SICKNESS.

THE present epidemic of sleeping sickness, while it differs in many particulars from similar outbreaks in this country and Europe, seems to be of a type that has appeared periodically in Japan since 1871.

The disease seems to be similar to the Japanese disease, clinically, in that it causes about the same symptoms and runs about the same course; pathologically, in that the changes in the brain appear to be similar; epidemiologically, in that the outbreak came at the right season of the year and seems to be acting otherwise as the Japanese outbreaks have done.

In these oriental epidemics the disease began in July or August—the latter, in most instances—and subsided in September, October, or November—the latter, in most cases. The length of an outbreak has usually been two and a half months. If this one follows the Japanese example, October should witness considerable improvement, and early in November there should be a return to something approximating normal.

This type of the disease falls heaviest on people of middle age and beyond. Children and young adults enjoy considerable freedom from danger. It involves the brain generally, and the membranes that cover it more than is the case with the disease as it is better known to us. One consequence of this is a lack of the paralysis agitans, change in personality, and other symptoms which persisted for years in the wake of the disease of the other type. This year the disease seems to have a mortality rate of about 12 per cent, but those who recover have a fairly brief convalescence and final restoration to health.

The disease, as we are having it, is much milder than it was in the worst of the Japanese epidemics. In this type the sick people have more pains, more muscle soreness, and more stiffness in the neck and back than was found in those sick with encephalitis of the kind that appeared to come from Europe in the wake of the world war.

At the time this is written the disease is fairly prevalent in the territory within a radius of two hundred miles of St. Louis. It behaves so differently from the disorder which the physicians commonly call sleeping sickness that its true nature is not at first suspected. Most of the cases at first are suspected of being typhoid fever, and the blood is examined for Widal reaction. Some of the cases are given the fantastic diagnosis intestinal flu. The only laboratory test which helps establish the diagnosis is spinal puncture followed by examination of the spinal fluid.

There is no evidence that the disease is carried in the clothing. Some physicians have had it, but they were not in practice and had not attended cases of the disease or even cases that might have been of the disease. A second case in a house or in the same family has been rare.

SHINGLES.

W. P. F. writes:

1. What brings on shingles?

2. Is it a contagious disease? I have been suffering for the last six weeks with pains through the left side of my face and head, my nose being the parting line. I was told it was shingles, and was advised to use an ointment, which I have done, but I still am troubled all the time with very sharp pains in my head and face and find sleeping at night almost impossible.

3. Can you advise me what is best to do to relieve the pains so that I can sleep?

4. How long does it take for a case of shingles to heal?

REPLY.

1. It is due to an infection of nerve roots with a virus or a microbe.

2. No.

3. The pain of herpes is apt to be considerable. It is often controllable by the internal use of the salicylate preparations.

4. Most cases of shingles are cured in less than a month. In many, the neuralgia, and in some, the eruption, holds on for months.

GAINING WEIGHT.

R. D. G. writes: I am 32 years old, single, 5 feet 11½ inches tall, and weigh only 131 pounds. I have tried different diets, but am unable to gain any weight.

REPLY.

Take a nap soon after your noon meal. Eat supper and go to bed soon thereafter and get nine hours of good sleep; no excitement after supper; no "nighthawk" business. Cultivate calm and relaxation. In addition to your regular meals eat a bowl of crackers and half and half cream and milk and sugared rice and half and half cream and milk once daily.

LOW BLOOD PRESSURE.

REPLY.

Some cases are relieved by dieting. The diet should be low in starchy foods and sweets. It should contain much buttermilk, sour milk, acidophilus milk, lactic acid milk. Lactose can replace other sugars. Other cases are relieved by wearing abdominal supporters. Some are benefited by training. They should train themselves to become interested in and excited by sports and competitions generally.

OPENINGS BOARDED UP.

Chicago, Sept. 20.—[Friend of the People.]—A fire occurred in the building a few doors from us recently. The building is now vacant and dozens of children come into the place and the yard. I am afraid they may be injured. Can't something be done to keep them out? E. C.

The interior of the building in question was damaged by fire to the extent of about 5 per cent. The openings are now boarded up and the building is structurally safe.

MORTGAGE PAYMENTS.

Chicago Heights, Ill., Sept. 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A bought a $1,500 mortgage of a real estate firm. It was due last March. B, the party that gave the mortgage, made payments on same to about $650. Mortgage does not say where payments should be made. Real estate firm accepted the payments and said nothing to A. Real estate firm says they cannot pay any of same. Who is the loser? H. A. W.

The mere fact that the wording says "payable at" a specified place does not mean that the holder would be bound by a payment made to the broker in absence of the notes. It is, however, often the case that a payment which would be unauthorized as far as the wording is concerned can be sustained on previous dealings between the parties; for example, if the maker has met previous payments by depositing the money in advance of the deposit of the notes and the holder has acquiesced in this practice, then the holder would be regarded as authorizing such deposits so that he would be bound thereby. This is the holding in 249 Ill. App., 474; 197 Ill. App., 520, and 233 Ill. App., 614.

MORTGAGE RENEWAL.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am the owner of a two flat residence on which there is a $700 first mortgage. This mortgage becomes due very soon and I want same renewed, but the holder of the mortgage asks $50 for a renewal. Is he allowed by law any such charge or bonus, or whatever it is? The interest has always been paid promptly. E. S. E.

He is under no legal obligations to renew and hence is in a position to name his own terms arbitrarily, provided the total charges do not exceed the maximum legal interest rate, which is 7 per cent per annum.

A REPUBLICAN COMEBACK.

Davenport, Ia., Sept. 20.—Your editorial this morning, "Will the Republican Party Come Back?" is a rallying call to that portion of our people who do not wish to see our government swept into the hands of the radicals completely.

The extreme radicals who have control of our government put measures before the people and say that because of the emergency that now exists any opposition to them must be considered unpatriotic. Of course an emergency exists and of course something drastic had to be done, but that does not mean that every pet theory of a wild eyed "liberal" must be made a major part of the recovery program. Opposition to such extreme stuff is patriotic. If a man honestly believes that a certain thing is dangerous to the country he would be unpatriotic to not oppose it, no matter what emergency may seem to excuse it.

RICHARD STUART.

FROM THE COUNTY TREASURER.

Chicago, Sept. 21.—Rumors, misrepresentations, and insinuations have emanated pertaining to delay in county employés receiving tax warrants in lieu of their salaries for the period from Jan. 1, 1933, to July 1, 1933.

The county treasurer's office has been made the center of this criticism, and I desire to refute these unjust accusations.

As these tax warrants are received at our office they must be checked, signed, and registered.

Realizing the urgency of this matter, I have placed additional men on this work, and our regular men have worked nightly to expedite the issuance of tax warrants.

At present the tax warrants we receive in the morning are returned to the county controller's office the same afternoon.

THE BURIAL OF FLORENCE KLINGENSMITH.

Chicago, Sept. 20.—I am in receipt of a clipping taken from a Minneapolis newspaper sent to me by a friend from that city. The item speaks for itself. Here is what it says:

"There have been many unfavorable stories coming out of Chicago in recent years, but the worst . . . is the fact officials of the international air races, held in that city last week, cared so little about the death of Florence Klingensmith, who was killed there, that they allowed her body to be shipped from Chicago to Moorhead, Minn., without a stitch of clothing, wrapped in newspapers and a sheet and sent in a cheap casket.

"Perhaps the officials knew nothing about this. It is a hundred to one bet they did not. But it is a fact the broken remains of that brave girl were sent home in that condition.

"Mrs. Klingensmith's sponsor, hearing of the heartless act, hired the best undertakers in Moorhead and Fargo, purchased a bronze case for an expensive casket, a little black dress, new clothing for her mother, and a fine plot of ground in a cemetery. But doesn't it seem that some one connected with the show would be detailed to look after a brave person such as she was, in a big show like the international air races, in case of death? Can any one imagine such a thing happening in Minneapolis?"

Well, beloved Chicagoans, what think you of such a disgraceful blot on our good sportsmanship that we as Chicagoans have always boasted about?

Chicago, Sept. 21.—Farmers are loaned money to put in their cotton crop; then they are paid to plow it under.

Thousands of pigs are bought at a premium from the farmers and their carcasses allowed to rot in railroad yards while multitudes must depend on charity for the food they eat.

And the American people must pay the cost of such idiotic acts by our new commissars. Will they wake up before these disciples of Lenin and Stalin have utterly ruined us? R. F. DRESSLER.

FRIEND OF THE FARMER

[Inquiries on farm management, financing or governmental regulations addressed to this department must be accompanied by stamped, addressed envelope for reply.]

F. G. H. asks: What is the procedure of the government in taking over a farm mortgage?

Answer: The prospective borrower files application for a loan on forms supplied by the agent of the federal land commissioner in the regional office nearest him, accompanied by a deposit of at least $10; whereupon the application is turned over to appraisers, and the applicant is thereafter notified whether or not the loan can be granted and upon what terms.

H. J. K. asks: I am a tenant on a large farm in Nebraska, but will leave before the 1934 wheat crop is harvested. Don't I get part of the 1933 government payments, since I signed up with the landlord?

Answer: Yes. You must file application for the payment with the local county wheat reduction committee this fall and notify them where you can be reached prior to July 1, 1934. If not done, your share reverts to the United States treasury.

THE SATURDAY EVENING POST

KIDNAP HIDEOUT OWNER TURNS ON CO-DEFENDANTS

Says He Was Forced to Assist Gang.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Sept. 25.—(AP)—R. G. [Bos] Shannon, elderly Texas farmer, turned on two of his co-defendants in the Charles F. Urschel kidnaping trial here today. He testified that he and his family were forced to hold the oil man captive on their farm under threat of death.

Seeking to clear himself, his wife, Ora, and his son, Armon, Shannon related details of alleged coercion by the kidnapers.

He testified that Harvey Bailey, notorious outlaw and alleged head of the abduction conspiracy, who was captured on the Shannon farm in Wise county, Texas, had been there with George Kelly and Albert Bates while Urschel was held prisoner.

Forced to Guard Victim.

Kelly, the absent machine gunner, who is the object of a nation-wide search, and Bates, now on trial, forced him and his son, Armon, to guard Urschel while the two went to collect the oil man's ransom of $200,000, Shannon testified.

James H. Mathers, counsel for Bailey, had said shortly before in his opening statement to the jury that Bailey's defense would show he didn't visit the Shannon farm until after Urschel had been returned home.

"Harvey Bailey never saw Bates until he was put in jail with him in Oklahoma City and has not seen George Kelly in two years," he told the jury.

The 54 year old Shannon testified, on the contrary, that Bailey came to the farm the Tuesday after Urschel was brought there on Sunday.

"Later," Shannon related, "when Kelly and Bates had gone to get the money, Bailey came back and said he was looking for Bates and Kelly.

Watched by Bailey, He Says.

"When I told him they were not there, he said he would 'just stay around a few days.' I felt he had been sent to watch us and see that we kept Mr. Urschel prisoner."

Previously Shannon testified that he acted in fear of his life, and that Kelly had threatened to kill him and his son, Armon, if they "turned on any heat." He interpreted this to mean if he informed officers of events at the farm.

Shannon emphatically denied that his farm was used by outlaws as a place to "cool off." Just as emphatically he denied knowing of any "plan or prearranged scheme" to kidnap Urschel.

Although Bailey did nothing to lead him to believe he [Bailey] was a kidnap plotter, Shannon did not trust him, he testified.

Cross Examined by Defense.

Ben G. Laska, attorney for Bates, cross-examined Shannon.

"You told the justice department that this man [pointing at Bates] threatened your life after you were arrested, didn't you?" Laska asked.

Laska's questioning caused other defense counsel and the government prosecutors alike to object.

"This bad boy, Mr. Bates, brought a machine gun and frightened you?" asked Laska.

"Yes, he did," answered Shannon.

"But he was away four days?"

"Yes, from Monday night until Friday."

"Couldn't you have notified officers?"

"Yes."

"Did you?"

"No."

More Cross-Examination.

As the defense ended its questioning, Joseph B. Keenan, assistant United States attorney general, began a cross-examination that consumed the rest of the day.

"You knew that Kelly and Bates took Mr. Urschel from the house at machine gun point?" he asked.

"Yes."

"You knew that they meant business by being so heavily armed?"

"Yes."

"You even thought they might kill Urschel?"

"I didn't know but what they might," Shannon replied.

"Yet you said nothing to the authorities and made no effort to tell the law what was happening?"

"No, I did not."

"Had your life been threatened up to this time?"

"No, sir."

Another Defendant Freed.

At the outset of the day's session Judge Edgar S. Vaught narrowed the list of defendants from St. Paul and Minneapolis to five by ordering Peter Valder released.

"There is not enough evidence here to show this defendant's guilt," said the judge.

On Saturday Judge Vaught released Charles Walk, another of the Twin Cities defendants. The others, Sam Kronick, Barney Berman Sam Kozberg, Isadore Blumenfeld and Clifford Skelly, were ordered held for a jury verdict.

Hears from Mrs. Kelly.

Meanwhile Joseph B. Keenan, assistant United States attorney general, told of receiving a letter from Kathryn Kelly, fugitive wife of the hunted gunman, which, Keenan said, indicated a marked change of heart by the woman.

"She indicated a desire to lead a peaceable and honorable life and asked me to take up the matter with her counsel," stated Keenan.

"I told the attorney she hired for Mrs. Shannon, John V. Roberts of Enid, that if she wanted to surrender there were plenty of officers around," added Keenan.

He said he believed the letter was authentic. It was postmarked Chicago.

Confesses Aiding Escape.

Dallas, Tex., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Grover C. Bevill, Dallas business man, pleaded guilty when arraigned in federal court here today on an indictment charging he assisted in the escape of Harvey Bailey from the Dallas county jail. Tom Manion, assistant jailer when Bailey escaped, pleaded not guilty. Federal Judge William H. Atwell set their trial for next Tuesday.

TOUHY AND HIS PALS DENIED REDUCTION IN BAIL OF $100,000

St. Paul, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Bail reduction and separate trials were denied today to Roger Touhy and three others by two federal judges who sat in a machine gun guarded room and called kidnaping "one of the gravest crimes we have on the books."

Judges J. W. Molyneaux and M. M. Joyce shattered federal court precedent in Minnesota by leaving their courtrooms so it would be unnecessary to transfer across the street the four held for the William Hamm kidnaping. They ordered that the bail figure remain at $100,000 for each, and also denied other defense motions.

One was to set forth more clearly the charges in the federal indictments returned here against the quartet. Another asked suppression of certain evidence relating to guns, ammunition and money seized when the defendants were arrested in Elkhorn, Wis.

Machine guns and many officers guarded the basement courtroom of the county jail as Touhy, Ed McFadden, Willie Sharkey, and Gus Schaffer were brought in from their upstairs cells.

THREE HELD FOR PRICE MURDER IN NORTH CAROLINA

Ex-Railroad Man's Slaying Laid to Grudge.

Virge Williams and Charlie Buchanan, wounded when shotgun blasts broke the stillness on a mountain trail near here late Saturday, said that Dewey Potter, 30 year old caretaker at an abandoned mine, had fired before they could heed his warning to turn around.

Potter, though making no formal statement after his surrender to officers here, indicated he would plead self-defense on the grounds the shooting occurred when Price resented his order to leave the mining property.

Four Are Held.

In jail with Potter were his three companions at the time of the shooting. They are his brother, Clarence, 35; his son, Wayne, 14, and Eric Ledford, 22.

Price was killed by pistol or rifle slugs, while Williams and Buchanan were struck by shotgun pellets.

Dewey Potter was arrested recently for hunting on Price's property without permission, and had been fined $5 in Magistrate's court. Whether this led to an ambushing or to a quarrel in which both parties made threatening advances was the question which officers sought to settle.

Officers said Mitchell Hampton and Sam Inman, mountaineers, were seeking sheep in the neighborhood and saw the shooting, but did not reveal their versions.

Ordered to Turn Around.

Buchanan said he and Williams were riding down the trail with the retired New York business man when Dewey Potter and several other men called on Price to turn around.. Before they could do so, Buchanan said, the shooting began. Price's horse bolted, hurling him to the ground, and he died as his assailants fled.

Price, who had planned to spend most of his time on his 1,200 acre estate in the moutains near here, was widely known for numerous philanthropies. His body was taken to New York.

Mrs. Price, who formerly was Miss Ester A. Kilburn of South Orange, N. J., had been here with her husband until a few days ago, when she went to New York.

WIFE INSANE AS SHE KILLED MATE, JURY DECLARES

Petersburg, Ind., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Mrs. Maude Price, 27, was insane at the time she shot her 80 year old husband, Thomas Price, when his refusal to divide 10 cents' worth of cookies brought her sense of grievance to a climax. The jury deliberated for an hour today at the close of her trial in the Pike county Circuit court.

Sentence will be passed tomorrow morning and she probably will be sent to the state hospital for the criminal insane at Michigan City or to a similar institution at Evansville.

Neighbors testified they heard two shots and saw Price run from his home, then fall in a neighbor's yard. Alva Nordhorn, one of the first to reach him, testified he heard Price say his wife did the shooting.

Sheriff William Weathers testified that the defendant told him she had shot Price because he "was mean to her" and had tried to starve her.

HELD AS COUNTERFEITER.

Anthony Rocco, 26 years old, was held to the grand jury in bonds of $10,000 by United States Commissioner Walker yesterday on a charge of passing counterfeit $5 bills.

FORMER BANKER DENIES HELPING GANGSTERS TO KIDNAP AGED LUER

Edwardsville, Ill., Sept. 25. — [Special.] — Christ Nicola Gitcho, former well to do banker and realty owner at Madison, Ill., defended himself today as a witness in court against charges of being one of the kidnapers of August Luer, wealthy Alton banker and meat packer. Gitcho and Luer met in business about 15 years ago.

Gitcho denied all guilt. He had done business with Eugene Randolph Norvell in 1927, a considerable deal in corn sugar. But he had not known Norvell wanted to hide a kidnaped man in his building when he gave Norvell the keys. Later he was afraid to tell the police.

"Who were you afraid of?" demanded the prosecutor. "I was afraid of those birds," Gitcho, a native of Macedonia, answered. "I was afraid they would blow my brains out, afraid I'd get the works."

Norvell has insisted he was an unwilling participant in the kidnaping but acted through fear of "Irish" O'Malley, as yet unarrested. Norvell added:

"My brother, Slick Norvell, was killed by gangsters at Eagle park about two years after I helped put George [Mickey] O'Malley in prison. I was hit on the head with a gun at the same time."

GUARD SIX HELD AS KIDNAPERS IN PEORIA CITY JAIL

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Armed guards have been placed around the Peoria city jail to prevent any attempt to free six Springfield men held as suspects in connection with the attempted kidnaping of Milton G. Newman, wealthy banker and president of the Peoria park board.

An envelope containing $156 in currency and postmarked Springfield, Ill., was received at police headquarters today. Most of Saturday was spent with a lie detector in an effort to learn who took the cash from one of the six prisoners. All Springfield and Peoria policemen were put through the scientific examination, but no report was submitted.

MOSCOW CHEERS LINDBERGH AFTER OVERLAND FLIGHT

MOSCOW, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Applauded by thousands of watchers lining the waterfront and bridges of the narrow Moscow river, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh brought his trans-Atlantic hydroplane to a perfect landing on the dangerously limited surface today after an overland flight from Leningrad.

With Mrs. Lindbergh he received greetings of civil aviation officials, attended a banquet in their honor, and then went to the opera.

Escorted into City.

Two soviet planes escorted Lindbergh as he approached the city in bright sunshine. The colonel circled about the landing point three times, coming down on the unruffled river a half mile below the historic Kremlin.

At a nearby water station the American couple was welcomed by high officials, civil aircraft representatives, and members of the domestic and foreign press.

As the large plane taxied in a leisurely way to the landing float of the Dynamo Boat club the spectators paid tribute in spontaneous applause. Lindbergh waved his hand in response.

Guests at Banquet.

A banquet was tendered them by aviation authorities and the soviet tourist agency, Intourist, which is arranging their tour of Russia.

U. S. DISMISSES CASE AGAINST DR. O. F. SCOTT

Dr. Orlando F. Scott, surgeon and psychiatrist, was freed of a charge of perjury on the government's motion to nol pros yesterday before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson.

Dr. Scott was indicted on the perjury charge in connection with the case of Richard Birdwell, colored war veteran, who sued the government for war risk insurance on the ground that he had incurred tuberculosis while in army service. In this case physicians testified for the government that an x-ray plate exhibited by Dr. Scott did not show a tubercular condition in Birdwell.

Birdwell was also indicted for perjury. His case was continued yesterday. He is still receiving compensation, now $45 a month, for "war connected disability," according to a recent letter from C. A. Rush, adjudication officer at Hines hospital.

Although the district attorney's office refused to be quoted on the dismissal of the charge against Dr. Scott, it was understood that an analysis of the evidence showed it would have been impossible to gain a conviction.

Build something that will ENDURE

Create a permanent volume of sales in America's great home market, through the newspaper that reaches nearly every home

It is a logical fact that private homes buy a great deal more than the average apartment: More rugs, more furniture, more electrical appliances, more painting and repairs; washing machines and refrigerators, oil heaters, porch furniture and awnings . . . more of almost everything under the sun. It is likewise logical that sales impressions are lasting in a permanent market of homes.

These factors are more important than ever in considering a market during these days of upheaval and change.

Seek out the home markets! Sell the family! And you will build something that will endure for years.

Start in Philadelphia—a City famous throughout the world for its Homes. More than 90% of the people live in private dwellings; 5% in apartments; 3% in lodging houses and hotels.

Start in Philadelphia—where nearly every family reads one newspaper—The Philadelphia Bulletin. In city and suburbs, in mansion and modest home, in store and factory, among professional and business men, The Bulletin is a part of each day.

The Bulletin's circulation is all net paid, all the reflection of Philadelphia's reading preference. Today's 497,293 daily (August average) is two and one-half times the circulation of any other Philadelphia evening newspaper, more than any Sunday newspaper, more than all morning newspapers combined.

The history of that growth is one of long service to the reader: Editing a newspaper for the entire family, printing accurate, dependable news, using no "scare headline" methods, no premiums, prizes or contests.

This unusual newspaper condition gives a two-fold advantage to the advertiser: 1st—Thorough coverage of a great home market in one newspaper — an economy rarely found. 2nd — An advertising rate that is low—one of the lowest among all newspapers in America.

A CITY OF HOMES—More than 90% of the people who live in Philadelphia occupy private dwellings. 5% live in apartments. 3% in lodging houses and hotels. These homes give a permanence—a stability—to the sales volume here.

ONE NEWSPAPER COVERAGE—The Philadelphia Bulletin's circulation of 497,293 daily (August average) reaches nearly every home and is read by nearly every one in those homes. This coverage of a metropolitan market in one newspaper is an economy rarely found.

LOW ADVERTISING COST—Because widespread reading interest makes for low production costs, The Bulletin can offer one of the lowest advertising rates among all newspapers in America.

DIVERSIFIED INDUSTRY—The Philadelphia Area ranks third in manufacturing. 6,510 establishments turn out a wide variety of products valued at $1,874,935,275. This diversification of industry tends to spread employment over many lines.

BILLION DOLLAR SALES—Philadelphia's fine retail store system is the hub of a great trading area. The volume of sales exceeds one billion dollars yearly.

PROSPEROUS SUBURBS—Hundreds of fine suburbs surround Philadelphia. High speed transportation systems bring thousands of workers and shoppers into Philadelphia each day.

CENTER OF POPULATION—Philadelphia is strategically located as a distribution center. Thirty million people, almost one-quarter of the country's population, live within overnight delivery.

RING LARDNER IS DEAD AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Short Stories," and all the rest. Then the stage followed as a matter of course. "June Moon," on which he collaborated two seasons ago, gave a happy proof of his abilities in that field.

A Whimsical Autobiography.

In 1920, Mr. Lardner, then a member of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE staff, wrote this autobiography:

"White. Married. American. College: One semester at Armour Institute. Graduated from Niles High school in 1901. Came to Chicago that summer to get job. Got job as office boy in McCormick Harvester offices. Fired after two weeks at $5 per week. Loafed two weeks. Went to work for Peabody, Houghteling & Co. as office boy and telephone girl; $4 per week. Fired in two weeks.

"Went back to Niles. Got a job in fall of 1901 as clerk and freight hustler in Michigan Central freight house. Sent a pound of butter to Jackson that should have gone to Battle Creek and was fired. Salary of this position was $1 per day while hustling freight and nothing per day while clerk in the office.

"Came to Armour Institute for a mechanical engineering course. Took rhetoric and mechanical drawing and shop work. Passed in rhetoric and quit school by request. This was winter of 1901-1902. Stayed in Niles and did nothing for nearly a year.

Carried Mail in Niles.

"Passed civil service examination as postoffice clerk and carrier and carried mail in Niles as a substitute at odd times. In 1903, got job as bookkeeper in Niles gas company's office. Held this job till landed with South Bend Times."

"Gas company job started at $5 per week and was raised to $6 the second year. Job on South Bend Times was sporting editor, baseball writer, general sporting writer, dramatic critic, society reporter and court house reporter.

"My brother Rex and I arranged our vacations in the fall of 1907 so we could take in the world's series between Cubs and Detroit. Series started in Chicago. Got an introduction to Hugh Fullerton, who was then on the Examiner. Asked him if he knew of any jobs. Said he thought so. Made date to meet him in Detroit at a series game, and there met Duke Hutchinson, who signed me for the Chicago Inter-Ocean. Record:

Jobs.	Fired.	Per Cent.

EIGHT YEARS ON THE TRIBUNE.

Ring Lardner was a member of the staff of THE TRIBUNE for 8 years—from 1909 to 1911 and from 1913 to 1919—when he moved to New York. In the first two years he was a baseball reporter. Later he took over "The Wake of the News" column following Hugh S. Fullerton, who in turn had taken up that column on the death of its founder, Hugh E. Keough.

Mr. Lardner made a wide reputation with his "You know me, Al" sketches, depicting a rooky baseball player, his ambitions, his weaknesses, his boob egotisim. When he moved to New York in 1920 he was working toward dramatic writing and he felt the field there would be wider for that type of work.

In 1931 Mr. Lardner for a time contributed another feature to THE TRIBUNE—a night letter of humorous comment and philosophy.

In Sunday's Metropolitan section it was stated a hearing would be held at 10 o'clock this morning in the offices of the Illinois commerce commission, 1 North La Salle street, on a petition for feeder buses on Higgins road. An item in the Metropolitan section Sunday said that Oak Park stores would be closed tomorrow for Oak Park day at A Century of Progress. This was inaccurate. President Willis McFeeley requested the stores to close, but not all intend to do so.

MINISTERS START PREPARATION FOR MISSION PARLEY

First Union Meeting of New Season Is Held.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The Chicago Church federation, representing 800 Protestant churches of the city, yesterday launched the most comprehensive fall program in its history. Dr. Robert Clements, president of the federation, inaugurated the program as he presided over the opening union ministers' meeting of the season. The gathering overflowed the assembly hall at the Central Y. M. C. A., 19 South La Salle street.

Dr. Clements reviewed the World's Fair summer activities of the federation. He said few ministers of the city had taken their usual summer vacations in order to keep their churches fully active for the benefit of A Century of Progress visitors.

Of chief interest to the pastors affiliated with the federation in the fall and winter federation program is the missionary conference to be held in the Chicago Stadium early in November. Dr. Clements stressed this meeting, explaining that it is a part of a nation-wide series of similar conferences which have been projected to revitalize the Christian missionary cause.

Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf of the Chicago area of the Methodist Episcopal church, chairman of the committee on arrangements for the conference, has stated that the missionary enterprise is "at the crossroads" and that the nation-wide series will largely determine whether the churches are to continue in foreign missionary work, at least under the present denominational methods.

Dr. M. S. Rice of Detroit, guest speaker at yesterday's meeting, advised the pastors to use newspaper English in their sermons and to read the newspapers "to keep from getting behind the times."

"To reach his people a preacher should use the most common words in the dictionary," Dr. Rice advised. "One of the things I have been trying to do all my life is to select simple words as the newspapers do in presenting the news."

AVOID LUXURY, PAY AS YOU GO! POPE ADVISES

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 25.—(AP)—The hope that the lessons of the crisis will not soon be forgotten by the peoples of the world was expressed by Pope Pius today in an audience with Cardinal O'Connell of Boston. The pontiff said he sincerely trusts the people of the future will be more careful to preserve the fruits of prosperity, will avoid luxury, and will accustom themselves to pay as they go.

Following the audience, the cardinal said the pope disclosed astonishing knowledge not only of economic conditions in the United States but also of the monetary situation. Cardinal O'Connell gave the pontiff statistics showing an appreciable growth of the Catholic population and activities in Boston. More than 125 new parishes were established during his tenure, he said, and there are now 1,250,000 Catholics in the Boston area. Many new high schools and several colleges have been built, he said.

COURTS SPEED UP CIVIL CASES; NEW SYSTEM STARTED

In contrast with last week, when dilatory tactics by lawyers caused most of the civil courts in the county building to close down at noon, all of the 29 judges hearing civil calls in the Circuit and Superior courts had cases on trial yesterday.

In the chancery division of the Circuit court the new system devised by Judge Hugo M. Friend, chief of the division, to speed up procedure was inaugurated. Masters in chancery sat in the courts of four chancellors, hearing agreed motions and all other motions in which the lawyers did not demand hearings by the judges.

Master Leonard C. Reid sat in the court of Judge Friend, Master Max Korshak in that of Judge Harry M. Fisher, Master John Charles Lewe in that of Judge Philip J. Finnegan, and Master Julius Miner in that of Judge William V. Brothers. While the masters occupied the bench the judges sat in chambers hearing preliminary trial calls and arranging to bring cases to trial later in the day.

IRONS HUSBAND'S PANTS AND FINDS WHERE HE BANKS

Mrs. Celia Perlman, 537 North Homan avenue, charges that her husband, Milton, a motion picture operator, struck her on occasions. But what really hurt her, she hints in a bill for separate maintenance filed yesterday in the Superior court, was that for five years she was never able to find any money in his trousers.

The Perlmans were married in 1928 and it was not until yesterday that Mrs. Perlman discovered how Perlman guarded his assets. She was pressing a pair of his trousers when her iron ripped the lining. Inside the lining she found several bills of large denomination.

Her husband stinted her allowance for herself and their two children, she charges, telling her that he earned only a small salary. Recently, she says, she learned that he made $100 a week.

Albuquerque, N. M., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Gov. Arthur Seligman of New Mexico, died here this afternoon following a heart attack which he suffered immediately after addressing a meeting of the New Mexico State Bankers' association. The governor was 60 years old.

President of the First National bank of Santa Fé, Gov. Seligman had motored to Albuquerque to attend the convention early this morning. A physician said that angina pectoris had caused death.

Fortune Gallo Will Move His Opera to City

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Only a few hours before the curtain rose on "Romeo and Juliet" last night, Fortune Gallo, impresario of the San Carlo company, sent out word that he planned to move his entire operatic headquarters from New York to Chicago. Hereafter he hopes to give an annual season of opera at the Auditorium preceding his tours to other cities.

The move involves the transfer of considerable property. Mr. Gallo has been in the business of producing opera for about a quarter of a century, and he has accumulated productions of practically every opera in the standard repertoire. In addition, he will have a studio building to serve as the atelier of his scenic and costume departments and to provide rooms and halls for arrangers, auditions, choral rehearsals, and private practice.

He gives two reasons, both economic, for the change, which he says he has had under consideration for several years. The first is that the box office here shows healthy margins over those of other cities. The other is that Chicago, being in the center instead of on the edge of the country, will cause his railroading costs on his tours to be less.

He holds out the hope that moving here will result in increased recruiting of singing and dancing talent and provide debuts and careers for many who would otherwise not win such opportunity. Set builders, scenic artists, and costume designers are also in line for employment. The orchestra will be a Chicago orchestra, and local activities will also spread to printing shops for tickets and posters.

This was the agreeable news that accompanied "Romeo and Juliet," which, by the way, was the first opera ever sung in the Auditorium and the last given there by the Civic Opera company. Last night's performance was one to stand up on its own merits, even when these historic events are considered.

Mme. Sabanieeva's dainty fragility of voice and demeanor were qualities to make her a persuasive Juliet, and Mr. Onofrei, who has never failed yet to give a good performance here, was quite as potent an artist in "Leve-toi, soleil" as he had been in the "Salut, demeure" of "Faust" a few nights before, even though "Romeo and Juliet" is only a pallid reminiscence of the earlier and better opera. There were other high spots of the performance, Mr. Rothier's splendid voice and fine dignity as the friar and Mr. Valle's brilliant singing of the Mercutio music among them.

Northwestern Classes Opened; Enrollment Shows Slight Gain

Classes on the Evanston and McKinlock campuses of Northwestern university opened yesterday with an increased enrollment, President Walter Dill Scott announced. The total enrollment of all schools is approximately 10,400 as compared with 10,200 last year.

The largest increase was shown by the school of commerce in its evening classes, where four per cent more students registered than a year ago, when the figure was 3,181. The music school announced a slightly smaller registration, as did the college of liberal arts.

The freshman class of 750 members at the University of Chicago was greeted yesterday by Vice President Frederic Woodward. He explained the new plan, inaugurated three years ago, under which students are made responsible for the amount of work they do and the number of classes they attend. Classes will start next Monday after the freshmen have spent this week on tours of the campus and have been introduced to the possibilities of their new life.

IT may—or may not—surprise you to learn that clubs already are planning their wine cellars, in anticipation of the repeal of the 18th amendment. The Tavern club has even gone so far as to appoint a liquor committee whose task it is to have a 30 year old cellar ready by December. Probably the storing of wines and liquors also will receive expert attention, with a modern, illuminated cave of some kind worked out for a modern skyscraper club. That, however, is our own bit of speculation. As to what should be in a well rounded cellar, we pass on some of the information a member of the liquor committee received from a connoisseur to whom he had gone for information, Ernest Byfield.

J. B. Priestley Mystery Play on Stage Here

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

To prove that he is an all-around writing man and to earn the magnificent royalties that are said to be the fruits of dramatic authorship, J. B. Priestley, the English novelist who has "The Good Companions" and "Angel Pavement" to his credit, sat himself down and concocted a mystery play with a dash of philosophy in its system. The piece, after the usual runs in London and New York, reached the Illinois theater last night under the title "Dangerous Corner."

As a member of the literary vanguard, Mr. Priestley strove earnestly to make his mystery play differ from all the others. He started in the regulation manner, with a group of dressed-up folks in after-dinner chatter in a country house, but then he jumped the track and became introspective and psychological. He placed his mystery a year in the past and proceeded to solve it by a series of cross-examinations in search of the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth. A great deal of soul-baring results from this inquest.

Most of the souls that are bared are decidedly repellent of appearance. Lying, embezzlement, adultery, drug addiction, sex perversion, and homicide are exposed like spiritual cancers in the little circle of closely related aristocrats. Merely by telling the truth—the "dangerous corner" of the title—the group discovers itself to be a case of almost total depravity.

When his last act is nearly at an end Mr. Priestley apparently says to himself: "This state of affairs is too dreadful to go into the record. I'll have to pretend that it never happens except in imagination."

So he begins his play all over again, using the dialogue of the opening scenes, and has his characters turn the dangerous corner safely without asking questions about a certain cigaret box in its relation to the tragic end of their late brother, brother-in-law, and business partner. "Marty was a bad egg," Mr. Priestley hints. "It will be well to let him rest in peace."

This is an odd and interesting play, although cut too thin in the direction of subtlety. It gives one the consciousness of a literary trick that has been too highly elaborated, and so misses persuasiveness.

The "Dangerous Corner" company, thus beginning what one hopes may be a season of more or less regular bookings at the Illinois theater, represents the popular priced revival of the play in New York for a summer engagement that supplemented the original Broadway run of some 200 performances. The cast reaches distinction in the performance of Gavin Muir as the inquisitor of the plot and chief sufferer from his own revelations. Eden Gray, as the girl who may be called the heroine, is also an attractive personality, and Jane Wheatley, in the minor rôle of a lady novelist, is an able veteran of the first production. The others lack the silken touch that the dialogue requires.

NEW O'NEILL PLAY

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Eugene O'Neill and George M. Cohan combined forces here tonight to present the noted author's first serious attempt at comedy.

The title of the play was "Ah, Wilderness!" and after four acts and seven scenes an eager audience attired in shining evening clothes seemed to feel the author is best when he really is serious and the actor best when he really is funny.

Not that O'Neill did not make the most of his flair for detail, nor that Cohan was not his usual, smooth self, but rather that many faithful theatergoers were heard to remark that it was a pity the author picked a theme which has succeeded and failed on Broadway many times in years past, and that it was surprising to find the versatile Cohan sitting around in a shabby bath robe playing the part of an understanding father.

The story is the recital of a family's troubles in making a youthful son with a hankering for Oscar Wilde and Swinburne forget his bookish ideas and follow the straight and narrow path as outlined by an almost Puritanical array of relatives.

Young Englishman Admits He Plagiarized Mystery

LONDON, Sept. 26.—Cecil Henderson, 21 years old, amateur novelist, admitted tonight having plagiarized "Maltese Falcon," best selling detective story by the American, Dashiell Hammett, "just for fun." "I am terribly sorry about the whole affair," said the young author after learning publication of his bood had been suspended. "I read Maltese Falcon many times and was very much struck with it. Had often thought of writing a novel myself and frequently sketched out rough ideas. Then simply for practice I wrote up Maltese Falcon. Some time later—unthinkingly and really just for fun, I submitted the manuscript to the publisher, who accepted it as an original work. I realize now how stupid I was. I would be willing to hand over any royalties to Hammett."

Velvet Shows Trend Toward Chinese Colors

BY RHEA SEEGER.

More than a few shoppers are greatly excited over the new Chinese wave . . . not a new permanent, or new joss sticks, but all the glowing jewel colors filched from gay and glittering Chinese pagodas and landscapes.

Rich reds, bold, but not trying blues, and the inexpressibly lovely tawny shades of gold and old gold . . . you find all of them in long lustrous lengths of shimmering brocades, velvets and satins, with the velvets stealing the shows.

Until you have seen uncut velvet of liquid whipped cream richness in yards of thick tuscan gold color, you haven't realized what a fabulously flattering color it is . . . and the soft folds of brocaded Chinese silk in this gold shade and all the others mentioned are equally as breath taking!

Another Chinese influence can be discovered in some house pajamas . . . consisting of a clever fitted one piece pajama, sleeveless, high necked, held together with two silver grey buttons that match the coat. The trousers are full and are of either Chinese blue or red. The loose coolie type coat is belted with a grand wrap around sash with two gorgeous long silk tassels of the red or blue of the trousers. Fat little buttons of red are fastened to the right shoulder, the collar turns over to show a red or blue lining to match the lining of the loose long sleeves.

Or you can buy Chinese colored corduroy separate jackets that are mated with corduroy ascot ties . . . trim rather military looking affairs made with a belt, pockets, and long simple sleeves.

You can select blue, red, green and a spicy tobacco brown. They are what you have been looking for to top the dizzy plaids and checked wool of your newest and smartest separate skirts. The price tags are as cheerfully low as the bright colors of the jackets.

Amelia Earhart Asks Equality in Air at Women's Exposition

New York, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Amelia Earhart Putnam would like to see equality for women in the air as well as on the ground. So she said in the aviation booth at the 12th annual exposition of women's arts and industries which opened today.

"We hope that women pilots will soon be regarded as 'pilots' and not as 'women pilots,'" she said.

"It isn't right, nor scientific," Mrs. Putnam said, "to say that women can't fly as well as men. They have proven that they can, and should be accredited so.

"Not to mention adequate physical makeup and such, women are just as experienced in meeting the outside world now as men."

The exhibits, ranging from cosmetics to mechanics, and from paintings to mink cages, turned one of New York's hotel ballrooms and mezzanines into a veritable fairground. It will continue until Sept. 30.

Ambassador Confers Honor as Surprise to Host; Guests at Party Attend Art Institute Reception.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE dinner party that Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey McCormick gave last night at the Casino for the French ambassador, Andre de Laboulaye, and Mme. de Laboulaye, turned out to be somewhat of a surprise party on the host, for the ambassador conferred the decoration of the Legion of Honor on Mr. McCormick.

It wasn't just for his part in assembling the Century of Progress art exhibit at the Art Institute that Mr. McCormick was decorated, although it was to give the exhibit France's official recognition that the ambassador came to Chicago at this time, but also because of Mr. McCormick's war record.

Mr. McCormick went to France in the summer of 1917 with the American ambulance field service, but left that very soon to join the United States army. He was decorated with the Croix de Guerre in 1920 for "bravery and coolness in his duty of visiting the American trenches in the most dangerous sectors" while he was liaison officer of the French Eleventh corps, which included the Twenty-sixth American division.

France is not the only country, by the way, that has recognized Mr. McCormick's war work, for in 1923 Poland awarded him the "Order of Polonia Restituta" in tribute to his service in running food through the bolshevik lines during the Russian attack on the Polish republic, and Belgium decorated him also.

Mr. McCormick is the third Chevalier of the Legion of Honor to be given that title by M. de Laboulaye during his short visit to Chicago, for on Sunday he decorated President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern university, and Arthur Allais, a former president of the Alliance Francaise.

Reception Moved to Art Institute.

After the dinner at the Casino last night the entire party accompanied the McCormicks and the De Laboulayes to the Art Institute where the president and trustees were holding a reception for the ambassador. It had been planned to have it in the Goodman theater, but the crowd was so large that the reception was transferred to the institute itself and Mr. McCormick and M. de Laboulaye stood on the second floor beside the railing of the stairs to make their short addresses. Mr. McCormick introduced the ambassador in both English and French and M. de Laboulaye replied in both languages. The "Marseillaise" and then "The Star Spangled Banner" were played as the ambassador and his entourage entered and all day the French flag had flown beside the American one from the flagpole of the institute. The ambassador toured the art exhibit during the evening.

While visiting the galleries the ambassador was urged by Mr. McCormick to pick out his favorite painting among the many beatiful ones there, and the one M. de Laboulaye chose was a painting by Manet that belongs to Mrs. McCormick, given to her by her father, the late Charles Deering.

Some of those who dined with Mr. and Mrs. McCormick were Dr. and Mrs. Walter Dill Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Harshe, Mr. and Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, the French consul and Mme. Rene Weiller, Mlle. Odile Weiller, and Mlle. Marie Therese de Laboulaye. Paul de Laboulaye, the ambassador's elder son, was expected at the dinner, but he was detained in the east and is not arriving until today. [The ambassador and his wife are accompanied by two younger children also, but they aren't old enough to be included in dinner parties]. Others present were Mrs. Robert R. McCormick, Charles S. Peterson, and some of the trustees of the institute, including the Walter S. Brewsters, the Max pstelns, and the Joseph T. Ryersons.

Luncheon at Trustees' Lounge.

Yesterday while the Franco-American society was entertaining the ambassador at luncheon at the Chicago club Mrs. Hayden B. Harris was hostess at a luncheon in the trustees' lounge for Mme. de Laboulaye and Mlle. de Laboulaye. Mr. Harris, who was awarded the Legion of Honor by M. Weiller last spring, acted as host at the Chicago club luncheon. Mrs. Harris had invited several young girls to her party and they were all seated together at one end of the E shaped table.

In addition to Mlle. de Laboulaye the young members of the party were the hostess' daughter, Valeria, who left last evening for the Mount Vernon seminary in Washington; Miss Helen Dawes, Miss Louise Dewey and Mlle. Weiller.

The place cards were cleverly executed and charmingly painted scenes of A Century of Progress, and for Mme. de Laboulaye Mrs. Harris appropriately had chosen the Avenue of Flags. The other guests at this delightful party were Mrs. Rufus C. Dawes, Mrs. Charles S. Dewey, Mme. Weiller, Mrs. Daniel Burnham, Mrs. Horatio B. Hackett, Mrs. Jacob Baur, Mrs. Fletcher M. Durbin, Mrs. Moise Dreyfus, Mrs. Arthur Allais, Mrs. Orville Taylor, Mrs. Edward H. Bennett, Mrs. James H. Winston and Mrs. Malcolm McAdoo.

This morning at 10 o'clock the ambassador and his wife will visit the SYNOPSIS.

Uncas Cresap and his Chinese servant are found dead in the upper room of Cresap's boathouse on Kettle pond, near the eastern end of Long island. Gilbert Jonathan Redd, Cresap's stepbrother, keeps a written private account of developments in the case. A blow on the forehead from a slender sharp edged implement killed Cresap. The cause of Wong Gee's death is not apparent. Capt. Bray a special investigator, is an old friend of Redd's. Redd is a former police reporter. Florence Dane, Cresap's niece and an orphan, lived with him. Redd was fond of Florence's mother. He bought a home near Cresap's in order to protect Florence. Cresap made his fortune in the far east. Redd freely admits to Bray his hatred of Cresap, who was a drunkard and a debauché. There seemed to be some secret bond between Cresap and two of his servants, the Chinaman and a dwarf, Sabino. Cresap disapproved of Florence's motorcycle sweetheart, Gregory Thorpe. Thorpe disappears. He is found in a hospital, victim of a hitch hiker, before Cresap's death, which exonerates him. Florence takes a room in the hospital. She leaves there and can't be found. Sabino also disappears. Bray believes that they are seeking a common rendezvous. Florence is found and brought back in fetters to the jail in Riverhead, Long Island. Bray threatens to persecute Florence and to have her indicted for murder in the first degree. Redd promises to produce Sabino if Bray will wait until morning. Redd stops at his lawyer's on his way home and has a new will drawn up.

INSTALLMENT XLIV.

A WRITTEN CONFESSION.

Under the terms of my old will I left the rest of my earthly goods and chattels, including this house and all else, unreservedly to Florence. But tonight I revoked that bequest. Now it is provided that one thousand dollars be set aside for the purchase of a suitable gift to Florence upon the occasion of her wedding and after that my entire estate, of a total value, I should say even in these times of depression, of between sixty and seventy thousand dollars, goes to Gregory Thorpe on the day he marries Florence. But if he and Florence should not marry, then all of it reverts back to her. And I leave to her my blessings and my dearest love and, in any event, I leave to him my affectionate regards and my best wishes.

Florence will understand, I know, and so will Gregory. And to me what any others may think about it or say about it can never matter.

This, my last will and testament, is alongside me on my desk. It will be here when Bray comes in the morning—Bray, who is so smart in some ways and not so smart in other ways. It will be lying beside the pages of my completed manuscript, for I am about to write adios. It will be the finish for the writing and also the finish for the writer. We bow ourselves out and off the stage together.

In the cocksure way that psychiatrists have, psychiatrists have claimed that no man who entirely is sane ever deliberately plans and executes a homicide and that no man who entirely is sane ever deliberately plans and carries out a suicide. I maintain that in both premises the learned gentlemen are quite wrong, unless it be they would prove their rule by its exception.

In which case I beg to nominate myself as an exception in good standing.

For, being at the time in full and absolute possession of my normal faculties, I have taken human life, feeling no qualms of conscience then or thereafter, no so-called moral scruples, no stabs of remorse, and having no bad dreams to hag-ride my pillow. Such regrets as I may have are not regrets for having taken human life but regrets that the one who is nearest and dearest to me should innocently have suffered thereby; and, in a milder degree, I regret that various well meaning individuals should seriously have been inconvenienced. This, though, I do concede: Once the great Juggernaut of Consequences has been started down the steep hill called Destiny it lies past the power of mortal hands to check its runaway wheels. I have found that out and because I have found it out and have seen Florence crushed into the dust, I am sorry. But on the major counts I am not in the least bit sorry. Compassion did not enter into the basic equation; contrition has no parcel in the after results.

To be specific about it, I have taken in rather rapid succession, three human lives, to wit, as follows:

Item 1. I killed Uncas Cresap.
Item 2. I killed old Wong Gee.
Item 3. I killed Manuel Sabino.

For the killing of each one of these I had, I claim, good and sufficient reasons. I killed Uncas Cresap because for too long his despicable presence had profaned the outer crusts of this reasonably agreeable lesser planet. I vouchsafed him the mercy of a quick and, I am assuming, practically a painless dispatch—which was better for him than he deserved.

I killed Wong Gee as a deed essential to my own protection, because he came upon me just as I was done with killing Uncas Cresap. He was the victim of his own poor luck. He merely blundered in where he wasn't wanted and I merely was assisting nature to amend one of its oversights. I was and still am quite reconciled to his passing on. If Uncas Cresap was a fanged spider, Wong Gee was a sapless, utterly worthless old caterpillar.

I killed that pestiferous and unnecessary mongrel, Manuel Sabino, because he was about to bring home to me the killing of Uncas Cresap, and him I now solemnly declare that I destroyed with no more compunction than I would feel did I squash underfoot some noxious and ill smelling beetle that had waddled across my path. I think of the three of them so—as the venomous spider, snuffed out as he bestraddled his web, the encumbering caterpillar, the detestable little hard backed bug in the road.

And now in conclusion—and in this case conclusion seems a very apt word—I come to the remaining clause of my little thesis against the estimable psychic sharps. Being still of a calm and dispassionate and disposing state of mind, I am about to take my own life. And with what, poetically speaking, amounts to my dying breath, I say that I approach that valedictory with a hand that does not shake and with a brain that does not reel from the prospect.

One last disputation I move be spread on the minutes. Many people who never tried it and a few who have, claim you can't get away with murder—that sooner or later murder, however craftily devised, will out. With all due respect, I dissent and beg leave to offer my personal evidence. I profess that safely I made away with Wong Gee—if you'd call that murder?—and attest it by the verdict of a coroner's jury. With equal safety I made away with Manuel Sabino, for no living creature has suspected that he lies where he does lie, generating gasses, and I'm reasonably sure no living creature ever would suspect. And I maintain that in all likelihood, and despite one disconcerting contretemps, I might have got away with the creditable achievement of killing off Uncas Cresap except that I choose now to reveal the secret of it so that my beloved little Florence no longer shall be ground between the upper millstone of my offending—I speak in the legal sense—and the flinty nether millstone of Bray's harsh resentments.

This last I say despite that I am very sure Bray has at intervals held me under direct suspicion, and am equally sure that at this moment he again is holding me under direct suspicion. That thing he said this afternoon over yonder at Riverhead just before we parted—that thing which was half a threat and half a prophecy—revealed to me the workings of his mind. Even so, I am quite confident that I so well covered my tracks that, let Bray suspect what he pleased or believe what he pleased, he could never have built up against me a convincing fabric of evidence. I had him there. I'm certain of it.

How did I do it? The formula is simple—in fact so simple as to be almost foolish. By going about it in a matter of fact and reasoned way. And then by not lying about it afterward. That's how and that's all. The person who remembers what has gone before or who re-reads this narrative for the refreshment of his memory will kindly take note that while sometimes I may have skirted the truth, may even have walked around a fact, I've not once broken through one or stood one on its head. It's lying that you can't get away with, not murder.

I leave it to the ladies and gentlemen of our schools of ethical culture to ponder that.

Oven Dinner Is Economical in Time, Fuel

BY MARY MEADE.

Two letters marched in cheek to cheek the other day and thereby hangs today's tale and tomorrow's, for one of those letters was from Writer-in Mrs. J. O. R., requesting much talk on the question of top-stove cookery for homemakers restricted to the use of surface burners with no oven. The other letter arrived from Miss R. M., suggesting just the opposite—that we lend a hand to planning meals to be served entirely from the oven.

So let's. And we'll put the last first and this morning concentrate on ovens, leaving top-stove dinners for tomorrow. There are sundry reasons why I like the idea of oven meals. I wonder if the same ones appeal to you? We've found that oven dinners need little watching and can literally cook themselves while the kitchener is resting, golfing, or attending Sunday services. Then another feather in their caps: Dinner for dinner, ovens cook our meals more economically than do top stove burners. Add to this the fact that the long, slow cooking an oven can give is just the thing for the lowest priced cuts of meat and for such inexpensive items as dried beans.

So for some typical yet pleasantly different oven meals. A few tips to be remembered are these: Plan said meal so that all foods are ready to be removed from the oven at once. When possible use covered baking dishes to avoid mixture of flavors. Arrange those dishes to allow for a good circulation of air in the oven.

MINUTE MYSTERY

By H. A. RIPLEY

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

CASE NUMBER 233.

Prof. Fordney wearily yawned and said: "All right, I'll come around." He yawned again as he hung up the receiver, and while dressing pondered, somewhat sleepily, on the disadvantages of being a criminologist. A man couldn't get any rest even in this isolated district. Oh, well—another yawn.

As he stepped into his car to drive the three miles from the mountain cabin in which he was living alone he looked at his watch. It was 3:12 a. m. —and 10 below zero!

Arriving at the station in the small village he was greeted by Chief Brooks.

"Sorry, professor, to dig you out at this hour, but as our police surgeon is laid up with the flu and as the nearest doctor is seven miles from here, I called you."

Fordrey stifled a yawn.

"Officer Davis," continued the chief, pointing to a young policeman standing near him, found Mr. Nason lying in the snow 'bout half an hour ago. He brought the body in, called me—I live just across the road—and, after recognizing it as that of the world famous architect, I thought it best to phone you."

The professor accompanied the two officers to the small mortuary where Nason lay. The frozen body was unclothed by them and examination revealed no bruises or marks.

"Why he should go out and deliberately freeze himself to death is beyond me," Chief Brooks remarked when they were back in his tiny office.

"Are you sure he was frozen to death?" Fordney asked.

"Why, yes, of course. Aren't you?"

"Not at all," yawned the professor. You see——"

WHY DID FORDNEY DISAGREE WITH BROOKS' REASONING?

Chicago Historical society. Mrs. John Alden Carpenter is to be their luncheon hostess today and they are leaving this afternoon for Washington.

Miss Betty Dixon to Be Bride Today.

At noon today in the chapel of the Fourth Presbyterian church Miss Betty Dixon, daughter of the Homer L. Dixons, will become the bride of A. Parker Bryant, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Bryant of Northampton, England, and Florida. The Rev. John Timothy Stone will read the wedding service in the presence of the large Dixon clan and Mr. and Mrs. A. Watson Armour, the aunt and uncle of Mr. Bryant. The bridegroom's parents will not be here for the wedding.

Miss Dixon will wear a brick colored traveling suit and whatever flowers Mr. Bryant sends her. The bridegroom, too, will discard conventional morning wedding attire and will wear a business suit. Neither one is having any attendants. Mr. Bryant and his bride will leave immediately after the ceremony for a wedding trip and will be at home shortly in Lake Worth, Fla.

The women golfers of the Onwentsia club are having their annual powwow today with golf in the morning and again in the afternoon, with luncheon and the election of next year's golf and tennis chairmen in between. Mrs. Edison Dick is in charge of arrangements for today's affair. The men's powwow will be held on Saturday and Sunday of this week.

The Chicago Junior leaguers are thinking up lots of new and delightful ways to swell their coffers and thus contribute more money to the charities they aid. The latest scheme will prove to be as constructive as it will be interesting, for Clifton Utley, the director of the Council on Foreign Relations, is going to give a series of lectures on current events, starting at 11 o'clock Friday, Oct. 6, and continuing for ten weeks. Because of the limited space in the Junior league headquarters the league can accept only the first forty-five applications for seats at this series.

Mrs. C. F. Spalding Returns From East.

Miss Marjorie Bertha, who has always been better known as "Moxie," has returned to Smith college for her senior year. She and her parents, the Edward M. Berthas, have been living in Winnetka during the summer, but Mr. and Mrs. Bertha are moving to town today for the winter. They will be at the Lake Shore Drive hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Selz, who have been spending the summer at their home near Three Rivers, Mich., have closed it for the year and have returned to their town residence in Lincoln Park West. Mrs. Selz and her elder son, Preston, have left Chicago by motor for Charlottesville, Va., where young Mr. Selz is entering the University of Virginia as a freshman.

Frederick B. Tuttle, who has been summering abroad, will arrive at home early next month. Mr. Tuttle's vacation was not altogether a pleasant one, for a letter written on Sept. 2 from Munich brings the news that he was ill with pneumonia for six weeks and was just convalescing when the letter was written.

Miss Elise Clow, the Kent S. Clows' pretty daughter, is sailing today with two teachers and the rest of the girls who are going to Miss Nixon's school in Florence. They are taking the Statendam and will spend a few days in Paris before going to Italy.

Miss Mary Nixon, who was here for the marriage of her niece, the former Olga de Tarnowsky, to H. Newton Hudson, has gone to Boston, and will remain there and in New York for another ten days, as she is not sailing back to Italy with her pupils. Another niece, Miss Mary de Tarnowsky, who spent last winter with her aunt in Florence, has gone east to Bradford college in Massachusetts. She will be at home for the Christmas holidays. Miss de Tarnowsky is a daughter of Dr. and Mrs. George de Tarnowsky of Pine Grove avenue.

Mrs. Morris L. Greeley and Miss Louisa May Greeley are at home in Winnetka after a European trip. They went abroad last June.

Leave This Week for Eastern School

Miss Caroline Montgomery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick D. Montgomery, and Miss Georgia Pettibone, daughter of the Holman T. Pettibones of Winnetka, are among the girls leaving this week for Miss Wheeler's school in Providence, R. I.

Mrs. Daniel H. Peterkin and her daughter, Miss Jeannette Peterkin, have gone to New York, where they will find an apartment that Miss Peterkin can occupy this winter while she pursues her studies in sculpture. Mrs. Peterkin will remain east for a few weeks with her daughter.

Mrs. Kay Wood and her son and daughter, Kay Jr. and Mary, are leaving Chicago Oct. 1 to sail from San Francisco on the 5th for a year in China. They are letting their house in Hinsdale and renting one in Peking.

Mrs. Warren Everett and her daughter are sailing on the same boat as the Woods, but the Everetts will be in Japan for the winter.

Miss Alice Rose Dedouch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Dedouch of Oak Park, is to be married to Ensign Wilford Tennyson Stannard of New Haven, Conn., on Sept. 28. Miss Dedouch attended the Fairmont school in Washington, D. C., and was graduated from Northwestern university, where she was a member of Delta Gamma sorority, last June. Ensign Stannard finished at the U. S. Naval academy in 1932 and is serving aboard the U. S. S. California.

Worker's Skill Is as Important as Choosing Type of Permanent

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

I heard a complaint at one of the beauty association conventions in Chicago recently relative to permanents. The complainant insisted the trouble with the permanent situation was that the manufacturers of machines have done their advertising to death. Women ask for a This-Machine-Manufacturer wave or That, placing no importance whatsoever on the skill or knowledge of the operator.

I think complaining about the advertising is ridiculous, but there is something to the charge that women commit their hair without any inquiry about skill of the operator. When women buy a dress, say, they do not go into any old shop and ask for a dress manufactured by So-and-So. Nor do they go into a hospital and let an unknown operate on them. This argument is all right. A woman in search of a good permanent should go to a good operator, be prepared to pay a reasonable price, and let the experienced operator decide about the permanent for her. There are a number of things to be known about hair to secure a successful permanent.

In the better manufacturers' defense it must be reported that they take precaution to see that their machines are handled by skilled operators. This attitude on their part is plainly understood. For a bad job will immediately be subscribed to their product. They conduct classes, directed by experienced permanent-wave operators, who initiate other operators into the secrets of successful wave giving.

However, it's a healthy sign that the subject is being brought out in the open and women are informed, and warned, that getting a permanent is not getting an ice cream soda.

I sat in at one of these classes of instruction and saw that the expert operator isn't taking any chances with hair. A familiarity with various textures, proper amount of steam and heat pressure, and the effect of waving on dyed and bleached heads is imperative.

You may be interested to know that the head most feared by the skilled operators is the overbleached hair, the hair that has been treated for years to peroxide and ammonia bleachings. Real reluctance is registered at tackling this job, and some of the better operators refuse to touch it.

Display Humility to Gain Friends, Authors Advise

BY DORIS BLAKE.

The great trick in winning people, one gathers from Ewing T. Webb and John B. Morgan, associate professor of psychology, Northwestern university, is to give them a chance to feel superior.

In their compilation, "Strategy in Handling People" [Garden City Publishing company], the eminent co-authors show how celebrated men, the world's greatest men, have applied this bit of strategy. The authors tell of an occasion in which Woodrow Wilson won his audience with a story, using the story's point to advance his own humility or embarrassment of the moment.

"His hearers warmed up, relaxed pleasantly. . . . Wilson's strategy went far deeper than just getting a laugh. Actually he was employing one of the most powerful methods of winning people's good will and support, of disarming hostility. He was raising the other fellow's ego at the expense of his own. How often we hear the successful man cracking jokes about himself or criticizing himself when he first makes contact with a group of people. He charms and delights them by making them feel superior to him—for the moment, at least."

The "small" person, observes our psychologists, "is too anxious to assert his own importance, to turn the laugh on some one else, or to prove that he himself is extremely clever and important.

"One of the sure ways to shine," our advisers tell us, "is to be willing to let others outshine you," a rule as applicable to contacts in which the heart is involved as in other adventures. And it is unquestionably the trick of women who are successful with men."

Workless Dads Grow Closer to Their Children

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

I'm not one of those "every cloud has a silver lining" people who think the depression has been good for us. But where the distress hasn't been too acute I have seen some benefits reaped—not where nerves have suffered terribly and real want has stalked, perhaps, but where a man's relation to his family is materially changed by the fact that he is with them most of the time.

Some men by being out of work have come much closer to their children. The depression will leave those children richer and the father more deeply interested than he has ever been before. This, because he has time for them.

I sat in the subway train the other day toward evening. I don't know whether it was because I was very tired myself or not—but it seemed to me as I looked at face after face each one showed marks of great fatigue—weariness from the grind of one long day's work and one long tiresome journey after another. "If," I thought to myself, "I had to do what these men have to do every day, I'd not be much use to my family when I got home at night."

Many men who put in a hard day, with perhaps a long journey at either end find the evening only a tag end. They're tired, often their nerves are jangly and there's not much freshness left. They want to let down, get rested, have quiet for reading—or seek out some diversion with adults. This state of mind and body doesn't tend to make them responsive to their children, interested and observant of them, and lavish with their leisure.

But with the loss of a job, they have found themselves with plenty of time on their hands.

Former Stage Star Rescued from Extras

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Jessie Pringle, six years in the rôle of Frank Bacon's wife in the stage run of "Lightnin'," today started a renewed career, having been rescued from among the extras in Fox's "The Mad Game" by Ralph Morgan, an old friend. Morgan recognized her, brought his friend, Jim Ryan, casting director, around and introduced the former star.

When "Lightnin's" long run ended Miss Pringle decided to retire and bought a forty acre dairy ranch near Denver. This she later disposed of to buy a Los Angeles apartment house and her savings vanished in one year.

"We will have him train twenty of our chorus girls for a flagpole sitting effect," Charles Rogers, the producer, says, "and then when the picture is released we plan to have the girls do their flagpole sitting in person right outside the theaters. It ought to attract a lot of comment if they let us do it." Lew Cody, no longer a leading man, is playing the villain in "We're Sittin' Pretty."

With Maurice Chevalier gone back to France, Toby Wing says her "boy friend, Elbert Franklin," is arriving in Hollywood in a day or two.

Good Morning!

Power and glory? You won't give a hoopla for 'em when this picture's ended!

All your trend will be toward a house by the side of the road where you can be a friend to man, or, maybap, a loaf of bread, a jug of wine and some thou. But nothing more! For you will have learned a lesson—that power and glory are quite apt to resolve themselves into the most unappetizing dust and ashes on your tongue.

This is a good picture that very nearly deserves the adjective "great." It gives an arresting impression of plot newness and provides Spencer Tracy with a fling at the sort of characterization Lionel Barrymore excels in. [Yesterday I was mourning for more of Spencer Tracy. Fox came right across, didn't they?] Also, it brings Colleen Moore back to the screen after a long absence and reveals her as a dramatic actress of intuition and ability.

This girl, who played a bright-eyed ingénue not many moons ago, has been right in insisting that producers take her seriously. As a wife, young and ambitious; later, middle aged and bitter, she is entirely convincing both as to acting and makeup, and she gets you where you live in her two big scenes, where she realizes—and renounces forever.

As for Spencer Tracy—he's never done anything better—nor more surprising. His rôle demands his transition from illiterate country track walker to that of dominant railroad president. He's young when the action starts. He is old when it ends. And between points he has given a startlingly facile performance, aided by artful makeup that changes the man as men do change.

The film—a grim one—starts with a funeral and ends with a suicide.

Its action shuttles back and forth as the loyal old secretary of the deceased man tells to his incredulous wife the story of his years of association with the dead man—whom he had loved. It is the real, the human lowdown on a giant of industry whom the world had hated and never understood.

Ralph Morgan portrays the secretary sympathetically. Helen Vinson is cold, beautiful, believable as the "other woman" who becomes a second wife. Clifford Jones as Tom Garner Jr. is unremarkable, but gets by all right. Other players are excellently cast.

Photography, settings, costumes are A1, and I cannot too highly recommend the direction and the dialogue.

Hats Are Unique Third Members of Dramatic New Fur Sets from Paris

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The Paris dressmakers agree that fur sets are just the thing to start the fall right. In most of the great houses these are being offered in two or three pieces, usually in three. There is always a little fur wrap, like a cape or jacket, and with this goes a muff. The third piece is the fur hat that is being shown by all of those Paris houses that make millinery.

Sketched at the top is a fur set in three pieces of the sort seen at Lanvin's. Mme. Lanvin makes short capes of leopard fur, with a hood at the back of the shoulders, only this hood isn't worn outside, but is tucked in as the drawing shows. A little turban of leopard fur looks very smart with such a cape, and the newest thing in a leopard muff is one that is square.

At the bottom of our sketch is a velvet and mink cape from Maggy Rouff. The cape, which is quaint and skimpy, hugging the arms, is made of dark brown velvet, and it has a standing collar with a bow under the chin. Bands of mink cover the cape right up to the shoulders, giving it a dropped shoulder line. The muff is made of velvet, but the outside is covered by mink bands arranged in loops. A mink toque goes with this set.

SOCIETY WOMEN DELIGHTED WITH ABSOLUTELY HARMLESS TREATMENT. . . . NO DIET

A NATIONALLY known writer has lost 53 pounds of fat in three months, a prominent doctor's wife lost 14 pounds 30 days. Many prominent society women are reducing easily and safely by the scientific Vannay treatment.

Vannay is an absolutely harmless tablet that contains no Iodine or harmful drugs of any kind. It was developed by a great physician who has specialized in research with the Pasteur Institute of Paris and famous clinics of America.

Now it is absurd for anyone to take dangerous drugs, or anything that rushes food through the body half digested, and leads to chronic constipation. Vannay is a safe, natural regulator of the digestive ferments (Lipases) which control the production of fat in all human bodies.

You don't have to starve yourself or go through painful exercises. You simply take the tablets each day and continue to eat three hearty meals. The fat disappears at just the places where you want to lose it. Avoid fattening foods.

Start the treatment at once and all your fondest dreams of health and slim loveliness should come true.

LYNN FRANCIS

Famous for her acting in "Passing Present" writes:

"I want to acknowledge my gratitude to you for the help I have received from Vannay reducing tablets. I have taken them daily for three months, and I have lost in weight and especially in measurements. I only needed to lose ten pounds, which I did within the first nine weeks. But where Vannay helped me most was in losing several inches off my thighs—and an inch and a half off my hips.

"I have tried exercise and heavy massages unsuccessfully — as well as strenuous dieting. So I can recommend Vannay tablets wholeheartedly. They are the only means of reducing that I have found successful as well as harmless; in fact, since I have been taking Vannay, I have felt infinitely more alive."

WHO else wants to reap a big reward for his understanding of everyday human nature? In more than 5 million homes every week, to more than 15 million eager readers, The Comic Weekly talks in terms every one can understand—about what every one is interested in.

It has just four great themes—love, laughter, thrills and tears. As simple as all that. But these are the themes of all great books. These are the themes that pack the movie houses and theatres. These are the secrets of all entertainment.

Do you wonder, then, that a survey revealed 68% of all men and 72% of all women who read Sunday newspapers read the comics? Entertainment comes first in a world weary of a week's realities. And the creators of Tillie, Skippy, Jiggs and Maggie, Barney Google and Boob McNutt are masters of the art.

Putting your advertising among these pages is putting it where it will be seen, read, get your product talked about. $17,500 is the price of a back page—inside pages, $16,000. The circulation is more than three of the great national weekly magazines combined. And results that have seldom been duplicated by any medium even in the most prosperous years.

With these tremendous features—and smaller strips by the same artists in addition—is it any wonder that more than five million families follow The Comic Weekly "Puck" zealously every week?

Some of them tried it with just one page at first. Lever Brothers, for example. The Wander Company, makers of Ovaltine. Vick Chemical Company. Ralston Purina. General Foods tried it with an initial order for six pages, followed by two more in the same year.

Now Lever Brothers' advertising of Lux and Lux Flakes, Lifebuoy and Rinso appears regularly in The Comic Weekly. Ovaltine pages run throughout the year. General Foods, whose first use of The Comic Weekly was a series of pages for Grape Nuts, later added pages on Jell-O, Minute Tapioca, Postum and Post Toasties. Vick came back for more in two successive seasons. Ralston Purina broke all records with its first page on February 12 and started a regular schedule of pages beginning September 24.

Why? Can there possibly be more than one answer? Can that answer be expressed in any terms other than sales results—profits—cash received?

Senior Tackle Gets Honor.

Perseverance finally brought its reward to Johnny Heuss, tackle on Northwestern university's football team, who yesterday was elected captain of the Wildcats for the 1933 season.

Following yesterday afternoon's practice the players assembled in the varsity locker room in Dyche stadium and balloted for the captaincy. Three players, Ed Manske, Ollie Olson, and Heuss were tied on the first ballot and a second vote was ordered. This time Heuss received a majority of the votes.

No High School Experience.

Heuss, whose home is in Lansing, Mich., entered Northwestern without previous football experience. He went out for the freshman team upon the entreaties of his fraternity brothers at the Wrangler house who saw possibilities in the strapping youth who stood 6 feet 2 inches tall and weighed 170 pounds. His inexperience almost caused him to be cut from the squad, but he stayed on to win a freshman numeral.

By the next fall he had gained weight, but still wasn't regarded as varsity material and spent the season of 1931 on the "B" team while the varsity was winning the championship of the Big Ten.

Last year Heuss was moved up to a reserve position on the varsity and soon convinced the coaches that he had learned a lot about line play since his freshman days. When Bob Gonya, regular tackle, was hurt before the Purdue game, Heuss was nominated to start. His showing in this and subsequent games was such that he continued to play regularly.

Gets Weight Up to 185.

His knowledge of line play and keenness in diagnosing the opponent's attack place him in the forefront of the tackle candidates on the year's Wildcat squad, despite the fact that he is greatly outweighed. He now weighs 185 pounds. He is 21 years old and is one of the outstanding students in the senior class at Northwestern.

Reports that Iowa will invade Soldiers' field Saturday with a vastly improved football eleven have made a deep impression in the Northwestern camp.

The beginning of classes yesterday forced the Wildcats to abandon their double practice sessions, but Coach Dick Hanley packed enough work into the afternoon drill to even up things.

Most of yesterday's practice was devoted to brushing up on the shortcomings uncovered in Saturday's clash with the freshmen. The line came in for most of Hanley's attention.

The squad was bolstered yesterday by the return of Hugh Duvall, sophomore full back, who has been out for a week with a sprained wrist.

COACH DRIVES MAROONS.

Football is on in earnest at the University of Chicago. Sharply dissatisfied with the performance of the Maroon squad in Saturday's long surprise scrimmage, the first of the season, Coach Clark Shaughnessy yesterday jumped his men into another scrimmage session. His comment on the first scrimmage was limited to one word: "Rotten."

Yesterday's affair was short but pungent. It began with a minor epidemic of fumbling, whereupon the coach sat his boys down and lashed out with the first harsh words he has used thus far. The varsity team, playing a husky freshmen eleven, then came up with some effective smashing, sending Berwanger, Nyquist, and Sahlin through for repeated runs, and completing a pair of handsome passes.

Two casualties resulted from the day's efforts. Merritt Bush, towering

Mayor Makes a Speech, Bands Play, and Everything

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 25.—New York has gone strangely hick-town over the Giants and their winning of the National league pennant, which certainly is no original feat, and, judging by the meager turnstile readings of the Polo grounds over the course of the season, a matter of interest to only a trifling fraction of the city's six million and odd. The mayor of the city, a Mr. O'Brien, has received the athletes with ruffles and flourishes reminiscent of the pomp with which his predecessor, Mr. Hylan, used to greet relays of whiskered moochers from the old world on their way to Washington to pile up the war debt.

The athletes themselves are comparative strangers in town, as the members of a champion ball club always are in any town on which they happen to find themselves based. Probably not many, if any, of them knew the name of the mayor of the city until they met him on the municipal stoop, and some of them may not remember it even now. In that case, however, they would have nothing on his honor, who has no head for petty details either.

Mr. O'Brien Gets Idea Right Away.

Sufficient unto the day are that day's own problems, and when Mr. Curry, the boss, called up the mayor and told him it would be a good, popular idea to receive the Giants, what with the campaign coming on and all, some one undoubtedly got up a list of the Giants and slipped it to the great man for ready reference. But you wouldn't expect him to commit such a list to memory, especially as there is not a New York voter among them. And, if one were able to fumble around in that rich treasure house which is his honor's mind, one would probably find stuffed away in some dark cranny of the vastness a mental note that Babe Ruth is the great man of baseball and a puzzlement over the identity of this Hubbell, this Lefty O'Doul and this Will Terry, who are now certified to him as famous heroes of the game.

In Other Days City Took It Easier.

Mr. O'Brien is redoubtable, however, and in his oration to the persons unknown to him who are to glorify the city in the world series ball games at the Polo grounds—or is it the Yankee stadium, Mike?—he recalled that he once managed the ball club in his days at college, where he studied Horace, the famous Greek. From this noncombatant baseball experience he derived the right to call them brother. There followed a parade in the rain, with marching music, and there are likely to be other doings of a civic or somewhat civic character to celebrate

8,000 CHEER, BOO WHEN PRINCESS CAMELIA WINS

BY FRENCH LANE.

Princess Camelia, owned by Mrs. John Marsch of Chicago, won a thrilling nose decision in the Washington Boulevard handicap at the opening of the Washington Park autumn racing season yesterday afternoon.

Taking the lead from the start and being driven furiously most of the way by the veteran jockey, Earl Pool, she lasted long enough to beat off the challenge of Gift of Roses. Minton, from the Nash Brothers' Shandon farm stable, was third and was gaining steadily on the two leaders in the late stages.

The finish was so close it was a task for the judges who place the horses. Half the crowd cheered the official placing. The other half hooted it.

Two Dollars Earns $23.26.

Princess Camelia was a long shot in the betting. After reeling off the six furlongs over a track which had been sprinkled with rain frequently during the afternoon, she paid $23.26 to win. $6.36 to place and $5.42 to show. Gift of Roses was at $3.98 to place and $3.28 to show. Minton's show price was $5.28.

Polydorus was the favorite. He had been away from the races for a month enjoying a vacation. He was away slowly and, while he ran gamely down the stretch, the best he could do was finish fourth.

Despite the showers which began falling shortly after noon and the threatening weather, 8,000 gathered for the opening of the 18 day season.

As soon as Starter Morrissey released the barrier, Jockey Pool shot The Princess out on top. He stayed there for the entire route.

Pool Hugs the Rail.

Rounding into the home stretch she widened her lead into three lengths and Pool saved the race with her by hugging the rail around the last turn. Gift of Roses went wide but came in mighty stride down the stretch, as did Minton.

Both of them were wearing the winner down. Pool had to apply his whip and heels to keep her going long enough. Her race wasn't anything remarkable, although the showers might have affected it. Her six furlongs in 1:12 was overshadowed by Rubio's victory in the six furlong Western avenue purse, in which Rubio reeled off six furlongs in 1:11 1-5, a fifth of a second off the track record.

The opening program brought a remarkable mile race by Foxiana which races for the Austin stable. Foxiana took the track at the start of the eighth furlong dash and fairly ran the legs off of her rivals.

That Was a Fast Mile.

She wound up by beating Dominant Miss by three lengths. Vox Pop was third. Foxiana ran the mile in 1:36 -15, one of the fastest of the season anywhere in America.

WATCHING PRACTICE.

THE WAKE watched the secret practice game between Northwestern's varsity and freshmen in the board enclosed field adjoining Dyche stadium Saturday. Incidentally, it was about as secret as the life of the much quoted goldfish with a hundred or more trusted alumni, well wishers, and volunteer assistant coaches on the side lines.

Returned veterans of last year's Purple eleven, reinforced by the oncoming sophomores, playing against a beefy and spirited freshman outfit—one of the best in years on the north shore—had a little difficulty at first, then wore the freshies down to score frequently.

As the varsity total mounted, some of the enthusiastic alumni began to vision big doings this fall. Even Old Sobersides—ourself—caught the infection, for here indeed was a great looking bunch of boys, with apparently plenty of replacements. But wait a minute. What are other elevens, opponents on the Purple schedule, doing?

With no wish to be a killjoy but just as a precaution, let's remind Purple adherents Northwestern was beaten last year by four rivals again on the 1933 schedule—Ohio State, Minnesota, Notre Dame, and Michigan. At each of those four colleges material this year is considered better than a year ago, notably Ohio State and Notre Dame. So the Purple must be improved to meet them on even terms.

In one respect, however, it seems to us Northwestern will carry more guns. It has more ball carriers who look capable of gains. Instead of watching only Rentner, opponents will have several men to guard against. That may open the opposition's defense. The line should be as good as or better than last year with better replacements when the veterans retire, except at ends, which as yet are not proved.

Potter and Rentner will be missed in the back field, both on offense and defense. Olson still is there to do the kicking but will not have to do as much line plunging. It is too early to name individuals but there was one sweet back working Saturday. We might mention his name but the practice, you know, was secret and we want them to keep the welcome sign out for us.

Northwestern has good material. It would be too much to expect that it win all its games, but it ought to win its fair share of them.

Happiness.

True happiness means just plugging along
And doing the things day by day,
No matter how little, no matter how great,
That circumstance throws in your way.
You can't do today what tomorrow may bring
And yesterday's linked to the past,
So live in the present, remembering this—
There's nothing that's earthly can last.
Just pick out the good of each day as it comes,
The evil that men say or do,
Will hurt you as much as you'll let it, my friend,
For the false always bows to the true.

TILDEN BEATS COCHET IN PRO TENNIS MATCH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, France, Sept. 25.—The United States defeated France in a professional tennis tournament, four matches to one, at the Roland Garros stadium today. The American squad clinched victory when William Tilden defeated Henri Cochet of France, 6-3, 6-4, 6-2.

Bruce Barnes, Tilden's partner, former University of Texas star, defeated Martin Plaa of France, 2-6, 6-4, 6-3, 6-1 in the first match of the day. Tilden and Barnes then paired to defeat Cochet and Plaa, 6-2, 4-6, 6-1, 6-4, in the doubles, which was started yesterday but was not finished because of rain.

GIANTS VOTE 26 FULL SHARES OF SERIES PROFITS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 25.—The New York Giants, bearing in mind, perhaps, that the Cubs last year, through stingy share splitting, supplied Yankee bench jockeys with magnificent razzing material for the entire world series, got their heads together today and determined that the Washington Senators should be given no such morale busting materials. As a consequence the Giants made a generous apportionment of their imminent share of the series pot.

The Giants cut 26 full shares among 21 players, the club secretary, the three coaches, and the club trainer the generosity in this regard contrasting with the Cubs' famous split in that last year's champs gave the secretary and trainer a half-share each.

Smith Gets Full Share.

The most unusual award was the voting of a full share to Al Smith, young pitcher whom Manager Bill Terry refused to farm out to get under the 23 player limit early this season. Smith was technically listed as a coach and worked in batting practice, but was not eligible for National league pitching, even after the player limit was raised to 40 on Sept. 1.

Johnny Salveson and Harry Danning, recruit pitcher and catcher, who had little part in the winning of the pennant, each got a full share. Quarter shares were voted Charley Dressen, just made eligible by special dispensation, and Bill Shores, pitcher recently recalled and ineligible for the series.

Henry Fabian, veteran groundkeeper at the Polo grounds, was voted $1,000; Fred Logan, the clubhouse man, $800; his assistant, $200, and George Croy, the bat boy, will get $500.

Vergez Goes Home.

Dressen was declared eligible at about the same time Johnny Vergez, whose place he will take in the Giant lineup, departed for his home in California. Johnny went home after receiving word a daughter had died shortly after birth and that his wife was in a critical condition as the result of a Caesarian operation.

Vergez, who had been in New York convalescing from an appendicitis operation which he underwent following sudden seizure in Boston early this month, had some hope of getting into the series until today's summons from California. It is not thought he will return for the series.

Senators O. K. Dressen.

Dressen, who has been manager of the Nashville team in the Southern association, was purchased by the Giants to play third instead of Vergez. To become eligible for the series, however, it was necessary for the Washington club to agree to his playing. This was done today.

Inferiority Complex Goes After Judge Leaves Senators

(This is the seventh of a series of sketches of the Washington Senators, who will meet the New York Giants in the world series.)

BY EDWARD BURNS.

At the outset the job of replacing Joe Judge as Washington's first baseman had some of the elements of following the Chicago Symphony with a musical saw act. This fellow, Joe Kuhel, however, has made those who cheered Judge for 18 years like the new Joe just as much as they liked the old one.

"Joe pulled us through the dog days when most everybody else was showing signs of getting a little weary and jumpy," one Washington player told us. "Remember when the Yanks knocked us off in two tough games of a double header to slice down our lead to one game and set the country to saying, 'It won't be long now'?

They Can't Throw a Ball Past Kuhel.

"Well, that was about the time that Kuhel really started to bear down. He began to hit and hustle more than ever before, which is saying plenty. He kept his hitting around the .325 mark, which is 56 points higher than he hit in 1931, his first year as a regular, and 34 points higher than last season.

"Joe is one of the best shifters in getting in a position to receive throws I've seen, and some of the men on the team think he has more natural talent in this matter than any first baseman the league has seen in ten years. An infielder can't throw a ball past him if he shoots it within a range of ten feet of the bag either to left or right."

Kuhel strangely enough, in view of his present star rating, spent seven years in the minors before he blossomed forth enough to justify the fancy price tag that the Kansas City Blues had tacked on the young man.

All the Blues wanted for Joe was $65,000 and for some time they scared away the magnates in a position to pay this kind of sugar.

Kuhel Goes to Senators; Judge Returns to Form.

In midseason of 1930, however, Washington decided to let loose and Kuhel became the property of the Senators. The presence of Kuhel rejuvenated Judge and the newcomer played in only 18 games, batting .286.

In 1931 he was sent to Baltimore, but was recalled after playing in a half dozen games when Judge became ill and had to submit to an operation. Kuhel played in 139 games in 1931 and batted .269, but seemed conscious of being second string talent.

When Judge was given his release early this year Kuhel took the station as his own property, a mental relief that has made itself most evident all year.

VEECK SEEKING NEW OUTFIELDER WHO CAN HIT

Ready to Use Cash, Players in Deal.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Charles John Grimm will continue to manage the Cubs through the 1934 season. There hasn't been much doubt about his retention for the last month, but to set the rumor mongers off on a fresh track William Veeck, president of the club, made formal announcement last night of renewal of Grimm's contract.

The announcement was made after Grimm had paid an afternoon visit to the Hinsdale home of the Cub executive, who has been confined for almost a week with an attack of the flu. The real purpose of the visit, however, aside from the personal feature, was that Grimm wished to talk a bit about the kind of athletes he would prefer to see wearing Cub uniforms next season. Grimm felt safe because he had known for a couple of weeks that he was not going to be bounced into the ranks of the unemployed.

Team Defects Admitted.

The rail birds considered Grimm's job in jeopardy because of the failure to repeat with almost the same team that captured the pennant in 1932 by a belated spurt after he had assumed charge in August. The Cub directors, including President Veeck, although holding out hope until near the end of the present race, finally decided that the team's showing was due to playing defects and not to any bad judgment on the part of the manager.

Grimm's plans for 1934, although supposed to be a state secret, are known to be elaborate. The main portion of his theme involves outfielders, or at least one fly chaser who is an outstanding hitter. Another part of it concerns the acquisition of some pitching talent, although the staff as a whole held up its end this season. The pitchers, as a matter of fact, exceeded expectations and but for that the team might not have come close to the first division.

Still After Mr. Klein.

It is highly probable that the outfield need will be answered by the purchase of Chuck Klein, the Philly slugger for whom the Cubs have been offering tempting sums for the last three years. The Phillies always have resisted the offers, mainly because there was no marked dearth of money in the treasury, but it is reported that the club fared poorly financially this season and its resistance had been weakened. The Cubs, with a large reserve from their recent prosperous seasons, stand ready to bid high in cash, not to mention players.

Consummation of a deal for Klein, or for any other outstanding player now in the league, undoubtedly will mean the passing of Pat Malone. The big right hander lost caste with the club officials when he failed to finish five successive starts. As a result of this he was relegated to the bull pen as a relief worker during the last three weeks. Babe Herman also will depart during the winter if his place can be filled by a hitter.

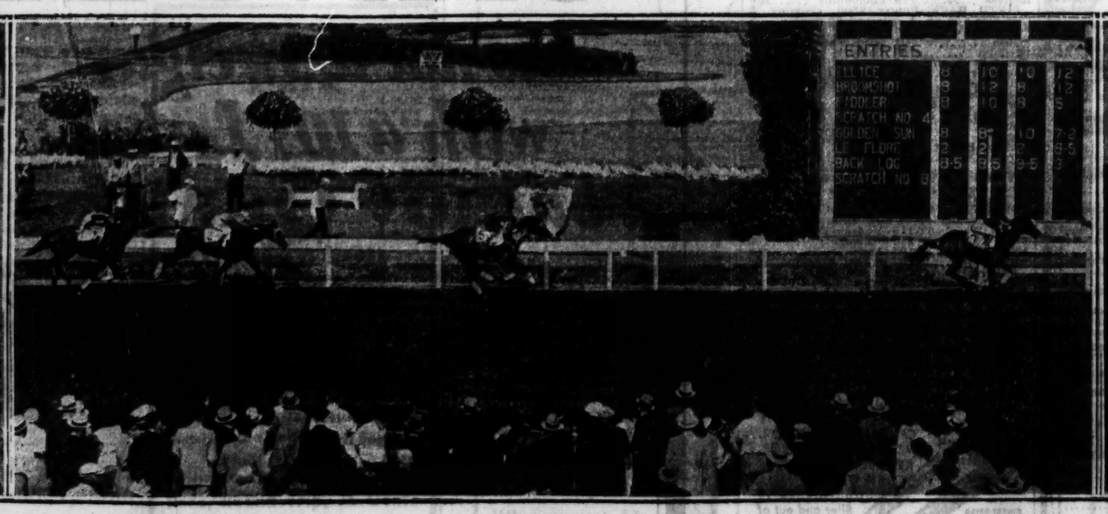
Several Probably Will Go.

It probably will not be long after the present season ends before the weeding out, already threatened by President Veeck, is under way. Catcher Billy Campbell is expected to go back to Los Angeles for additional experience. Leroy Herrmann, pitcher, also may be returned to that club. The veteran Zack Taylor, who has been a bull pen catcher all season, is another tabbed for release. If outfielder Frank Demaree is retained it will be only for utility work. The former coast leaguer has failed to respond with his bat.

Adolph Camilli, the big Italian, recently imported from the Coast league for first base duty, has convinced the observers that he can field with the best of them but still must prove his hitting skill.

BIG MOMENTS IN LIVES OF ATHLETES AS RECORDED BY CAMERA

New Northwestern captain, John Heuss of Lansing, Mich., entered the Evanston school without previous football experience, but now is an outstanding tackle.



Showers and threatening weather greeted opening of racing season at Washington Park, but a crowd of 8,000 gathered for the thoroughbred sport. This is the finish of the second race, which Back Log, second choice, won by four lengths. Golden Sun was second and Broomshot third. Back Log led all the way and started the daily double which wound up on Flichamaru and paid $52.74. [TRIBUNE Photos.]

MEADE, TIPTON TIE FOR JOCKEY LEAD AT HAVRE

Havre de Grace, Md., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Dominating the Havre de Grace program in their battle for riding honors and its prize of a $500 gold watch, Don Meade and Tony Tipton ended today's activities on the Maryland course all square with 13 winners each.

Meade, famous for his victorious ride on Broker's Tip in the Kentucky Derby, reached his 13th winner by scoring with three mounts, while Tipton, a promising apprentice, was winner of two races.

Starting with Pretentious in the first race, Meade also won the third and sixth, booting Mrs. T. H. Somerville's Pova home in front of the field in the third and counting with Primate in the sixth. Tipton put together his double with Cutie Face, an odds on choice, in the second, and took Coventry in the closing number.

In winning the Federal Hills purse for her third victory in as many starts, Pova easily qualified for the $10,000 Eastern Shore handicap for 2 year olds, which will be run Wednesday. Stepping the distance in the track time of 1:11 4-5, the filly set all the pace and finished two and one-half lengths in front of Frank Hayes' Don't Remember, with Samuel Riddle's Fortification third.

Allen, Garner Return to Ride at Homewood

Among the jockeys who returned to the Chicago racing scene in time to fill engagements on the opening program at Washington Park were Bill Garner and C. E. Allen. They didn't accomplish much in their first day's work.

A rumor was heard at Washington Park yesterday that Jockey Jack Westrope will return to Chicago at the close of Rockingham Park meeting on Saturday to ride during the last two weeks at the Homewood track.

Some speedy 2 year olds met in the Blue Island purse, which is one of the best races on this afternoon's program. They included New Deal, Mr. James, Swiftsport, Luna Bright, and Peancote.

Trainer Joe Patterson likes the Lincoln Fields course so much that he did not move the Audley Farm stable over to Washington Park. Instead he will van his charges from the Crete track to the Homewood oval when they race. Patterson has 31 horses under his care.

John C. Shea has taken over W. H. [Biscuit Billy] Snearly's two horses to train. Biscuit Billy, more than 90 years of age, avers that with a change of tracks and a change of trainers he is certain to win a race in the near future.

Another good race on today's program is the Harvey purse at a mile. It includes such speedy horses as Bahaman, Village Vamp, Playtime, Chrysostom, Yonkel and Big Red.

CAN REDS BEAT SANDLOT TEAM? WE'LL SEE TODAY

Often has it been said, sometimes jocularly, sometimes seriously, that "any real good amateur team could beat the Reds." So tomorrow will tell the tale. For the National league's tail end team will meet a handpicked bunch from the city's sandlots.

Sidney Weil, president, and Donie Bush, manager of the Reds, assented to putting on the game, though they well knew the gamble they were taking. The purpose is not to see how good—or bad—the Reds really are, but to raise some money to carry on the city sandlot leagues.

Both sides, however, are ready to make it a real game. Bush, finishing his first year as Redland manager, pledged himself to put in his regular lineup—Hafey, Bottomley, and all.

The amateur squad was drawn by Municipal association officials from all the class A teams of the city. Those picked have been training a week for the contest.

Red Barry Gets Verdict Over Simms in 10 Rounds

Asheville, N. C., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Red Barry of Washington, D. C., won a ten round decision over Frankie Simms of Cleveland, tonight. Barry weighed 199 pounds and Simms 212. In the semi-final, Jack Tunney, 195, of Washington, won by a technical knockout over Jack O'Dowd, of Detroit, 199, when the latter failed to come out for the eighth round of a ten round bout.

Fairmount Race Meeting Is Extended One Week

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Officers of the Fairmount Jockey club at Collinsville, Ill., said today that the fall meeting would be extended a week, and set the closing date for Oct. 14, instead of Oct. 7. They gave "encouraging business" as their reason.

BEARS IMPROVE ON MOVIE PLOT TO DEFEAT PACKERS

ıt Hewitt Steals Hero Role from Grange.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

A few years ago a film company ıpitalized the fame of Red Grange, who had finished his career at Illinois with a string of exploits which had captured the imagination of the football fans of the country. Grange also had just finished a personal tour with the Chicago Bears during which the boys played any aggregation that could provide a guarantee.

This film wasn't a bad piece of work; in fact, the gridiron sequence came nearer portraying football than any preceding picture. Entitled "Two Minutes to Go," the plot called for a long run for a touchdown and victory for Grange's team just when the boys in the stands were ready to pay off on the rival university.

Bears Improve on Movie.

Sunday at Green Bay, the Bears put on the skit at the expense of the Packers. The Bears needed an extra minute but they shoved in an extra touchdown. And Red Grange, considerably older and much wiser in the business of playing football, was a member of the cast. Bill Hewitt, two years out of Michigan, however, stole the lead.

In these three minutes, Hewitt blocked two kicks, the last for the winning touchdown, an threw the forward pass which scored the first touchdown. But like any game the supporting cast was vitally important.

The first touchdown was accomplished in five plays. The first, an incompleted pass, was a washout. Then came Grange, who grabbed a pass over the line for a gain of 13 yards.

"Red almost got away for a long run on that pass," Link Lyman, the Bears' left tackle said after the game. "He'll still show the youngsters how it's done when he gets into condition." Link was playing pro football while Red was galloping for Illinois and, like Cal Hubbard, Green Bay's veteran, he improves each year.

Fooling the Packers.

Grange started the Bears on their way and Johnny Sisk then went on for a nine yard gain. Carl Brumbaugh, the quarter back, took a hand. The Bears needed one yard for a first down. Brumbaugh called for Jack Manders to fake a plunge and throw to Luke Johnsos. They play worked and Johnsos reached the Packers' 35 yard line.

The Bears scored on the next attempt. But only Johnsos, Hewitt and Brumbaugh knew the play. The other Bears believed that Hewitt was to carry the ball on an end around play. He scored on this against the Notre Dame All Stars a week ago. Actually Johnsos went straight down the field for a pass. He was the only receiver but Engelmann, the Packers' defensive half back, never saw Luke go by him. He and his team mates had concentrated in an effort to stop Hewitt as he ran laterally across the field.

Halas Wants Better Line.

Coach George Halas led in the cheering for the victory over the Packers, but with proper regard for the future, he spoke of the many failures rather than the success in the final minutes. The Bears' line will be given a workout starting this morning in preparation for the game with Boston Sunday at Soldiers' field. The defense was fair, but the line didn't make much headway against the Packer forwards.

"We drilled last week to stop Green Bay's passes, but now we'll turn our attention to getting our running attack in order," Halas said yesterday.

Green Bay Still in Race.

Green Bay tied by Boston and beaten by the Bears, will play the New York Giants Sunday at Milwaukee. The next week Portsmouth invades Green Bay. A victory over Portsmouth will put the Packers back in the race for the western championship with a pair of games yet to be played against the Bears at Wrigley field.

CARDINALS GO EAST

Twenty-five members of the Chicago Cardinals pro football team will entrain at 2 o'clock this afternoon for Pittsburgh, where tomorrow night they will open their National league season. The Pittsburgh club, a new member of the league, lost its opening game to New York, 23 to 2, last week.

The Cardinal team functioned smoothly in the fourth and final practice game at Princeton, Ill., Sunday night, and Coach Paul Schissler believes it is ready.

The trade of Walt Holmer, full back, to Boston for Herb Hinchman Saturday was made without comment from either club. Holmer is a league veteran, having played with the Bears before joining the Cards.

Hinchman is 24 years of age, 5 feet 11 inches tall, and weighs 185. He will accompany the Cards on the eastern swing.

With the exception of Lainhart, Creighton, and Moynihan, the Cards are in good condition. Lainhart and Creighton have leg injuries, while Moynihan hasn't fully recovered from the sprained ankle acquired when he played center for the Notre Dame All-Stars against the Bears.

Mills Seek City Semi-Pro Title in Games with Florals

The Chicago Mills will seek to clinch the city semi-pro baseball championship Sunday by a victory over the Duffy Florals in a double header at Mills stadium, Lake street and Kilpatrick avenue. The Mills eliminated the Logan Squares, winning six out of eight games, and divided a double header with the Florals June 18. The first game will start at 1:30 o'clock.

New York Goes Hick-Town to Honor Giants

an event commonplace enough in other years, but strangely blessed in the season of 1933. All this is very cheery.

New York's restraint under similar conditions or conditions even doubly joyous in other years compares strangely with the enthusiasm of the people and their masters this fall. They burned no crates and barrels in the streets when, in 1921, the Yankees won their first pennant after many years of patient striving. That certainly was a more historic occasion, but the citizens took it with deplorable calm except during official baseball hours and within the official premises.

Nor did they ever indulge in the same excited let-go over any of the winnings of John McGraw within the scope of my experience, although Mr. McGraw was, and is, a New Yorker and more typical of New York than George M. Cohan, Mr. O'Brien, Jimmy Walker, or even Mr. Curry himself, who owns the town, I think.

Mr. McGraw was truculent, cocky, successful and committed to the idea that when you're away from old Broadway you're only camping out. A member of the Lambs, intimate with actors, politicians and persons engaged in games of chance and more New Yorkese than the very sidewalks which the old song celebrates, Mr. McGraw was one whose victories in the baseball business could have been fittingly observed with marching and dancing in the streets and fighting in the saloons without any affectation at all. But they never let him have it, and even when three years in a row both New York teams won pennants and the world series was played altogether in town, there was a blasé disposition to regard all this as nothing more than the good luck of a couple of show troupes.

Champion Chasers O. K. at Ticket Windows.

The front runner and champion chaser is always held in contempt in the sport business, but there are not many people who can claim at this time that they were with the Giants through thick and thin, as the phrase goes, and knew they had it in them all the time. The Giants were well beyond June before they began to attract pay loads of customers and well into August before the patrons recognized them in large numbers.

Those who stayed away in hordes until the Giants were coming down the stretch in front might feel shy about flocking to them now that they are in the world series, lest they be accused of tagging along after a winner. Yet, if the Giants firm were to rely solely on the patronage of the die hard type of customer their world series would not enjoy that great success and gala atmosphere which Mr. O'Brien bespoke for it.

Mr. Farley, the postmaster general, has recognized a distinction between the front runner and champion chaser and the thick or thin kind of adherent in his patronage dealings of late. Those fine citizens who were for Roosevelt before Chicago will get the jobs. Those others who barely caught the tail board of the band wagon as it swung up the aisle of the Chicago stadium are placed on probation.

All Contributions to Be Gratefully Received.

The Giants' management probably will be more forgiving than Mr. Farley. If the world series attendance were restricted to those who were for the Giants before the Fourth of July the athletes would have only nickels to divide at the finish. They may have a warmer feeling for the die hards, but I am sure they would not reject the contributions of those who didn't begin to appreciate them until Sept. 1.

CONACHER MAY COME TO HAWKS IN HOCKEY DEAL

TORONTO, Sept. 25.—[Special.]—James Strachan of the Montreal Maroons team of the National Hockey league passed through Toronto today en route to Chicago to complete negotiations which would send Lionel Conacher, Maroon star, to the Chicago Blackhawks next season. While complete details of the impending transaction were not revealed, Strachan intimated that Charley Gardiner, Chicago goalie, will be involved.

Shamrocks Hold Opening Football Drill Tonight

Paul Host Is Added to C. Y. O. Publicity Staff

Paul Host, captain of the Notre Dame football eleven last year, has joined the publicity staff of the Catholic Youth Organization in Chicago, it was announced yesterday by Publicity Director Don Hutchinson.

Farmer Offers Michigan a Play Worth 18 Points

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 25.—(AP)—A rural New Yorker, who "has his eye on a nice farm," has offered to help Harry Kipke and the University of Michigan football team win another championship.

Kipke has received a letter from the farmer, in which he says he has invented a forward pass play which "ought to result in 12 to 18 more points each game regardless of the strength of the team it is used against."

"I have," writes the New Yorker, "sent the plan to the United States patent office and it is protected. My idea is to sell this play or plan if it can be done. I am a poor boy and I have my eye on a nice farm I would like to buy, provided I can dispose of this plan."

"Any one," said Kipke, "who can show us how to score 12 to 18 more points in every game certainly can count on buying at least one nice farm."

Giants Split Series Money in 26 Shares

a private batting caucus with the slightly less lively National league ball that will open the world series and returned an apparently jubilant verdict to the effect that "it rides plenty when you hit it."

The American league champions chased outfielders to all corners of Griffith stadium. If there were any dissenting opinions as to what happened when the National league ball was hit, they couldn't be heard at the batting screen rolled up behind home plate.

The Senators, after a clubhouse meeting to divide their championship winnings, went through the first day of a three day training siege with as much enthusiasm as a college ball club getting ready to open a season.

Batting drills have been called also for tomorrow and Wednesday.

Manager Joe Cronin told questioners that the allotting of shares of the world series money had been accomplished in complete harmony. "In making the division we considered everybody who had anything to do with the club all season," he said.

It was learned later that Cronin meant that all those who had been connected with the Senators, including Pitcher Bill McAfee, who was recently sent to Rochester, and even down to Jimmy Mahorney, the bat boy and mascot, had been given a share.

Cambridge, Mass., Sept. 25.—[Special]—Among the players who reported to Freshman Coach Cliff Gallagher at Harvard university this afternoon was Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., son of the President. Young Roosevelt starred at tackle for the Groton school's football team last year.

sophomore tackle, pulled a leg muscle in the final play which, it is expected, will keep him off the field for about two weeks, probably until the Purdue game. Ed Cullen, who has been working at quarter back and half back with the second squad, suffered the same type of injury, save that his will disable him for only a few days. Raymond Pokela, sophomore guard candidate whose arm was injured Saturday, suffered no fracture, it was disclosed, but has a torn ligament which will keep him out of action for several weeks.

Bush has been alternating at tackle on the first team with John Rice, who apparently will now get the call in the two practice games. Both men weigh about 220 pounds, Bush being about six inches the taller of the two.

IOWA LINE WEAKENED.

Iowa City, Ia., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—With two first string linemen on the sidelines with boils, the University of Iowa varsity scrimmaged against a freshman team today in preparing for the Northwestern game Saturday at Soldier field, Chicago.

Lloyd Hoffman, 240 pound tackle, was the latest victim of boils, while Francis Schammel, 215 pound guard, was still out with the same trouble. Both men are expected to be ready for action this week-end, although they probably will not be in good condition.

Fred Radloff, a veteran, was at Hoffman's tackle and Eugene Liggett filled Schammel's guard job.

VETERANS WORRY ANDERSON.

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Elated at the showing of sophomores but equally depressed by the poor performance of the veterans in Saturday's scrimmage, Coach Heartly Anderson ordered another scrimmage for the Notre Dame football team Wednesday.

He was particularly dismayed with the lack of fire in the senior backs, Nick Lukats, Steve Banas, and Ray Brancheau. He will give them another chance Wednesday, however, and refused today to name any lineup changes until he has seen his squad in more scrimmage sessions.

Hughie Devore, right end, was the only regular not in uniform. He was injured slightly in Saturday's workout and will report tomorrow.

TWO WOLVERINES OUT.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Charles Bernard, center, and Mike Malashevich, lineman, remained out of uniform today to give injuries received in Saturday's scrimmage a chance to heal. Coach Harry Kipke sent the rest of Michigan's football squad through a light practice. Bernard was in the health service with a leg injury and Malashevich was given further time to recuperate from the hip bruise that kept him out most of last week.

BADGERS WORK ON PLAYS.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Dissatisfied with the defensive showing of the varsity in a scrimmage with the freshmen Saturday Coach Clarence Spears went back to fundamentals in long drill at Camp Randall today. After sending the squad through a tackling and blocking drill, Spears picked out two teams for an intensive drill on plays.

Battles for regular jobs still are waged briskly at most positions. Len Lovshin, a sophomore end, has just about clinched one of the wing positions while Mario Pacetti, Cap. Hal Smith and Bobby Schiller seem reasonably accused of regular jobs. The half back assignments are still wide open with Jimmy Bingham and Carl Sanger leading by a narrow margin over Kenny Kundert and Red Peterson.

PICKS GOPHER LINEUP.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Because several players now ineligibles will not know their fate until later this week, Bernie Bierman, Minnesota football coach, today decided to concentrate on the men he knows he can use against South Dakota State next Saturday.

His tentative back field lineup read like this: Hugh Lund, left half back; Babe Levoir or Glenn Seidel, quarter back; George Rennix, right half back, and Sheldon Beise, full back. In the line will be six veterans and one newcomer. The newcomer is George Svendsen, who will be at one tackle if the boils which have been bothering him are cleared up. The veterans are Capt. Roy Oen, center; Milton Bruhn and Stan Lundgren, guards; Phil Bengston, tackle, and John Ronning and Butch Larson, ends.

OHIO BATTLES RESERVES.

Columbus, O., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—There was no letup for Ohio State's football players today, when two scrimmage sessions were doled out by Coach Sam Willaman in an attempt to brush up the Buckeyes' modified double wing back offense. In the afternoon the first and second teams battled the reserves for almost two hours.

The first team lined up with Padlow and Gillman at ends; Rosequist and Conrad at tackles; Gallus and Monahan at guards, and Vuchinich at center. Cramer was at quarter with Heekin, Fisch and Olliphant getting the most of the half back play, and Wetzel and Yards alternating at full back.

INDIANA WORKS IN MUD.

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 25.—[Special.] — Indiana university football players today started their final week of preparation for the opening game against Miami university here Saturday, splashing through a general review of their work on a water soaked practice field.

Indiana's kicking continues to be outstanding, with Bob Jones getting off about the longest kicks of his career. Passing is being worked on continually and short heaves across the line to flashy little Jesse Barb, Negro half back, have netted long gains. Fitz Lyons, giant Negro end, also has brought down some long passes.

ILLINI PREPARE FOR DRAKE.

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Bob Zuppke today began to prepare the University of Illinois football team for its opening game against Drake here Saturday. Drake, with a line averaging nearly 190 pounds, is now coached by Vee Green, center on the Illinois champions of 1923.

Big Dave Cook, who ran 80 yards for a touchdown against the freshmen, may start against Drake. Cook has played half back for two years, but has the height and weight for full back.

A preliminary game with the Drake reserves will be played, consisting of two 15 minute halves.

PURDUE SHAKES UP LINE.

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Disturbed at the lack of defensive power shown by the Purdue line in Saturday's scrimmage session against the freshmen, Coach Noble Kizer made several shakeups this afternoon in another scrimmage with the yearlings. The frosh continued to make the varsity line candidates uncomfortable. Capt. Dutch Fehring and Ed Ungers retained their places as tackles, but in the other positions changes were frequent.

10 Commandments for Hunters; Obey Them; Aid Game

BY BOB BECKER.

With the opening of the fall hunting season only a few weeks ahead, a set of Ten Commandments are being sent to sportsmen throughout the United States which, it is hoped, will not only benefit wild game but the sportsman himself. Nine of the commandments have been drawn up by the advisory board of the migratory bird act. The tenth is supplied by the American Game association.

Observance of these commandments are vital to preserving the welfare of wild game. Here is the list of ten now being placed in all sportsmen's hands:

1. Take your birds in a sportsmanlike manner.
2. Select your birds and refrain from destructive flock shooting.
3. Refrain from shooting at birds beyond range.
5. Retrieve your birds and avoid all possible waste.
6. Do not patronize shooting places where unsportsmanlike practices are followed.
7. If you feed birds during the season continue it as long as feed is beneficial.
8. Do your part to restore breeding grounds and maintain refuges.
9. Be a sportsman—obey the seasons.
10. Swat the predators that prey on game.

In view of the fact that the federal warden service usually maintained by the government to hunt down the pothunters, duck bootleggers and motorboat hunters is practically abolished this season, sportsmen will be called upon to exert their influence everywhere toward law enforcement. In other words, sportsmen are given an opportunity to help swat the duck bootleggers and the market hunters. The following letter from one of the unpaid United States deputy wardens sums up the situation:

"You no doubt know that no money has been appropriated for federal wardens' salaries or expenses during the fiscal year. That means that the federal warden service is nil unless the warden is a patriotic chap willing to work for nothing.

"That's all right with me. I have donated my time and money since the first of the year. And I am going to keep going this fall."

DE PAUL TO END SCRIMMAGE FOR OMAHA TODAY

The De Paul university football squad yesterday went through a stiff two hour drill in offensive formations as final workouts were started for the opening game of the season Saturday with the University of Omaha here.

The last scrimmage of the week is scheduled for this afternoon. Hoping to reduce injuries to a minimum this season, the coaches plan to limit the number of scrimmage sessions.

Yesterday's drill proved that John Pionke and Pete Barskis have clinched the regular tackle jobs. Both functioned well in blocking.

Blue Island Girl Swims Five Miles Across Lake

Pelican Lake, Wis., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Miss Josephine Green of Blue Island, Ill., has reason to call her vacation here a success. First she won the annual Pelican Lake contest, receiving the title of "Miss Personality," and later she swam across Pelican lake, a distance of five miles. She is the first woman to accomplish the feat.

ELMHURST TIES, 7-7.

The Austin Panthers and the Elmhurst football team played a 7 to 7 tie on the latter's field, Lake street and York road. Lenny Daldon led the Elmhurst attack.

Columbus Is 8 to 4 Winner; Evens Series

Columbus, O., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Young Paul Dean, strike out king of the American Association, pitched the Columbus Red Birds, champions of the league, to an 8 to 4 victory over Buffalo, International league champions, today and squared the Little World series at one game each.

Dean was removed when the Bisons scored a run in the sixth with two out and Winford came in to end the threat by forcing Smith to roll out. The Bisons got only eight hits off the combined deliveries of Dean and Winford while the Birds were hammering Wilson and Gould for ten.

An all night rain and threatening skies this morning held the crowd down to 8,000, but the playing field was in excellent condition.

A five run assault in the fourth inning gave the Association titleholders an advantage they held to the finish. Three singles, a double, and home runs by Cullop and Rothrock figured in the rally. Heath of Columbus and Tucker of the Bisons also connected for homers.

The third game of the five out of nine series will be played here tomorrow night. Score:

LEGION TO HOLD NATIONAL GOLF TOURNEY MONDAY

Expect 300 Will Compete at Olympia Fields.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Par on all four courses at Oylmpia Fields will be subjected to a 36 hole bombardment laid down by the brassies and mashies of more than 300 golfers next Monday when the American Legion holds its national golf tournament at the world's largest club.

The tournament is open to all members of the Legion in good standing, whether professionals or amateurs. The entry fee is two dollars. Advance entries should be forwarded to H. Elton Pease, general chairman of the golf committee, 6433 Ravenswood avenue. Entries also will be accepted at the tee next Monday morning, but advance registrations will be given preference in starting times.

The two major prizes in the tournament will be the Army trophy and the Navy trophy, but there will also be a number of prizes for low gross and low net for those who do not play the full 36 holes. There will also be four man team events, winners to be determined by the lowest scores turned in by the players of each state and post. Not more than two players from one post or three players from one state will be grouped together.

The Chicago District Golf association will hold two events this week, a one day handicap tournament at Olympia Fields tomorrow, the eighth of the 1933 series, and its first Champion of Champions tournament on Friday at Rolling Green. The association's final handicap event, scheduled for Oct. 4 at Westmoor, has been shifted to Oct. 3 because of a conflict with the dates of other tournaments.

Brookwood Country club will hold its annual invitational tournament tomorrow, as will the Aurora Country club. Bunker Hill, defending champion, will be host to other members of the Northwest Golf league Thursday, on which day Bob O' Link will hold its annual Harvest Home festival. Onwentsia's annual Pow Wow will take place on Saturday and Sunday.

IOWA TO SEND TRACK TEAM TO CUBA NEXT YEAR

Iowa City, Ia., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—University of Iowa's 1934 track and field team will compete in Cuba and California, according to the plans of Coach George T. Bresnahan.

The Hawkeye coach announced today that an eight man team has been invited to Havana next summer for a series of exhibition meets and a summer coaching school. He said that membership on the team will be open to all students in the university, so freshman track stars will be eligible.

Iowa also will be represented in the National Collegiate meet at Los Angeles June 22 and 23, as expense money for the meet will be prorated among the universities which have placed high in past years. The Hawkeyes have only once been below sixth place in the national meet since it was started in 1921, and have been third twice.

DOMESTIC BONDS MOVE LOWER IN LIGHT TRADING

U. S. Governments and Foreign Issues Gain.

BOND AVERAGES

DOMESTIC.	Yest. aver.	Net chge.
Rails	66.16	— .22
Industrials	79.81	— .43
Utilities	74.69	—.31
Combined	72.70	— .30

FOREIGN.	Yest.	Net change—Day.	Month.	Year.
10 gov't issues.	101.35	+ .34	—2.21	+5.91

New York, Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Activity in the listed bond market slowed down perceptibly today, following the heavy dealings last week. Today's transactions amounted to less than $9,401,000. Domestic corporation bonds moved irregularly lower, while foreign loans and United States government issues were generally higher.

With the exception of a single issue, all of the long term United States government issues closed 1-32d to 1-32ds point higher on the day. The exception was the fourth Liberty 4½s, which sold off 1-32d. Closing prices, as a rule, were at or near the highs for the day.

German Loans Recover.

In the foreign group, German loans, which had been under considerable pressure last week, recovered fractionally to more than 4 points, with the government 7s and 5½s both up 1¾. Both issues of Austrian government bonds were up 3 points, while United Kingdom loans were down ¾ of a point to 2½ points. Dutch East Indies issues receded fractionally to 2½ points for the day. Latin-American loans were dull.

Except in issues which have not been traded in several days, there were few losses of great consequence in the domestic corporation list.

Changes in Active Issues.

Among the most active issues, American Smelting and Refining 5s, due 1947, closed of 1⅛; Chesapeake corporation 5s, due 1947, off 1¼; Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific 5s, due 1975, off ¼, and the road's adjustment 5s, due 2000, off ⅞; Chicago and North Western convertible 4½s, off 1¼; St. Joseph Lead 5½s, due 1941, off 2; and American and Foreign Power 5s, due 2030, unchanged.

Domestic bonds on the curb exchange showed a little better degree of firmness than in the case of domestic issues on the big board. Foreign loans on the curb, notably German issues, finished higher.

Wisconsin Michigan Power.

Investors' Guide: Your opinion of Wisconsin Michigan Power preferred will be awaited by me.—D. A. U.

Answer: Wisconsin Michigan Power company furnishes electricity in the Fox river valley of Wisconsin and in the mining and manufacturing territory in the upper peninsula of Michigan. It also supplies gas to three cities and some motor bus service. It serves a population of 186,000 in 134 communities.

The company is controlled by North American Edison company, which in turn is a subsidiary of North American company.

Gross for the 12 months to June 30, 1933, was about 14 per cent under gross for the preceding 12 months. Preferred dividends were earned 1.47 times, against 2.78 times for the 12 months to June 30, 1932.

Net income in 1932 equaled $11.59 per preferred share, against $17.52 in 1931, $23.78 in 1930, and $32.97 in 1929.

Current assets on June 30, 1933, totaled $837,000 and current liabilities were $754,000. The earliest bond maturity is 1957.

Is a Broker Necessary?

Investors' Guide: Please tell me how I may buy securities without going to a broker. I find it expensive buying through a broker.—Mrs. W. S.

Answer: The function of a broker is to bring the buyer and seller together. For this service he charges a fee. If you yourself can find some one who wants to sell his stock you would not need the services of a broker. Otherwise a broker would be necessary to perform this service for you.

Gold Mining Co.

Investors' Guide: I am in possession of several thousand shares of Gold Mining company stock, dated Aug. 3, 1914. It is impossible for me to find out here in the city anything about it; not even the best banks could tell me.—S. J. F.

Answer: A Gold Mining company was advertised as defunct and inoperative on Sept. 22, 1915. No value was found for its stock for inheritance tax purpose.

QUICK DECISION ON U. S. MONEY PLAN FORECAST

Program Calls for 12 Billion Dollars.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

With the markets caught between the rumors of inflation and the talk of stabilization and prices stagnating because of absence of buying, the trend of government borrowing and spending indicates that a decision one way or the other cannot be long delayed.

In addition to ordinary expenses the federal government is embarked upon a twelve billion dollar credit expansion and job making program.

Some of this money has been already hypothecated but the bulk of it is to come. The Reconstruction Finance corporation is legally authorized to extend 3 billion 430 millions which must be provided by the treasury, plus an indefinite amount for loans to banks and agricultural credit organizations.

Division of Expenditures.

The public works administration is authorized to spend 3 billions 300 millions, half of which has been allotted but not yet advanced by the treasury. The federal home loan banks are to get 125 millions and the emergency relief administration 500 millions. The farm mortgage relief plan calls for 2 billion 200 millions and the home owners loan corporation plan a like amount, not all of which, however, is to be cash advanced by the treasury.

Added to this 12 billions there is the new plan to release up to six and a third billions of frozen deposits in banks still closed, but not in process of liquidation. How much federal cash would be needed to carry out this plan nobody has presumed to guess.

Then there are the banks now open, but insufficiently liquid to qualify for the deposit guaranty scheme which is to be placed in operation by January first. The RFC proposed to supply the necessary cash in these cases by subscribing to the banks' preferred stock, the money again to be supplied by the treasury. How much in this case nobody knows.

Plan to Help "All Banks."

According to the RFC plan not only the banks in need of additional capital but other banks as well are to sell preferred stock to the RFC so that no raw distinctions may be made in the public mind as to which banks got RFC cash because they needed it and which took it for patriotic reasons. For these banks, too, the treasury must provide the cash supplied by the RFC.

The piling of billion on dizzy billion has caused financial leaders to become utterly befogged in their attempts to estimate just how much financing the federal government will have to do in order to provide the necessary cash.

Atop all this financing to supply cash for the planned economy there is other financing that the treasury must carry out in order to meet maturing obligations. On Dec. 15, 727 millions of maturing treasury certificates and notes must be met. On March 15, another 460 millions come due and on May 2, 244 millions more, and on Aug. 1, another 345 millions.

Need Confidence in Money.

The sale of billions of dollars worth of government bonds demands a steady market and, above all, confidence on the part of the public that there will be no further inflation.

During the last week talk of currency stabilization has acted as a brake on commodity and stock markets, but the market for government bonds needs more than talk of stabilization if it is to absorb big new offerings. There must be definite assurance of actual stabilization.

That leads to this question: Can there be actual stabilization if the administration adheres to the program of spending all the billions that it has laid out to spend. The purpose of this spending is to raise prices and increased prices with the dollar off the gold basis, say the economists, means advancing premium on foreign currencies and a declining dollar. This again, means inflation and further inflation threatens to demoralize a government bond market already a little groggy.

Sale of government bonds to the federal reserve banks would not solve the problem, for the public has been educated to regard purchases of large quantities of government bonds by the reserve banks as just as inflationary as the printing of greenbacks.

What About Politics.

Then there is the political angle. A further price rise of 50 per cent has been promised the farmers on their produce. The acreage reduction and hog killing plans to date have had disappointing results from a price raising standpoint. The farmer's goods have not even risen as much as the dollar has declined, so that their value in terms of gold is as, in some cases actually below the gold value earlier in the year.

The agrarian element is being educated by politicians to believe that inflation would do what crop reduction hasn't done to date. Whether it would do that is beside the point. The demand is there and is bound to be expressed at the winter session of congress.

The pressure for drastic inflation, therefore, is double edged and is becoming stronger daily.

Meanwhile the stock and commodity markets are demoralized. To make a market and keep prices advancing there must be commitments. Commitments are made for two reasons, either through confidence in a healthy economy, with advancing prices or through lack of confidence in money and the desire to hedge against inflation.

Change to Lack of Confidence.

For a time there were rising prices because of a flight from money to things. But talk of inflation, even though there has been no actual move toward stabilization, has resulted now

Reopen 129 Banks; Free 398 Millions

Washington, D. C., Sept. 25.—(AP)—In the last six weeks President Roosevelt's campaign to rehabilitate the nation's banking structure has reopened 129 institutions and made $398,134,000 in previously frozen deposits available to the depositors of 265 banks.

The result is that 14,080 banks are operating on an unrestricted basis with deposits of $31,930,275,000, and 2,575 holding deposits of $1,765,669,000 are still unlicensed. The reorganization plans of more than 200 have been approved, and they will be permitted to resume operations as soon as they make required additions to their capital. In the reorganizations, many of the old banks are being absorbed.

Find Credit Expands Slowly.

The slowness with which credit is going to industry was emphasized by today's weekly federal reserve board statement summarizing the conditions of banks in 90 leading cities as of Sept. 20. Total loans of $8,560,000,000 were reported, $36,000,000 less than the figure for the week previous and $710,000,000 less than that of the corresponding date in 1932. The banks of these cities increased their deposits in reserve banks by $7,000,000 to a total of $1,883,000,000.

As part of a plan to expedite payments to depositors of banks in receivership, the Home Owners' Loan corporation tonight announced a decision by J. F. T. O'Connor, controller of the currency, that receivers might exchange slow assets for bonds of the corporation. Such an exchange heretofore has been specifically prohibited.

RFC Reports on Loans.

The Reconstruction Finance corporation today reported that during August it authorized advances aggregating $111,495,529. Receipts of the corporation during the month amounted to $154,175,390 and expenditures totaled $149,064,634.

The corporation sold $70,000,000 in notes to the treasury, making a total of $1,690,000,000 of notes outstanding at the close of business on Aug. 31.

The report showed $51,314,852 was authorized as loans to banks, trust companies, railroads and various financial institutions. A total of $45,240,482 was turned over to the federal relief administration for loans to distressed states. That brought the amount disbursed under the new act to $124,973,472 as of Aug. 31.

Of the loans to financial institutions, $36,178,287 went to banks and trust companies. This included $17,381,800 to aid in the reorganization or liquidation of banks closed or in process of liquidation. Nearly $17,000,000 went to Michigan banks.

Other Advances Listed.

Other advances were listed as follows: To building and loan associations, $888,151; insurance companies, $650,000; mortgage loan companies, $3,776,400; to the Federal Land bank at Omaha, $2,000,000; to agricultural credit corporations, $76,730; live stock credit corporations, $400,000; regional agricultural credit corporations, $3,483,282, and to the Chicago and North Western Railway company, $3,862,000.

Although 11 Illinois banks received authorization for Reconstruction Finance corporation loans during August, only two had called for the money by the end of the month. The First National bank of Greenfield, Ill., and the First National bank of Leland, Ill., were the two banks that called for their authorized loans of $69,000 and $9,000, respectively.

SEEK CREDIT MEN TO AID DEPOSIT INSURANCE CORP.

New York, Sept. 25.—[Special.]—The Deposit Insurance corporation, created under the banking act of 1933, has issued a request to the banks of the country for a "loan" of 2,500 credit men to supplement its staff of bank examiners in scrutinizing applicants for membership in the corporation. The corporation also has requested a "loan" of all examiners of the federal reserve banks and of all national bank examiners under the controller of the currency.

It is expected that the corporation will also make use of examiners maintained by various clearing house associations throughout the country and will call upon the state banking authorities and their staffs for help.

With the aid of large staffs thus accumulated the corporation is about to tackle the staggering task of examining most of the 14,000 banks of the country between now and Jan. 1, when the temporary insurance fund goes into effect.

Begin Check in Illinois.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Preliminary steps were being taken today to set up machinery for insuring deposits of downstate non-federal reserve banks under the new Glass-Steagall law.

B. J. Bleakley, supervising examiner for the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, and William D. Baine, chief state bank examiner, announced that fifteen to twenty bank examiners would commence next week to select banks eligible for deposit insurance participation.

Dollar Turns Up and Down; Gains on Day

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 25.—After a swift rise in the foreign exchange markets of Paris and London early today, the dollar sagged this afternoon. It jumped 1½ cents to the equivalent of more than 66 cents in gold value abroad, but was receding when the New York market opened.

First quotations here were equivalent of about 66 cents. Thereafter the dollar declined slowly to 65.55, but still was more than half a cent above Saturday's close.

Early indications were that a quick change of sentiment had swept the exchange markets.

Inflation Chance Dimmer.

President Roosevelt's refusal to fall in line with the inflationist agitators, the continued criticism of currency issues by Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace, and the conference of the President and his advisers to concentrate their efforts on a drive to expand bank credit, all convinced the speculative element that they had been "barking up the wrong tree" when they sold the dollar short last week.

Apparently they began to cover their short positions. Others who had refrained from buying dollars in the belief that they would go lower probably purchased them.

French Franc Drops.

The French franc dropped more than 15 points in the Paris market to 5.90¼, equivalent to 66.41 cents for the dollar. The franc opened in New York at 5.94, down about 11 points. Later it rallied to 6.001 cents, but closed at 5.98 cents.

Sterling fell five cents to $4.73 in terms of the dollar, but was stronger against the gold currencies. It rallied to $4.75¾ afterward, but closed at $4.74½.

The Canadian dollar reacted 3-16 cent to 97 11-16 cents. German marks were off to 36.80 cents, and Italian lire were down to 8.06¼ cents.

SARGENT VIEWS FUTURE BRIGHT; RELATES NEEDS

Sioux Falls, S. D., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Fred W. Sargent, Chicago, president of the North Western railroad, predicted here today that the American people will emerge from the depression "richer and wiser." He is en route to the Black hills.

He characterized the country's present condition as a "great tidal wave of social change." And declared that out of it "I expect no serious consequences." He offered three suggestions aimed to aid in hurrying recovery, as follows:

1—The federal government should settle the question of inflation, for the threat of it is probably greater than the evil itself.

2—Seven and one-half billion dollars in frozen assets in closed banks should be liquidated, thus effecting a reflation of the country's money in this amount.

3—The American people should back the NRA program, both publicly and privately.

Business Failures in Week Drop to Lowest in Years

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 25.—The reduction in the number of business failures continued with the total for the week ended Sept. 22 showing 259 such defaults, according to Dun & Bradstreet, Inc. This is the lowest number recorded for a full week in many years.

In the corresponding week of last year there were 529 similar defaults, the reduction this year being 51 per cent. For the same week of 1931 the number was 483.

INQUIRIES RECEIVED BY INVESTORS' GUIDE PASS 325,000 MARK

Yesterday saw the total number of inquiries received by the Investors' Guide of THE TRIBUNE pass the 325,000 mark. The total in the 19 years of its existence, since June 4, 1914, was 325,021.

The bulk of the receipts has been during the last few years. In 1932 the department received 23,869 inquiries, a fraction of 1 per cent less than the 23,928 received in 1931. In 1930 the total was 21,449, against 20,571 in 1929, 16,377 in 1928, and 14,512 in 1927.

This performance in the face of the drying up of the general securities market is attributed to several factors. The inquirer can feel confident that he will receive a personal reply to his questions, that his name will be held in confidence, and he knows that the information is obtained from an unbiased source, procured by an expert.

Furthermore, the service has constantly sought to adjust itself to the needs of the investor. When real estate bonds began to default in wholesale numbers and no information concerning them was procurable by bondholders, a separate division was established to obtain information for them. When a wave of hysteria concerning insurance companies swept the country, more and more emphasis was placed on insurance companies in the daily column of Investors' Guide.

DRAKE SECURITY HOLDERS OBTAIN HOTEL CONTROL

The Drake hotel yesterday passed into another phase of ownership when it was sold at a bankruptcy sale by Referee Garfield Charles to the Drake Management company for $10,000.

It is understood that the management company is backed by the Metropolitan Life Insurance company of New York, holders of a lien amounting to nearly $2,000,000 against the hotel, and a group of Chicagoans, headed by Benjamin H. Marshall, architect, who are holders of a large block of stock in the old hotel company.

Operation of the hotel will be by the Drake Management company, of which it was reported Mr. Marshall will be president. Edwin L. Brashiers, one of the purchasing group, will be general manager, it was said.

Purchase of the hotel for the specified amount is subject to such other liens as may exist against the hotel. What the new management company actually bought was the name, good will, and such physical property as was in possession of the Whitestone Management corporation, operators of the hotel.

The sale yesterday was what will probably be the final phase of the legal tangles in which the hotel has been involved for the last year or so. The Metropolitan Life Insurance company forced the hotel into equity receivership about a year ago, and several months later it was thrown into bankruptcy. It has been operated in receivership since that time.

LIFE INSURANCE MEN MEET TODAY; 4,000 EXPECTED

The forty-fourth annual convention of the National Association of Life Underwriters will open this morning at the Stevens hotel, with an attendance of 4,000 expected.

Today will be devoted to group sessions of general agents and managers. The first general session will be held tomorrow, when Mayor Edward J. Kelly and Ernest Palmer, insurance commissioner of Illinois, will extend greetings to the convention.

At the general session tomorrow Lester O. Schriver of Peoria, Ill., will speak on "The Theme of the Convention"; Herman A. Behrens of Chicago, president of the Continental Assurance and Casualty companies, on "Life Insurance and the New Deal"; Arthur Huxby of London, England, on "England's Leading Producer's Point of View"; and Howard O. Edmonds, vice president of the Northern Trust company of Chicago, on "The Code of the Corporate Fiduciary."

Speakers on Thursday will be Dr. S. S. Huebner of Philadelphia, John R. Hastie of Chicago, Clay W. Hamlin of Buffalo, and George S. Van Schaick, insurance superintendent, New York.

TAXES FORCE PEOPLES GAS TO OMIT DIVIDEND

Earnings Reduced by New Levies.

Directors of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, which supplies Chicago gas, late yesterday voted to omit the usual quarterly dividend of $1 a share.

A statement mailed to the stockholders by James Simpson, chairman, said that current earnings are not sufficient to pay the usual dividend. Gross earnings, he said, have been running substantially below last year, due to decreased consumption of gas and rate reductions, effective July 1.

While controllable expenses were reduced by $1,200,000 from Jan. 1 to August 31, compared with the corresponding period last year, uncontrollable expenses have increased considerably, according to Mr. Simpson.

Taxes Reduce Income.

"Our operating expenses, due to reasons beyond the control of the directors or officers, have increased in many directions," says Mr. Simpson. "Uncontrollable expenses, such as state, local, and federal taxes, interest, compliance with the NRA code, and the imposition of the new 2 per cent Illinois retailers' occupational tax [the so-called 'sales tax'] are substantially increased.

"Both the sales tax and the increases in state and local taxes are being contested by the company in the courts, but meantime it is obliged to establish reserves against them. The result is that the net profit does not permit any further dividend disbursement at this time."

Rap Pleas for Rate Cuts.

Sharp criticism of efforts to force the company to lower its rates still further is voiced in the letter to stockholders.

"The directors believe that during this period of national recovery, when industry is striving to carry out the program of the President of the United States and is dealing with problems heretofore unknown in our business history, the activities of state regulatory bodies seeking rate reductions should be suspended, if not dropped entirely, to give the national administration an opportunity to work out its difficult task and the utilities an opportunity to survive.

"Further rate reductions are now being sought from the company, and if ordered it will be necessary for the company to take recourse to the courts. The Chicago District Pipeline company, a subsidiary, is now contesting in the courts an order of the Illinois commerce commission, entered June 16, directing a drastic reduction in its natural gas rates.

Refute "Unwarranted Charges."

"The unwarranted charges against the company recently appearing in a Chicago morning newspaper have been refuted by testimony before the Illinois commerce commission, and we believe from numerous sources of information that public opinion, always reasonable and fair in its deliberations, has condemned this attack.

"It is the purpose of the company to give its customers the best possible service at the lowest possible rates and, at the same time, to pay a reasonable return to the stockholders. This ideal the directors will rigidly adhere to, believing that with improving conditions and fair treatment by the Illinois commerce commission, the company will be brought to a position where dividends can be resumed. Although some signs of improvement have recently been noticeable, no material effect of this has as yet been experienced."

Mr. Simpson says that the company's properties are being maintained in a high state of efficiency and that it is in a sound and solvent condition.

Sinclair Action in New York.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 25.—Because of reductions of rates imposition of additional city excise taxes and refusal of the public service commission to grant applications for authority to issue bonds which would permit the company to reimburse its treasury for capital expenditures, the directors of the New York and Richmond Gas company have voted to defer action on the preferred dividend payable on Oct. 1.

Prices of Grain Decline, Then Score Good Rally

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Grain traders who were free buyers of futures as the markets closed Saturday, on expectations of favorable developments at Washington over the week-end, sold their holdings early yesterday due to lack of sensational news, and spent the rest of the day trying to get the grain back.

Wheat broke around 2½ cents and corn 2 cents at or shortly after the start, but the lost ground was recovered before the close. Wheat finished unchanged to ⅛ cent higher and corn ¼ cent higher to ¼ cent lower.

There was nothing in the general run of the news to account for the erratic action of the markets, and in the main they represented speculative operations. December wheat dropped to 89⅜ cents early and was back to 92⅛ to 92¼ cents at the close, while May was 96⅝ to 96½ cents at the last.

Corn Prices Also Rally.

December corn, after selling at 50⅝ cents, rallied to 52½ to 52⅝ cents, with the May at 58¾ cents. Oats were unchanged to ¼ cent lower with December 40½ to 40⅝ cents. Rye showed independent strength due to commission house buying and gained 2¼ to 3¼ cents for the day with December closing at 74 cents. Barley was up 1¼ to 1⅜ cents with December quoted at 60¼ cents.

Primary receipts of wheat yesterday dropped to 827,000 bushels, compared with 1,856,000 bushels a year ago, said to be the first time since the new crop started to move in volume arrivals have dropped below 1,000,000 bushels for the first day in the week. Som. traders in close touch with the northwest expect the movement to remain small from now on. A reduction in hedging pressure in consequence is regarded as inevitable. There was some buying of wheat futures during the day credited to mills, and also for the east.

Winnipeg wheat closed unchanged to ¼ cent higher, failing to follow the early decline in Chicago. Export demand, however, was relatively slow. Liverpool was off 1¼ to 1⅝ cents for the day, a sharp break in sterling being a factor.

Less Pressure on Corn.

There was no material pressure on corn except for a brief period early, and the market responded quickly later to moderate buying. Country offerings to arrive were relatively small, as has been the case for several days. Only 35,000 bushels were booked during the day by local handlers.

Despite reports indicating one or two cargoes of northwestern rye were due to arrive here in a day or so, commission houses became good buyers of rye and with a lack of pressure the market ran up quickly, closing at the top. There was also a moderate commission house demand for barley.

PORT CHURCHILL GRAIN SHIPMENTS SO SMALL IT MAY CLOSE EARLY

The emptying of government elevators at Churchill and the failure of grain shippers and exporters to send new grain over the Hudson bay route threaten a cessation of shipping activities at the port fully a month before the end of the season, according to Vice Consul Stanley Lawson at Winnipeg.

In 1932, 2,736,000 bushels of grain and 882 tons of flour were exported from Churchill. Some 2,400,000 bushels were stored in the dominion elevator during the winter and shipped this season. Only 6,000 bushels of wheat are reported to have been shipped to Churchill this season.

STEWART BOARD FAILS TO NAME NEW PRESIDENT

Joseph E. Otis Jr., executive vice president and general manager, continues as the active head of the corporation.

R. J. Graham, chairman of the board, said that "during the last two months there has been such a gratifying increase in the business of the Stewart-Warner corporation that the board of directors at their meeting devoted most of their time discussing plans for coördinating and still further enlarging the company's business."

TREASURY SELLS BILLS TO YIELD ONLY 1-10 OF 1%

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 25.—The United States treasury will pay interest at the rate of only 1-10 of 1 per cent on its latest issue of discount bills. Secretary Woodin announced tonight that subscriptions for the $75,000,000 issue, which has the usual 91 days maturity, totaled $196,624,000, of which $75,082,000 was accepted.

The accepted bids ranged in price from 99.908, equivalent to a rate of about .08 per cent a year, to 99.972, equivalent to a rate of about .11 per cent. The average price on the accepted bids was 99.976, equivalent to a yield of about .10 per cent a year on a bank discount basis.

UNION OF GRAIN PIT, EXCHANGE TALKED OF AGAIN

Consider Move in Developing Center.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

As plans went forward yesterday for building up Chicago's securities markets talk in La Salle street again veered around to the possibility of a consolidation of the Board of Trade and the Stock exchange. Great as the obstacles in such a merger appear to be, the question was being talked of seriously among brokers.

Influential traders on both exchanges are known to favor such a move, but all attempts in the past to bring about a merger have been defeated. The present need of providing a ready and highly liquid market in securities now listed here but not actively traded is again bringing the subject to the fore.

Big Speculators Are Needed.

The greatest drawback of Chicago's present security market facilities, brokers assert, is the lack of speculators who are willing to make large commitments. Without this speculative element to provide a ready market the acquisition of additional listings on the Chicago exchanges will not necessarily bring additional trading here, brokers contend.

It is argued by those favoring a merger of the two exchanges that such a move would go a long way to overcome this handicap. The success of the board of trade in maintaining a ready market in commodities has been due in a large measure to the presence of a large number of big scale speculators whose operations have had the effect of minimizing violent price fluctuations.

Trade in New York.

Generally speaking the big traders in the grain pit have also been heavy speculators in stocks. Their stock trading, however, has been carried on in the New York markets.

The Chicago Stock exchange listings now include a number of important stocks which are not actively traded. The greatest need, many brokers declare, is not additional listings but the establishment of ready markets in securities already listed.

Officials of the two exchanges declined to comment yesterday on the possibility of working out a consolidation. They were inclined to minimize the likelihood of such a move.

Meanwhile the Chicago Association

MANUFACTURED SILK UP 20 TO 50 PCT. SINCE JUNE

Dollar Fluctuations and NRA Factors.

Fluctuations in the price of the dollar—now valued at around 65 cents in terms of gold basis currency—and the operations of the NRA have resulted in wholesale and retail prices for manufactured silk advancing 20 to 50 per cent since June. The price of basic grade raw silk in Japan has increased from around $1.10 early in April to about $1.78 at present, due to the law of supply and demand plus fluctuations of the dollar in terms of the yen.

These explanations for the advance in manufactured and raw silk prices were given yesterday by a number of Chicago silk authorities.

"Raw silk made a sharp advance from its low of $1.0s a pound early in April almost entirely on the talk of inflation," one broker asserted. "It reached its high of $2.40 a pound in June when inflation talk sent prices of wheat and other commodities skyrocketing.

Silk Hosiery Sells Higher.

"When silk hit $2.40 a pound, knitting mills raised the prices of silk hosiery 50 to 60 cents a dozen. When these increases were put into effect hosiery sold at wholesale for $4.50 to $4.60 a dozen.

"Then along came the NRA which increased the cost of manufacturing considerably. The prices of hosiery were advanced to $6.25 and $6.75 a dozen, with an average at $6.50 a dozen. However, when the prices of commodities crashed, the prices of the finished products were not reduced proportionately to those of the raw materials. When silk hosiery was selling at $4 a dozen manufacturers were not making a profit and the increase should put their operations on a profitable basis.

"While inflation talk was responsible for the major part of the increase in the silk price to $2.40 a pound, there were other factors. One was the position of the rayon industry. It will be recalled that when silk was at its high the rayon mills were operating at capacity, with the market faced by a shortage in supply. The rayon supply has been widened and serves as a threat against the price of silk.

Raw Silk Now Fairly Stable.

"Since July raw silk prices have been pretty well stabilized at $1.65 to $1.85 a pound. Raw silk a year ago sold at $1.71 to $1.74 a pound. The Japanese yen a year ago was quoted at 29.75 cents, while today it is quoted at approximately 28.65 cents in terms of American currency. The yen is off the gold basis along with the dollar and as the dollar weakens against the yen the price of raw silk should be affected."

An official of a large wholesale house said that one grade of flat crêpe silk which last spring sold at 35 cents a yard now brings 62½ cents a yard. A silk satin which sold at 60 cents now sells at 95 cents. A year ago at this time the satin silk sold at 65 cents a yard and then, when there was a brief upturn, it advanced to 75 cents a pound, but receded to 60 cents.

Besides the operations of the NRA, he said, increases in wages of persons engaged in the dyeing industry have boosted silk prices. Workers are now on a strike and if they get their demands, further price increases may be expected, he said.

N. Y. LAW BLOCKS SALE OF BANKS' STOCKS TO RFC

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 25.—There are more reasons than mere obstinacy for the opposition of New York City banks to the Reconstruction Finance corporation's proposal that they sell preferred stock to it. So far as the state chartered banks are concerned, the plan is out of the question, for, under the constitution of the state, banks can have only common stock.

The alternative, which would be to sell debentures to the RFC seems impossible to the banks. None of them wants to carry as the first item of its liabilities a loan from the government agency. National banks could comply with the desire of the RFC but when the larger banks are already having trouble trying to employ the money they now have, they have no inclination to secure new money at 5 per cent interest.

Smaller banks throughout the New York federal reserve district, however, are showing signs of being more amenable to the plan. It is recognized that before the year's end, when the deposit insurance plan begins, preferred stock of banks will be fairly common and no particular stigma will attach to reporting it in balance sheets.

SUES TO BLOCK ASSOCIATED GAS FINANCE PLANS

Wilmington, Del., Sept. 25.—(AP)—An injunction against carrying out of the recapitalization plan for the Associated Gas and Electric system is asked in a bill of complaint filed in Chancery court today by Tessie Berwick, owner of $30,000 in debentures of the Associated Gas and Electric company, a New York corporation.

The company, the Associated Gas and Electric corporation, past and present directors of the two, and the Associated Gas and Electric Securities company, Inc., are named as defendants.

It is alleged in the bill of complaint that regardless of the financial difficulties in which the New York corporation and the system find themselves, and in disregard of the rights of the holders of the company's debentures, the corporation, the individual defendants and the securities company have proposed that the system be recapitalized.

STOCKS DECLINE ON DOLLAR RISE; FINISH FIRMER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 25.—Stocks dragged along at moderately lower levels in dull business today as the speculative clan continued to grope about for a good reason to buy.

Activities started off at lower prices and further ground was given up as the dollar worked higher, but there was gradual improvement in undertone as trading wore on. Closing prices were mostly lower, but outside of one or two weak groups—notably gold and mining shares—changes were curtailed. Turnover was smaller at 1,304,000 shares.

Early selling was traced to strength in the dollar, which in turn was inspired by indications in Washington that the administration is still shying away from inflation at this time. The chilling effect of this, however, was offset by prospects for expansion of credit.

Tone Better in Last Hour.

By mid-afternoon the dollar had lost the bulk of its overnight advance, and this, combined with a rally in wheat and cotton, made for a better tone in stocks in the final hour. Trading was regarded as largely professional in origin. The market's general weakness was due less to liquidation than to the absence of nearby bids.

Oils were a relatively strong group. Extending its rise of last week on news of the find of a big new Texas well, Seaboard climbed more than 3 points on the day. Tidewater rose a fraction, with the others steady at levels slightly under previous closings.

Rails relinquished about a point on the average, despite belief that they had been thoroughly liquidated and were due for a rally. New York Central was offered quite freely. Selling of carriers possibly was due to indications of slowness of major industries to advance under the NRA. On the other hand, net operating income of the first seventeen roads reporting for August was nearly double that for the same period last year.

Gold Shares Hardest Hit.

Gold stocks were hit hardest by the reaction to sound money statements, the rally in the dollar and a lower price for the metal. Homestake was nicked for a loss of 20 points on the day. Mining shares generally were lower, the division apparently still suffering from the weight of speculative overbuying. United States Smelting closed off 6 points. Other conspicuous recessions included American Smelting, Cerro de Pasco, Home, International Nickel and McIntyre.

Much of the selling was directed against the sensitive alcohol group. National Distillers was down 3⅜ at the end.

U. S. Steel was down a point or so most of the time, but the steel group was neglected as traders watched a conference between President Roosevelt and steel company chiefs with the reported purpose of adjusting prices and bringing the railroads into the steel market on a more substantial scale.

Pivotal industrial shares ruled a point lower, and the same was true of utilities. Among the motors, Chrysler's loss matched that of General Motors, both turnovers being sizable. Lower wheat prices depressed Case and other farm machinery shares, together with mail orders.

COTTON LOWER

Pressure on cotton from various interests, while not considered heavy at any time, was sufficient to create uneasiness and a lowering of prices. During the morning New York at one time was off 17 points, despite fair professional trading on both sides. Later in the day a fair rally was made. Lower sterling nullified the inflation talk and reports that Secretary of Agriculture Wallace was more sympathetic than the acreage reduction plan was to be a success, especially due to the 10-cent loan, had some effect, but the close was at net losses of 8 to 19 points in Chicago and 4 to 10 points in other markets. Spots in New York were off 10 points to 10.05 cents; New Orleans lost 5 points to 9.85 cents, with Houston and Galveston at practically the same.

NRA CAN'T BEAT ECONOMIC LAWS, SPENCER WARNS

Chicago Teacher Sees Shift in Trade Practice.

While the courses under the new program of the University of Chicago school of business at the downtown University college will include consideration of the modifications likely to result from the NRA, the national industrial recovery act has not made invalid the fundamentals of economics or business, according to Dean William H. Spencer of the school of business.

"The schools of business of today cannot afford to ignore the implications of the NRA and other developments in control, but they cannot assume that the old economy and its principles can be scrapped," Dean Spencer said.

Explains Causes for Act.

"The recovery act is a symptom of serious breakdowns in the economic machine, just as technocracy was. The government has chosen to apply control to business in the form of trade associations, which are to be quasi-governmental in character. But the capitalistic system is not going to disappear, and the fundamental of financing, marketing, personnel management, and the like will continue to be as important and probably more important, than before.

"The NRA may modify management in various respects. It may, for example, curtail inventiveness in industrial processes, the building of new plants

Sees Management Modified.

"Functions of financial management will be modified to a considerable extent, particularly by the securities law. There also will be some curtailment of the extension of old businesses and the establishment of new ones, but the technique of sound financial management is more important than ever. Personnel problems as never before require sound management.

"It may be the type of labor unions in the future will be different from the present organization, which will be another phase of management that becomes important."
